29 Die, 100 Hurt, Damage Mounts

Storms, Floods Take Heavy Toll in Midwest

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Violent storms and floods, the spring season's two-pronged disaster weapon, took a heavy toll in deaths and injuries over the weekend across broad sections of the mid-continent.

Property damage in the storm-battered sections of eight states was in the millions of dollars. Hundreds of persons were made temporarily homeless.

The flash floods and severe weather, including tornadoes, gusty winds, heavy rain and hail, were blamed for at least 29 deaths. Nearly 100 persons were injured.

Red Cross Gives Aid

The American Red Cross in St. Louis said arrangements were made to provide food, clothing, medical care and emergency shelter for an estimated 1,000 families in north central Arkansas, south-east Missouri, northeast Oklahoma, southern Illinois and Kansas.

Severe thunderstorms continued during the morning in many areas from Oklahoma and Kansas north-eastward through the middle and upper Mississippi Valley into the Great Lakes region.

Tornadoes struck six communities in Arkansas Sunday, killing four persons. Three others were drowned in swollen streams in the state. Included were two persons who lost their lives in a flash flood in Harrison, one of the hardest hit towns in the storm belt.

The twisters in Arkansas hit Midway, Whiteville, Clarkridge, Pindall, Summit and Oil Trough. Three persons were killed at Summit, near Yellville, and one person in Midway. About 40 homes were destroyed in a 20-mile area between Pindall and Yellville. Nineteen persons were hurt.

National Guard Called Out

National Guardsmen were sent into Harrison, a community of 6,500, after Gov. Orval E. Faubus declared martial law. Crooked Creek overflowed and sent a wall of water 14 feet high through the streets of the northwest Arkansas town. Two men drowned and an elderly couple was missing in Harrison. Damage was estimated by Mayor Dene O. Hester at $5 to $10 million. A youth drowned in flooded Sugar Creek near Springdale, the seventh storm-related death in Arkansas.

Tornadoes also pounded South Fork, Mo., about 60 miles northeast of the severe storm area in Arkansas, injuring eight persons. A dozen persons were hurt in a tornado which hit an area of Kan. (Continued on Page 8, Col. 2)

Chamber Member Drive Reported Very Gratifying

Early Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce renewals are reported very gratifying. By Saturday, only six days after the beginning of the fiscal year, 133 membership renewals had been received. In addition 28 new membership applications had been turned in.

Tuesday the board of directors will meet at 7:30 p. m. in the Governor Clinton Hotel for their regular monthly meeting. Membership drive progress reports will be given, in addition to a full agenda of other business.

During the coming year the Chamber of Commerce will place special emphasis on industrial and trade development, planning, park and recreation facilities, education at all levels, legislative activities, safety promotion, convention promotion and problems relating to traffic movement and parking.

This Week Last To Enroll for Concert Series

Encouraging first reports lent impetus to the final week of the Kingston Community Concerts Association membership drive Sunday afternoon as workers met in a concerted effort to enroll the complete membership of more than 1500 for the ninth consecutive season of sold-out houses.

The Boston Pops Orchestra with Arthur Fiedler, conducting; Metropolitan Opera Star mezzo-soprano, Rise Stevens; and the violin virtuoso, Jaime Laredo, have been signed. Attendance at the concerts is by membership card only which must be obtained this week.

Hours from 9:30 to 4:30
Headquarters for the drive will be open daily from 9:30 a. m. to 4:30 p. m. through Friday and to noon Saturday. Anyone is eligible to join simply by paying the membership dues this week.

Robert Geissinger, representative of the New York office of Community Concerts Association, will be in Kingston this week to assist workers in the campaign. At Sunday's meeting in the Governor Clinton Hotel, he spoke of the growing interest in America for music and live concerts. Last year he worked in the Maritime Provinces of Canada where there are more Community Concert Associations per land area than anywhere else in North America although the only income for the people is from farming and fishing.

Rusk Says That U. S. Is Staying in Berlin Despite Any Treaty

OSLO, Norway (AP) — Secretary of State Dean Rusk declared today the United States intends to maintain its presence in West Berlin even if the Russians sign a separate peace treaty with East Germany.

He told a conference of NATO foreign ministers that Premier Khrushchev should be left in no doubt on this point.

His statement was made at a closed meeting with the gist of his remarks given later to newsmen.

Anticipates Move

The American secretary of state said he anticipated that Khrushchev would pull the Berlin and German problem out of the bag soon.

Rusk pledged that the U.S. government will prevent any erosion of the Allied position in the divided German city and will seek to balk any Soviet move to sign a separate peace treaty with Communist East Germany.

Conference sources gave that summary of remarks made by Rusk to the foreign ministers of the other 14 NATO countries who began a three-day meeting today.

Behind closed doors Rusk elaborated on a prediction voiced earlier in the formal opening session by Dirk U. Stikker, the new NATO secretary-general. Stikker predicted that Khrushchev was about to revive the Berlin question, possibly in a new form.

Dormant Two Years

The intertwined Berlin and German problem—long regarded as the most dangerous cold war issue—has been largely dormant now for almost two years. Rusk thought that the Soviet Union now is about ready to make a new effort to pry the American, British and French garrisons out of West Berlin.

Conference sources said Rusk saw the situation this way: Soviet militancy can be expected to increase all around the periphery of the Western world. Khrushchev may seek to throw the Western world off balance by coming forward with a few conciliatory gestures.

Wants Fuller Consultation

Rusk wants fuller consultation between the 15 members of NATO. As an example, he spoke with great candor about Laos, South Viet Nam and Cuba—all areas where the Communist bloc is pressing the West.

Rusk said the happenings in those places are not isolated incidents but part of a coordinated Soviet testing of Western intentions and a probing for weak spots. He predicted that sort of thing would continue.

Rusk also reviewed the prospects for the deadlocked three-to-five nuclear test ban negotiations in Geneva. The Soviet demand for a three-man control board to replace a neutral ad-

President Emphasizes Flight Is Made Under Conditions of Full Publicity

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy today pinned a hero's medal on the nation's first spaceman, Cmdr. Alan B. Shepard Jr.

The President told Shepard the nation is proud of him and his fellow spacemen.

The 5,100-mile an hour flight through space last Friday, Kennedy said, was a common effort to which many contributed. "I want to express on behalf of us all the great pleasure we have in welcoming Cmdr. Shepard and Mrs. Shepard here today," Kennedy said in greeting the couple on the White House lawn.

Appreciated by Everyone

He added that everyone appreciates "the great service he has rendered our country."

"And we are also proud of Mrs. Shepard," Kennedy went on. He praised the other six astronauts and emphasized that "this was a common effort in which many were involved."

"So I think we'll give them all a hand," the President said.

The bystanders did. "I also want to pay a particular tribute to some who worked on this flight," Kennedy said, naming a number of National Aeronautics and Space Administration officials who worked on the flight that carried Shepard 115 miles into space Friday.

As he ticked off the roll of NASA officials Kennedy observed that the names are not too familiar.

Done for World to See

"If the flight had not been a success, the names would have been very familiar," he said with a smile.

He noted also that the flight was made under conditions of full publicity, in a free society willing to "risk much and gain much."

Shepard, his wife and the six men he beat out for the honor of the first American space trip had just flown to the White House by helicopter from Andrews Air Force Base in suburban Maryland. The astronauts flew in from Grand Bahama Island where Shepard had been under observation after his history-making feat. Mrs. Shepard was flown in just ahead of them from Virginia Beach, Va.

A hazy overcast broke up just before the helicopters arrived. The helicopters landed in front of the White House south entrance where Kennedy, his wife and others were waiting.

Called a Civilian Award

Reading the citation to Shepard from NASA, Kennedy called it a "civilian award for a great civilian accomplishment."

"I want again to express our appreciation to Alan Shepard," he said. (Continued on Page 2, Col. 3)

Would Build Up Non-Nuclear Force

Rusk Wants More Talks Among NATO Forces

OSLO, Norway (AP)—Secretary of State Dean Rusk proposes that his North Atlantic Treaty Organization colleagues bolster their alliance by more cooperation among members and more non-nuclear military forces.

Rusk wants the 15 NATO members to increase their consultations with each other—to seek advice from their friends when their specific problems are in an early stage.

He wants NATO to build up its conventional military forces so it can answer a little fire alarm with something besides an all-out nuclear response.

Other Ministers Agree

The other ministers already agree with the goals Rusk seeks to attain. They are expected to give formal approval to both proposals during their three-day conference which opened today in Norway's picturesque capital.

Agreeing on goals is one thing. Achieving them will be a great deal harder.

The NATO allies have been talking about increasing consultation for 10 years and doing little about it. No foreign ministry finds it easy to share its worries and doubts with its closest associates.

But President Kennedy's administration is proposing to talk over all its problems in Southeast Asia, Europe and even in Latin America with the other NATO allies on condition that the other 14 members of the alliance are equally frank.

Early Policy Essential

An informant explained that a country formulates policy in the early stage of a problem. That is the time when the advice of an

Eichmann Witness Recalls Atrocities by SS Guard

JERUSALEM (AP)—A matronly Jewish woman told the Eichmann trial court today of being shot by men of the Nazi SS elite guard, falling into a mass grave, fighting her way up through bodies for air and surviving.

Mrs. Rifka Yosilevka, a native of Russia who was unable to testify last week because of a mild heart attack, was restrained on the witness stand. But her voice broke when she told of seeing her little daughter shot.

In the Pinsk area in 1942, she said, Jews were rounded up by the hundreds and taken to a burial pit.

Tells of Cruelties

Her account of what happened then held the 700 spectators spellbound at the 30th session of the trial of Adolf Eichmann, who is charged with being a chief accomplice in the Nazi extermination of six million Jews.

"We were taken, some in a truck and others forced to run behind it," Mrs. Yosilevka said. Those in the truck, arriving first, were stripped and shot by the time they got to the freshly dug pit. Her father refused to undress, she said, and his clothing was torn from him.

"There were four devils, SS men, they shot us. The children wanted to run. It was hard to hold on to them. We hurried, we were sort of anxious to get it all over. My mother, my grandmother, she was 80 years old and had a baby in her arms, my father, my sister.

Topples Into Ditch

"Then it came my turn. The German asked me 'Who shall I shoot first?' I did not answer.

Ninth-Graders Will Take New Approach to Geography

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—International political alignments, economic systems and culture patterns will be part of a new approach ninth-graders in New York State public schools will take to geography.

The State Education Department said the course would place new emphasis on Russia, Latin America, the Far East, Africa and other world cultures.

The department said in a statement today the course, "The Economic World," would be designed to give pupils understanding of how people live, how technical know-how and accumulated capital contribute to the raising of economic standards and how long-established cultural traditions may help or hinder political, social and economic progress.

At the same time, the department said pupils will still be taught place geography—the locations of rivers, mountains and capital cities.

The new course is part of a revised junior high school program in social studies. Gordon E. Van Hooft, chief of the Education Department's bureau of secondary curriculum development, said the ninth-grade course was the most significant revision.

These other changes will be made in the new school year: Seventh Grade — Regional geography will be emphasized in the course "Our Community and State." State history will receive greater attention and famous New Yorkers, particularly important governors, will be featured.

Eighth grade — A course on United States history is being brought up to date. The department said this course stresses the high adventure in the nation's past and highlights exploits of national heroes. Patriotism and respect for the flag are fostered the department said.

Pendergast Appears Victor In Wrangle About Patronage

NEW YORK (AP)—Democratic State Chairman Michael H. Pendergast appears to have won his fight with the Kennedy administration to serve as the channel for federal patronage distribution in New York, the New York Times said today.

An agreement ending the feud is scheduled to be sealed today at a meeting in the White House of Pendergast and Richard Maguire and Richard K. Donahue, patronage assistants to President Kennedy, the Times said.

Pendergast, reached at his home at Haverstraw, declined comment on the report.

Pendergast has been bypassed on patronage since the election. He recently has claimed that the patronage picture was brightening, and that he already had been in on some postmaster appointments.

Kennedy reportedly was displeased with the way Pendergast handled some aspects of last year's campaign in the state.

Federal jobs have been handed out largely through Democratic congressmen and party county chairmen.

The small flow of patronage has led to many demands that Pendergast resign. He has refused to do so and has said he will serve out his term which runs into next June.

Story Says in Part

The Times story today said in part:

The recognition of Pendergast will strengthen him in his fight with the Democratic insurgent group led by former U. S. Sen. Herbert H. Lehman, which is acting to collect system is as fair and economical as possible. (Continued on Page 8, Col. 4)

Tshombe Will Be Prosecuted Is Plan in Katanga

COQUILHATVILLE, the Congo (AP)—President Joseph Kasavubu's government says it will prosecute Katanga President Moïse Tshombe for treason and will try to bring his breakaway province back under central government control.

Foreign Minister Justin Bomboko told a news conference Tshombe would be tried for a series of crimes, including the assassination of former Prince Patrice Lumumba. Kasavubu himself had ordered Lumumba handed over to Tshombe to prevent his escaping custody and regaining control of the government.

Tshombe was arrested April 26 after he walked out of a meeting of Congolese leaders called to try to work out a new form of government for the strife-torn nation. Tshombe accused Kasavubu of "selling out" to the United Nations.

Bomboko said the Leopoldville government would use force if necessary to restore its control over Katanga, the Congo's rich mining province, which seceded from the republic soon after independence last summer.

Bomboko declined to specify just how Kasavubu's government would go about taking over Katanga. He said all Belgian advisers would be expelled from the province.

Katanga has the best disciplined and most effective army in the Congo, presumably loyal to Tshombe and commanded by white officers, many of them Belgian. The Katanga Cabinet appeared solidly behind Tshombe's earlier defiance of repeated U. N. demands that he get rid of all foreign military and political personnel. After his arrest, however, the provincial Cabinet took a more conciliatory tone toward the Leopoldville government and promised to discuss the U. N. demands for ouster of the foreigners.

Kennedy Urges New Measure in Racial Dispute

By JOHN CHADWICK

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Kennedy administration asks Congress today for legislation to hasten desegregation of all racially segregated public schools.

Every school board operating a racially segregated public school would be required to adopt a desegregation plan within six months and file it with the secretary of welfare.

The school desegregation proposal was among six civil rights bills ready for introduction by Sen. Joseph S. Clark D-Pa. and Rep. Emanuel Celler, D-N. Y. The six-point program is geared to carrying out the civil rights pledges of the 1960 Democratic platform.

Last September, President Kennedy, then the Democratic presidential candidate, appointed Clark and Celler as a committee of two to put the platform promises on civil rights into legislative form.

The desegregation plans would have to provide for "first-step compliance" not later than the start of the 1963-64 school year. They also would have to spell out the time and manner in which desegregation was to be achieved in each class and school.

Federal technical and financial assistance would be given under the bill to desegregating school districts. Provision also would be made for court enforcement in case school boards violated the duties imposed on them by the legislation.

Another of the Clark-Celler bills would make the Civil Rights Commission a permanent federal agency with strengthening federal finding powers. The commission is due to expire Sept. 9.

Other bills would:

1. Empower the attorney general to bring civil injunction suits in the federal courts to prevent the denial of any civil rights on grounds of race, color or creed. The attorney general now has authority to file such suits only to prevent denial of voting rights.
2. Provide administrative and judicial remedies for persons subjected to discrimination by business firms or labor unions in hiring, firing or promotion.
3. Eliminate the poll tax as a requirement for voting in federal elections.
4. Eliminate literacy tests as a requirement for voting.

At one point Shepard remarked that last Friday's flight into space was thrilling, "but today even surpasses last Friday."

From the White House Kennedy's aides went to the Kennedy's offices. The astronauts sat on two davenport flanking the fireplace.

Appears Relaxed

Shepard appeared completely relaxed and at ease during the brief outdoor ceremony.

Dignitaries and rank-and-file members of the White House staff cheered Shepard when he arrived, when Kennedy introduced him, and when he completed his short talk.

At one point Shepard remarked that last Friday's flight into space was thrilling, "but today even surpasses last Friday."

No Audio Present

In the presidential office, but no audio. So the President's words to the space team were not immediately public.

Mrs. Kennedy led Mrs. Shepard away to another part of the White House to have coffee.

700 Sing in Square To Heart's Content

NEW YORK (AP)—Greenwich Village folk singers have found a way around Parks Commissioner Newbold Morris' ban against their Sunday afternoon musicals in Washington Square Park.

They discovered that Park Department ordinances require a permit only for "minstrelsy"—singing with instruments—but not for unaccompanied song.

As a result, 700 persons marched into the park Sunday and sang to their heart's content—without, as far as police could tell, a single guitar or zither being plucked.

said. "We are very proud of him."

He handed Shepard "this decoration," with a joke about it coming from the ground up.

Kennedy had just dropped the medal to the wooden floor of the platform erected on the White House grounds for the ceremony.

Hope Commission To Spur Lagging Talks in Vientiane

WASHINGTON (AP)—The three-nation Laotian truce commission was scheduled to arrive in Vientiane today and there were hopes it would spur the lagging negotiations between the Western-royal government and the pro-Communist rebels.

Reminded by Mrs. JFK

The speechmaking was all over when Mrs. Kennedy spoke quietly to her husband—the President had forgotten to pin the medal on Shepard.

Kennedy grinned at her, then deftly pinned the decoration—awarded only once before—on the astronaut's lapel.

Reminded by Mrs. JFK

The decoration is the NASA Distinguished Service Medal.

Amid the laughter of onlookers, Kennedy after pinning the medal on Shepard's lapel then waved him before television cameras, saying "everybody wants to see it."

Reminded by Mrs. JFK

When the rebels rejected government demands that military talks be held at Hin Heup, the government agreed to talk at Na Mone. But it insisted that the political talks should take place at Phou Hong, 15 miles south of the cease-fire line and inside government-controlled territory.

Reminded by Mrs. JFK

Shepard walked smiling down the plane's ramp, went directly to his motor to get a big kiss, then turned to his waiting wife for another kiss while the crowd applauded.

Shepard's wife and parents walked with him to the microphones set up nearby.

Reminded by Mrs. JFK

"I want to thank you all at Andrews Air Force Base for this wonderful welcome," Shepard said, emphasizing that he was speaking for all the astronauts and their scientific associates.

The whole crew of seven man-in-space aspirants had flown in with him from Grand Bahama Island.

Reminded by Mrs. JFK

Shepard spent only a few seconds before the microphones, then stood with his beaming wife, waiting for the helicopter ride to the White House.

A mere 20 minutes after the plane touched down, Shepard and his wife were aboard the helicopter.

Reminded by Mrs. JFK

The public tribute will be warm, but muted in tone. There will be no formal parade; no bands will play.

But proudly, the United States will thank him for taking the nation's first step into space. The exultation may pose a greater challenge to Shepard's monumental calmness than the pioneering space trip.

Reminded by Mrs. JFK

Associates at Grand Bahama Island, where Shepard relaxed over the weekend, said they thought the test pilot was more apprehensive about facing the public acclaim and ceremony than his space flight.

Trying to keep a lid on the celebration, National Aeronautics and Space Administration said Shepard's first, thrilling though it was, was just a first step and that there was no time for self-congratulation.

Reminded by Mrs. JFK

Thus, the agency ruled out any other public appearances and New York City's hopes for a ticker tape parade went down the drain. Other cities also had been clamoring to honor the space pioneer.

Carrying out the back to work" emphasis, Shepard will hurry back to his space training after his jam-packed five to six hours in the capital. He and his six fellow astronauts, with him in Washington to share the acclaim, go to Langley Air Force Base in southwestern Virginia later today.

Reminded by Mrs. JFK

In the group with Mrs. Shepard were the astronaut's parents, retired Army Col. and Mrs. Alan B. Shepard of East Jerry, N.H.; a sister, Mrs. Gordon Sherman of North Attleboro, Mass., and Mrs. Shepard's parents, Mr. and Mrs.

Reopening Clove Reformed Church To Be Discussed

Another meeting in the interest of reopening The Clove Reformed Church at High Falls has been scheduled for Sunday, May 14, at 8 p. m. at The Clove Church. This meeting, co-sponsored by the Consistory of the Marbletown Reformed Church of Stone Ridge and the Classis of Ulster, is being held to further discuss the reopening of the church and to organize the residents of the area and secure signatures to the petition to be submitted to the Classis, seeking re-establishment of the church. A number of financial pledges have already been made.

Reminded by Mrs. JFK

The Rev. Harold F. Schade-wald, pastor of the Hurley Reformed Church, will moderate the meeting.

In addition to continuing the discussion to reopen the church for High Falls area residents, the petition to reopen the church will be available and there also will be nominations for a chairman, secretary and treasurer of the group which is seeking to have the old Clove re-established and opened for worship. Following the organization, the formal move to petition the Classis of Ulster to re-establish The Clove Church will be made. All residents of the area interested in having the church again open for Sunday worship are invited to the meeting.

Urges Re-establishment Of Disarmament Agency

HARRIMAN, N. Y. (AP)—The American Assembly urges the re-establishment of a United States disarmament agency "on a semi-autonomous basis, reporting to the secretary of state and with direct access to the President."

The assembly recommends also that this country press for reduction of all kinds of armaments and armed forces "to substantially lower levels — in controlled states."

These recommendations were among a number contained in a final report issued Sunday at the end of the assembly's four-day meeting here. The sessions were attended by 60 disarmament experts, scientists, government officials and leaders of public opinion. They discussed possible revisions in U. J.F.K.'s ASSAULT ON THE CONSTITUTION

There has never been a more "strict constructionist" of the Constitution than President Kennedy has been with reference to "Federal aid" to religious schools. That involves just one Article of the Constitution.

But no one has ever gone farther to subvert the entire Constitution than the President in his program to federalize the local functions of towns, cities and States—schools, parks, playgrounds, streets, sewers, slums, housing, etc., etc.

Once under way, step by step, it will in a few years destroy State and local governments in all but name. As a condition for receiving his help, Uncle will lay down standards that will control the administration of these huge funds.

The man who pays the piper calls the tune.

This road leads to changing the United States into a single consolidated State. It is similar to the road Hitler and Mussolini followed.

That this subverts the entire Constitution as intended by our great statesmen and judges for more than a century, cannot be contradicted by any decision of our present Supreme Court.

The old Supreme Court said: "The preservation of the rights of the States, and the maintenance of their governments, are as much within the care of the Constitution as the maintenance of the national government. The Constitution, in all its provisions, looks to an indestructible Union composed of indestructible States."

Great statesmen and judges have said this time and again.

Saugerties Area Has 2 Fires, Car And Utility Shed

Two fires were reported in the town of Saugerties early today—one in a tool shed at Katsbaan Four Corners, the other involving an automobile parked on Route 9W opposite the Victory Market.

The tool shed, located on the property of Harold Teetsel, was used to store hand tools used by road crews of the state highway department. The shed also provided a source of heat for road crews during the winter.

The shed, described as "very small," was about 50 per cent destroyed, it was reported. No estimate of loss was available. Cause of the blaze was undetermined.

An unidentified truck driver, who happened to be driving past about 4:20 a. m., saw flames in the shed and sounded the curfew siren at the Cedar Grove Fire Company.

This produced one long blast, which puzzled area volunteers. One long blast on the fire siren sounded the fire in Centerville. Of course, the curfew horn is not used for fire calls, however.

Percy Mower, who heads the Cedar Grove Company, and volunteers responded. Another truck was dispatched by the Centerville Company. They were at the scene about an hour.

The other call, to which Chief Peter Cafaldo and the Glasco Fire Company responded, came at 12:30 a. m.

Donald Hines of Saugerties reported at that time that a car parked on 9W near the Victory Market south of Saugerties, was ablaze.

Chief Cafaldo told The Freeman that the bottom of the car

Duncan said his steering wheel locked suddenly, causing the vehicle to strike the booth, which was toppled and damaged. Time of the incident was 3:30 a. m.

State of New York Bank to Have New Loans Department

The State of New York National Bank has announced the expansion of the bank's special loan department which will be housed in the offices formerly occupied by Morgan, Davis & Co., on the second floor of the National Ulster Branch, 300 Wall Street.

Construction is now in progress, and when completed the building will contain the most modern and most spacious customer loan department in Ulster County, the announcement said.

It is essential to expand the special loan department to accommodate more conveniently the growing number of area residents using the bank's facilities, according to O. J. Lavatsch, who has headed the special loan department for 25 years.

It is expected that the new offices will be completed by July 1. In the meantime, the department is in operation at its customary location in the State of New York National Bank at 301 Wall Street.

Eskimo Belief

It is the belief of some Eskimos that the souls of the dead reincarnate themselves in newborn babies, protecting the growing children from harm. Thus a parent should not punish a child for fear the spirit might resent the interference. According to the same belief, when a child grows old enough to take care of himself the spirit departs.

COMMUNITY CONCERTS

Life is so much nicer when your calendar of dates includes Community Concerts. The local association is conducting its annual membership drive this week and assures us of a gala musical season next winter.

What more enjoyable musical evening could be spent than at a live concert of the beloved Boston Pops Orchestra with Arthur Fiedler conducting; or with the lovely Metropolitan Opera star, Rise Stevens; or feeling the enthusiasm of hearing in person a new virtuoso on the musical horizon, Bolivian violinist, Jaime Laredo?

All three of these evenings will be waiting for you, if you join the Kingston Community Concert Association before noon Saturday. This local group, a non-profit, no loss organization, operates solely with funds from membership fees to bring top artists to our home town. Best of all, anyone is eligible to join simply by paying the annual membership fee to any worker or at headquarters in the Governor Hotel this week.

A SILLY AMENDMENT

Every so often a proposed constitutional amendment to abolish the federal income tax is dusted off for reconsideration. Sentiment for this might naturally be expected to be strongest in states with great aggregations of wealth taxpayers, such as New York, Pennsylvania and Illinois. Strangely enough, its recent show of strength was in rural North Dakota. There the House of Representatives called for an amendment outlawing the tax and also various federal activities.

Then Senator Milton R. Young, a conservative Republican stepped into the picture. He had the Library of Congress examine the amendment. It soon appeared that this would force the abandonment of the Federal Reserve System, the Commodity Credit Corporation for financing the farm price support system, the veterans' hospitals, and the federal dams and irrigation systems. At his urging the state Senate killed the amendment by a two to one vote.

The investigation might have gone further. How could our expensive defense setup be operated without the income tax or its equivalent from other sources? What would these other sources be? The most frequent suggestion is a federal sales tax. To equal the income tax yield, a sales tax would be colossal, and really grind down people of low incomes.

That might not matter to those who want to eliminate the income tax. But it should be of moment to a state of average Americans like North Dakota. Our state legislatures should investigate before endorsing changes in the federal field.

Four Soviet professors on an exchange visit to Yale call it part of a "guarantee of friendship." It would be fine if a guarantee from the Kremlin were equally sincere.

BELTS FOR SAFETY

Precepts are good; example is better. Secretary of Commerce Hodges struck an effective blow for auto safety when he ordered that seat belts be installed—and made use of—in all official Commerce Department vehicles.

Hodges went a couple of steps further. He has encouraged employees of the department to use seat belts in their personal cars. To show how important he considers this, he has had seat belts installed in his own sports car. The cause of highway safety will be well served if his example catches on, not only in Washington but throughout the country.

Men who imagine they have a way with women usually discover it is really the women's way.

'These Days'

By GEORGE SOKOLSKY
CUBA WILL NOT DIE

No matter what is done to quiet the discussion of the Cuban Fiasco, the discussion of Cuba will not die down. Wherever one goes, the discussion is about Cuba. There is a sense of shame. There is chagrin. There is hopelessness.

No nation is willing to accept such a defeat as the United States suffered in Cuba without doing something about it. That "something" might be going to war or it might be dismissing an official. But something must be done or there will be a popular explosion on the subject. The form of that explosion is unpredictable, but a wise politician like John Kennedy cannot afford to be caught in a storm.

One thing that could be done would be the publication of Khrushchev's letter to Kennedy which has influenced much thought on the subject of Cuba. This letter was announced but has not been published. According to many rumors and reports, Khrushchev made it clear beyond doubt that if the United States went into Cuba, Soviet Russia would take Berlin. This could be regarded as an ultimatum if we so chose.

Sooner or later, the United States will be forced to call Khrushchev's bluff. Shall we wait until Cuba takes Key West or Miami or shall we assume that Soviet Russia will only include the entire Latin American continent in its conquests, leaving North America to its own devices? When an Empire starts rolling, it does not stop until it is stopped. That lesson no politician can afford to forget.

The British theory is that we can wait until Soviet Russia and Red China go to war and then we shall take advantage of the situation. But suppose Soviet Russia and Red China do not go to war or do not go to war for a century? What becomes of us during the long period of Empire-building? Do we sit on our hands and wait for something to happen?

It is true that the major effort of current diplomacy is to avoid a world war, particularly the possibility of a nuclear war. This seems to be the policy of Senator Fulbright as well as of important members of the State Department. President Kennedy has decided apparently to go along with this policy. But most Americans find it difficult to understand why we should be willing to send troops to Laos and not to Cuba. Surely, a place 90 miles from the United States is more significant than a place several thousand miles away.

In a word, if we cannot defend ourselves in the Western Hemisphere why defend ourselves in Asia or Africa? It is not impossible that there may be a sound reason for the position taken by the President and his advisors, but if there is a reason, why not tell the people what it is?

It is true that President Franklin D. Roosevelt was followed blindly down the primrose path to war. But Roosevelt had an unusual hold upon the American people and was the only President in our history to have been elected four times. He was able to convince even his opponents that his course was right and that he knew what he was doing. John Kennedy has not yet achieved such an affectionate following. He may do so. He may outdo Roosevelt in popular favor. But such an attitude on the part of our people does not exist now and the Cuban question is before us now. It will not die down. It cannot be pushed aside.

President Kennedy, like all politicians, even those in Communist countries, must have popularity as an aid to power. No man can be stronger than the support he has. When Mussolini's popularity wore thin, the Italians who had been saluting Il Duce, turned on him and killed him. Hitler committed suicide; Stalin was denounced by Khrushchev as a scoundrel after he was dead. And so it goes with all greatness.

To make even a four year term of a President noteworthy, John Kennedy must not be regarded as one who presides over a coterie of quarrelling cooks who produce a poisonous broth. He must get rid of some of the cooks and get down to a realistic recognition of the frightful cost of defeat. The heaviest cost of all is shame—national shame.

Perhaps nothing would appease the American people more than a reorganization of the CIA and the State Department and the elimination of those who created confusion of policy. A President of the United States stands alone and his policy is his own. He can blame no underling for the underling's mistakes, but he can throw him out. Loyalty to an individual cannot be stronger than responsibility to the American people. President Harding was ruined by the wrong kind of loyalty.

This is what the President faces and there is no possibility of ducking the Cuban issue. To use a popular cliché, something must be done about it. (Copyright 1961, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

Drinking Much Water Helps
Avert Stone Formations

By HAROLD T. HYMAN, M.D.

Written for
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Q—What is gravel? What's the difference between gravel and a stone?

A—At all times, urine contains salts in solution. Under certain circumstances, such as an excessive content of certain salts or a change in the reaction of urine, these salts settle out. That's the reaction of urine. Most of the time we are unaware of the passage of gravel. Only in extreme instances does the passage of gravel cause irritation, pain or bleeding.

When gravel deposits in the kidney or bladder, it may lump together to form a stone. When a small stone or a fragment of a large stone passes down from kidney to bladder, it may cause the agonizing pain of a renal colic. And when an attempt is made to pass the stone out of the bladder the pain may be excruciating. The best way to prevent the formation of gravel or stones is to assure the passage of a dilute urine by drinking large quantities of plain salted water. There is no need for waters bottled at special springs.

Q—Is there a disease the opposite of diabetes that sometimes causes a person to go into shock?

A—On rare occasions, the cells of the pancreas that manufacture insulin produce more than the body needs. Under these circumstances, the patient may go into "insulin shock" in the same way that a diabetic does after an overdose of injected insulin or after failure to "cover" the correct insulin dose with food.

Sometimes, this condition of spontaneous hyperinsulinemia is due to overactivity on the part of normal cells. Sometimes it's due to the presence of an insulin-producing growth. Either way, exhaustive investigation must be undertaken before a program of treatment can be prepared.

Q—I am 40 years old and for the past few years I've suffered from backache. One doctor says it's due to a dropped kidney and he wants to operate on me to set it in place. Another doctor says it's due to a tipped uterus and he wants to operate to put it in place. What am I to do?

A—I'm not sure that either explanation is correct. Back pain is rarely due to any type of kidney disturbance, despite the familiar picture in patent medicine ads—and surely not to a "dropped kidney." Neither is backache often due to misplacements of the uterus. A recent study in Australia showed that less than two per cent of all backaches in women were due to gynecologic conditions. The vast majority, in this as in all other studies, were due to orthopedic conditions such as poor posture, improper shoeing, strained muscles and disturbances of vertebral ligaments, joints and bones.

Grave Error

Washington News

By PETER EDSON
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — Matthew McCloskey—big, genial, pink-faced, white-haired, Irish construction boss who is chairman of the Democratic Finance Committee—says it is all a misunderstanding about Interior Secretary Stewart L. Udall and the million-dollar Democratic dinner.

What he refers to is the letter written by J. K. Evans of Asiatic Petroleum Co., asking $6 oil and gas industry wheels in Washington to help the secretary sell his "quota" of tickets to the $100-a-plate dinner honoring President Kennedy May 27.

A COPY OF THIS LETTER and a story about it appeared exclusively in this newspaper the other day. Chairman McCloskey is the real boss of this dinner. The main affair will be held in Washington's armory, which has a seating capacity of 6,000. McCloskey is so hopeful that Democrats—and Republicans, too—will want to honor President Kennedy that he is also reserving the grand ballrooms of the Mayflower and Sheraton Park hotels for overflow.

If he draws this crowd it will give him 4,000 more guests, for a total of 10,000. And at $100 a plate, that will give the Democrats a gross of a million bucks.

"ALL WE'RE TRYING TO DO is pay off our debts, which are over $2.5 million," says McCloskey. "Every honest person pays his debts. Any decent citizen would want us to."

"We're not selling any tickets," McCloskey insists. "There are no quotas of tickets for anybody to sell. The law don't allow us to sell tickets. But if anyone sends us $100, we'll send him a free ticket to the dinner."

"This fellow Evans that wrote the letter didn't understand this, but nobody is upset about it. I hope you'll quote me as saying that we're hopeful that the patriotic people who read the story about this letter will understand what we're trying to do. I hope they will also send me a check for $100 so I can send them a ticket to the dinner. My address is 1737 L. St., N. W., Washington 6, D. C."

Well, that's what the man says and all a reporter can do is live light and let the people find the way.

THE PRESENT EFFORT TO MAKE J. K. EVANS the fall guy for this Udall affair, however, is regarded in Washington as a shabby trick.

Evans has been around Washington some years. He has been active in Heart Fund, Korean Relief and other drives. He knows how money is raised and spent for public relations.

Secretary Udall says he first met Evans at a $100-a-plate Democratic dinner in Tucson, Ariz., when Evans was out there for his health. They have been table partners at many a dinner since.

Evans didn't do too well on the Kennedy dinner solicitation, however. He didn't sell a ticket. No, that's wrong. He didn't get a single $100 donation. Udall tried to have him suck back the letter as soon as he saw it, with considerable shock.

Second reason was that most of the people it was sent to are Republicans who wouldn't be caught dead at a Democratic dinner. They might be suckers enough to pay for tickets, but wouldn't go.

A NUMBER OF THEM HAVE CALLED this reporter and thanked him for writing the story of the Evans letter. They said it's high time this whole $100-a-plate dinner racket was shown up.

It has been going on in Washington and all over the country for years. Republicans are just as guilty of it as Democrats. Every fat cat who does business with government is expected to kick in. Programs and seating arrangement lists at any of these dinners are loaded with lobbyists, influence peddlers, public relations men, labor bosses and five percenters.

Department heads in government agencies tell their bureau chiefs who are political appointees to attend the dinners of the party in power. The underlings pay up and go—or else.

EVANS' MISTAKE WAS THAT he put his honest pitch for the party in a letter. If he had just done it by phone, or on a person-to-person basis at cocktail parties, nobody would ever have known. That's the way it always has been and will be.

McCloskey says he has no way of knowing about such goings on, but maybe somebody will tell him some sweet day.

DO YOU REMEMBER

By SOPHIE MILLER

Going back to 1910 at which time the Kingston Academy May Day Festival was held on May 27. The item I have is before the May Day Exercises took place so it gives the name of Miss Gertrude Clement being chosen Queen of the May, and Clarence Babcock chosen as prime minister. The Queen had six pages and eight attendants. The plan of exercises was to be carried under the direction of the Bryn and Hawthorne Societies. The athletic meet was to be held as usual.

May 6, Arbor Day exercises were held in the study hall of the Kingston Academy. It seems that the large tree in the Academy yard had been blown down some three days before and so it gave an excellent opportunity to plant another living tree in keeping with the old custom. Cornelius Burhans, was present to help plant the old tree, blown down, 78 years previous to that date. The new elm tree was planted by the students and dedicated to Professor Myron J. Michael.

Music was by the Academy orchestra. George Schirick read "The Last Leaf" by O. W. Holmes. John Cashin read "Living in Tents" by Henry Van Dyke. Celeste Keefe read "When the Green Gets Back in the Trees," by James Whitcomb Riley. Elizabeth Scott read "Dedication of Our Tree." The students of Kingston Academy contributed the money to purchase the tree. A stone was also purchased, bearing the dedication and the presentation, and was placed at the foot of the young tree in 1910.

Perhaps at this time it will be interesting to read the "Dedication of the tree planted on Arbor Day, 1910" written by Elizabeth Scott to honor Myron J. Michael today in his memory the MJM school stands. It reads in part thus: "We are gathered here this Arbor Day to celebrate the planting of a beautiful young tree in memory of the stately one that has been so familiar to us during our school days, and in honor of our loved principal, Professor Michael. May the young tree take firm root in the soil and symbolize the strong, inspiring spirit of our friend; may it grow and flourish in our sight as surely as the ideal which he has fostered in us will grow and bear fruit increasingly in our hearts; may it show to men the lesson he has helped us to learn, of the wonder, the sacredness of the forests; of the beauty, the mystery of the trees."

U. S. Action in Va. School Controversy Called Politics

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, May 7.—Sen. Harry F. Byrd of Virginia, Democrat—one of the ablest and most respected men in Congress—has just made a speech in the Senate severely criticizing the Department of Justice for attempting to coerce the Legislature of the State of Virginia by trying to tell its members how they must vote and what money they must appropriate if they are not to incur the wrath of the Federal government. No such power can be found written in the Federal constitution by implication or otherwise. Sen. Byrd says:

"It is even more offensive for a non-elected Federal officer, without the benefit of law, through a Federal court, to tell a state under what conditions it cannot spend its own money for the public education of its own children."

Decree 'Unprecedented'

"Such a decree would be unprecedented in American history. It would do violence to millions of school children. It would do violence to the rights of fifty states and the localities within them. And it would do violence to the foundations on which our system of government is built."

"I am amazed that the Attorney General of the United States seeks to close every public school in Virginia to 847,000 white and Negro students unless the little Prince Edward County surrenders its position on a principle it believes to be right."

"The Federal proposal to withhold state funds legally appropriated by the general assembly of Virginia for public school operation necessarily would close public schools all through the state. The attempt to punish an entire state because the action of one county displeases the United States Attorney General is fantastic and completely unrealistic and, I believe, unconstitutional."

The real issue is not whether racial discrimination shall or shall not be practiced in the public schools. It is whether the state may make tuition grants to all parents, irrespective of race, creed or color, so that they may send their children to private schools if they wish. At present, these private schools, under Virginia laws, may be integrated or non-integrated as the private schools themselves may determine.

The state funds now being made available to parents give the individuals freedom of choice just as the Congress of the United States did when it appropriated money for GIs to get an education, and many thousands of them have used their tuition money in private or parochial as well as public educational institutions.

But the United States Department of Justice now is claiming that a Federal court decree on school integration is being violated unless the State of Virginia closes all its public schools in every county to reopen its public schools. To accomplish this end, the petition to the Federal court requests, that the parents in the county in question be denied tuition grants by the state government.

No Case Established

This action is not based on any court decision or other precedent. Merely to claim that present decrees on desegregation issued by the Federal courts are being violated is not to establish a case under the Constitution. Indeed, the Federal judiciary may in due time throw this case out. But it is being said that injustice is being done to the parents of the Negro children, and hence "the end justifies the means."

State after state admitted to the Union in the last century has been given a written guarantee by Congress that education would remain in the "exclusive control" of the states. Why, then, is Virginia being coerced? The answer is politics. It is considered good politics to win votes in those populous states of the north which gave the decisive majority to President Kennedy in 1960 and could conceivably do so again in 1964.

The argument is being made that the Department of Justice must seek court decrees and let the courts decide what is Constitutional. But it is to be noted that, when the parochial-school issue came up a few weeks ago, President Kennedy said it would be unconstitutional to permit Congress to vote funds for parochial schools. He wouldn't even favor passage of the bill and let the courts decide that one. In fact, his Department of Health, Education and Welfare set forth a lengthy brief declaring any such aid unconstitutional.

So it's good politics to avoid a Constitutional test in one case and good politics to solicit such a test in another. The truth is the sophism that "the end justifies the means" is given sanction today in high places in our own republic, just as it is in a totalitarian government abroad.

Nearly a hundred years ago Federal troops sat in state legislatures in the South—three years after the Civil War—and compelled them to "ratify" the Fourteenth Amendment. Yet this is the very amendment which is the alleged basis today for demanding that the Virginia State Legislature abide by a decree of the Federal government or be compelled to deprive all its children of a public school education. And in those days, too, it was asserted that "the end justifies the means."

THE PROFIT LURE

Thousands of gullible investors today are being egged on to seek quick profits in the stock market. The economic environment in America is conducive to this activity.

In a recent Sunday section of a major newspaper, there were 29 different advertisements inviting investors to send in from $1 to $5 to get such profit information. Every ad carried alluring implications Big Headlines said: "Shares that could double or triple overnight"; "How to make shrewd speculations"; "From $500 to $100,000."

Critics of advertising have a very fertile field for investigation here. The content of these advertisements is the antithesis of thrift, saving and sound investment. That they are read and followed by investors who simply cannot afford to speculate is a tragedy.

It is ironic that in the same issue of this newspaper there are ads of conservative savings institutions that are diligently fostering thrift and saving.

Unsound speculation is an economic curse in America. Thrift and savings are and have been for centuries economic virtues. We need more ads encouraging these virtues and far fewer ads promoting careless speculation.

Some of these speculative ads build false habits. One thousand people send in $1 each to get advice on buying speculative stocks, and 30 per cent of them follow it. A quick and artificial market is thus created and the stocks in question boom in price.

This goods on thousands of investors and within a reasonable length of time they become inveterate speculators. Thrift and saving die within them and our economic society suffers.

There never has been a time like the present when the virtues of thrift, saving and sound investment should be universally proclaimed. Of course, all savings institutions should spearhead such activity.

During the years when the United States Government promoted thrift and saving, I was an employee of the U. S. Treasury Department. It was my duty to organize savings societies in industry, to write pamphlets and brochures on these subjects, to address clubs and organizations and to carry on thrift campaigns in high and elementary schools.

Today mutual savings banks, building and loan associations and commercial banks with savings departments should have trained personnel working at grass-roots levels to teach millions of people (1) the follies of trying to make a killing in the stock market, and (2) the virtues of getting a good job, saving out of every paycheck and building up a $500-$5,000 deposit account.

Every reader of these lines who has precious savings committed to a risk-laden stock should pause in his get-rich-quick scheme and change his course.

And every reader who is about to throw some money into a stock that "may double or triple overnight" should come to his senses and put his money in a good savings bank.

Governor's Tax Plan Is Benefit To New Yorkers

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP) — "The relative tax burden on low-income taxpayers has been reduced" as a result of Gov. Rockefeller's changes in the state income-tax system, Tax Commissioner Joseph H. Murphy claims.

Murphy said Sunday that a study of the 1959 state income-tax returns showed that persons with incomes of less than $6,000 a year paid 17 per cent of the total levy in 1959, compared with 22 per cent in 1957.

Gov. Rockefeller backed legislation in 1959 increasing taxes and establishing a withholding system for wage earners. In 1960, the Legislature granted a Rockefeller request for a flat $25 credit for a married couple and $10 for single taxpayers.

Democrats have charged that the tax changes favored taxpayers in the higher income brackets.

Murphy said about 1.2 million persons, or nearly all low and middle-income taxpayers, paid less income tax in 1959 than they would have under the previous law.

He said the withholding system and yielded an estimated $40 million in additional revenue from persons who previously had evaded the state income tax.

The commissioner estimated that more than one-half of the taxpayers paid less on 1960 income than they would have under the 1957 law because of the 10 per cent rebate voted by the 1961 Legislature.

Nearly all these taxpayers, Murphy said, were in the lower and middle-income brackets.

Glancing Over TV Bill of Fare

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—When television was young and growing, it was getting a lot of credit for bringing the American family together.

A lovely picture was painted of the whole family, sitting silently and compatibly in front of the magic box, their attention glued on Hopalong Cassidy or Milton Berle.

Well, TV is older now, the novelty has worn off and almost nine out of 10 American homes have sets. The experts are predicting that the medium is starting to break up the family and turn members into solitary viewers.

The villain of the piece is a growing number of "multiple set families."

Television rating services—the research firms which try to estimate TV audience size—believe that today there is more than one-two or three in at least 10 per cent of TV homes.

In the not too distant future, it is possible that father will be in the study watching a baseball or football game; mother, in the living room, suffering deliciously with Loretta Young or "Queen for a Day," and the kids, in the playroom trying to persuade grandma to turn off "Sing Along with Mitch" so they can watch Dick Clark.

Well, togetherness has been nice while it lasted.

In case you've been overlooking "This Is Your Life" lately, I can report that things are running along on the Ralph Edwards program much as usual, except no one shed any tears Sunday night.

The guest of honor was the Rev. James G. Jones, who founded and runs a Chicago home for men newly released from prison. The young clergyman seemed pleased and amazed by all the goings on but not particularly upset.

Tears are a specialty of the program because Edwards is a great one for sentiment. He is also addicted to high-flown language. In one of his better flights Sunday night he proclaimed to Father Jones: "How your great spirit helped thousands of convicts we'll hear right after this message from our sponsor."

Recommended tonight: "Whispering Smith," NBC, 9-9:30 EDT—premiere of a new western-detective series starring Audie Murphy.

Episcopal Group Backs JFK Plan On Key Problems

OSWEGO, N.Y. (AP)—The Central New York Episcopal Diocese supports President Kennedy in seeking solutions to world problems but the group has taken no stand on central aid to public schools.

The diocese, at the closing session Saturday of its 93rd annual convention, adopted resolutions backing Kennedy and opposing capital punishment.

It referred the controversial school-aid question to its Department of Christian and Social Relations.

Kennedy has proposed federal aid to elementary and secondary schools, a field now exclusively the property of state and local government.

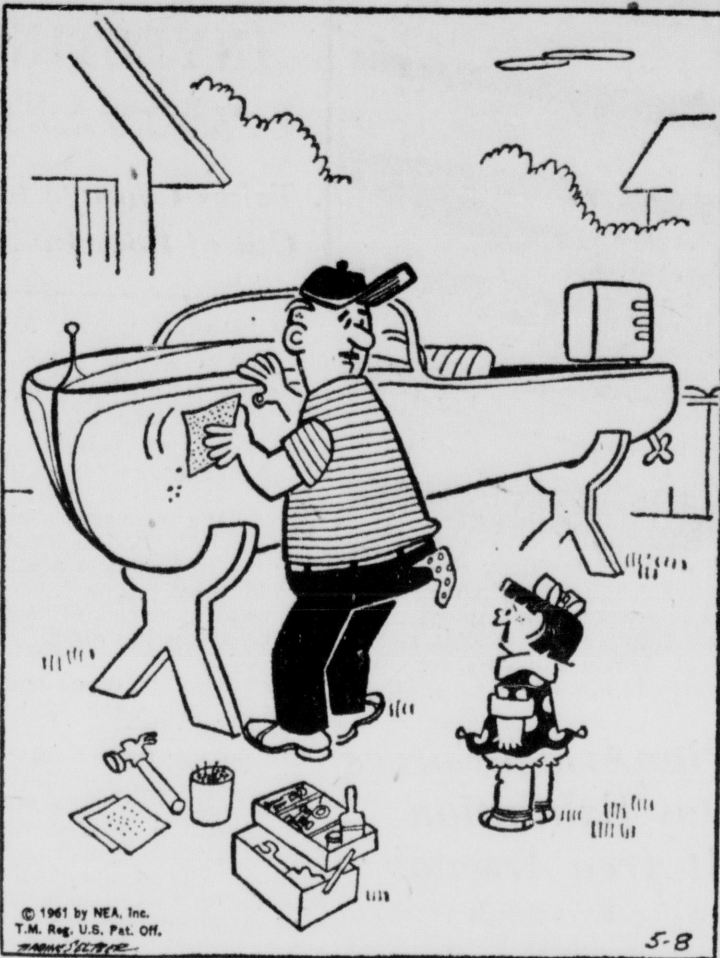

Rev. H. William Foreman of Fayetteville was elected to the diocese's standing committee and Rear Admiral Harrison B. Southworth (U.S.N. ret.) was re-elected. More than 325 delegates from the diocese's 83 parishes and 60 missions attended the two-day meeting.

Court Dismisses Upstate Lawsuit In Fatal Blaze

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y. (AP)—The City of Niagara Falls has won dismissal of $1.75 million in negligence claims brought against it by three survivors of a 1957 tenement fire that killed 18 persons.

State Supreme Court Justice John T. Marsh ruled Saturday that the city was not liable for damages in the blaze, the worst in its history. Fifteen children were among the victims.

The owner of the three-story frame tenement building, William Dietz, was sentenced to 2 to 5 years in Attica State Prison in 1958 as a result of the fire. He was convicted of first-degree manslaughter for violating the state's multiple residence law requiring fireproof doors and partitions.

The suits accused the city of negligence in allowing Dietz to operate the buildings in violation of the multiple dwelling law. They also claimed a building permit was negligently issued to Dietz allowing him to erect an addition which closed off an exit and trapped the victims.

Justice Marsh ruled that a governmental unit is not liable for failure to prevent violations of law.

He also ruled that a provision of the state's Court of Claims Act allowing communities to be sued in some instances of negligence does not cover the issuing of building permits.

Sanford Reid and his wife, Louise, who lost seven children in the blaze, sued for $750,000. Horace Ewing, whose wife and eight children were killed, asked $1 million.

The city's corporation counsel made the motion for dismissal. It was not immediately learned if the survivors would appeal the decision.

TUBERCULIN POSITIVE?

Out of 1,253 adults given the tuberculin test not long ago, 802 had a positive reaction. Out of 8,252 school children tested, 446 were tuberculin positive.

In the tuberculin test, a drop of harmless fluid is put under the skin. Two or three days later, the doctor can tell by looking at the spot whether the reaction is positive or negative.

A positive reaction means that there are tuberculosis germs in the body. Unlike most illnesses, TB infection doesn't always mean active disease. Of those 446 school children with positive reactions, only two had active tuberculosis. But a positive reaction does mean that active disease is a possibility. About one-fifth of Americans—that's 36 million—have picked up the TB germ. It is estimated that one in twenty of them will develop active tuberculosis sometime in the future.

Anyone with a positive tuberculin reaction should get a chest X-ray regularly. It is also important for a positive reactor to

Angler Saves Boy

BRIGHTON, England (AP)—A boy being swept out to sea was saved Sunday by an angler's line. The quick-thinking angler was fishing from a mole when he saw David Hubbard, 13, being swept away by an offshore current. He expertly cast the float on his line within David's reach. The boy seized the line and hung on until Arthur Shimmans, 38, dived in and pulled him out. The angler refused to give police his name.

LOST WORLDS—You may think the world's in a mess, but Jack Mandaville has proof—a lot of it—as he's swamped by dozens of balloon-type world globes. Mandaville is vice president of a Cleveland, Ohio, savings and loan company which bought up a large supply of the globes to pass out to new depositors. Before the gift operation could be launched, a rash of newly created nations made the models hopelessly out of date, leaving the banker with the weight of many worlds on his shoulders.

Castro's Spy Group Active In Seizure of Unreliables

EDITOR'S NOTE: What's the latest word from behind the "palm tree curtain" in Cuba? Richard Valeriani, National Broadcasting Company staffman, arrived in Miami Sunday in a plane load of refugees from Havana. A former Associated Press reporter in Cuba, Valeriani here tells his story for AP readers.

By RICHARD VALERIANI
MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Three weeks after the short-lived anti-Castro invasion, fear and repression still rule Cuba.

Out of the chaos which now characterizes the sun-bathed island, only one pattern emerges clearly—the pattern of Communist dictatorship.

The Batista tyranny toppled more than two years ago by Fidel Castro has been replaced by a new tyranny, all the more fearful because of the haphazard manner in which it operates.

Buildings Sandbagged
Havana today is in the hands of the military. All public buildings are sandbagged. Soldiers, teen-aged Young Rebels, militiamen and militawomen stand guard around the clock, their weapons slung carelessly about them.

Militiamen frisk all persons entering any public building. Women's handbags are searched minutely, down to tubes of lipstick. Visitors must open cigarette and match packs before entering hotels and other buildings.

How long this will go on is Castro's decision but anybody's guess. It appears that he will maintain the repressive measures instituted after the abortive invasion in order to retain the iron grip he now has on the country.

Terror Reign Spreads

Castro's police machinery began spreading its reign of terror within a few hours after the announcement of the invasion April 17. Conservative estimates place the total at 50,000 arrested throughout the island, although news from the provinces is scant.

G-2 agents and militiamen, apparently working from prepared lists as well as from tips from government-organized spy committees in every neighborhood, began arresting "unreliables" indiscriminately.

The American press was a special target. Their offices were occupied and looted or both. Almost all the American correspondents were arrested or forced into hiding and refuge. AP staffer Robert Berrellez was arrested the afternoon of the invasion, held for more than two weeks by the G-2 and then transferred behind the grim walls of La Cabana prison, greatly overcrowded like the rest of the Cuban prisons.

Worshippers Searched

Churches offered no haven. Militiamen surrounded them, closed the doors and searched the worshippers inside.

The jailing of priests was common. The arrests have diminished considerably, and many of the prisoners are being released. But anyone who has ever uttered a doubtful word about the Castro regime walks in fear today.

The mass repression appears to have smashed the anti-Castro underground. Many were nabbed in the roundup. Many others took refuge in Latin-American embassies, which are bulging beyond capacity. The underground is depressed and demoralized—and yet angry.

Some underground members still free told me they were given orders not to move two days before the invasion. Arms were distributed. Activation never came.

Reliable sources estimate that up to 50,000 persons within Cuba were prepared to take up arms against Castro. They now ask each other in frustration, what happened?

Push to Slam Is South Aim

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
Thirty years ago, Richard L. Frey of New York was one of my favorite partners. He was particularly adept in bidding and his dummy play came as close to being perfect as possible.

He has recently written a book entitled, "How to Win at Contract Bridge in Ten Easy Lessons," and anything written by Dick is worth reading. In today's hand Dick was South and I was North. A look at the bidding shows that Dick let himself be pushed slowly into the slam in spades. If he had showed his tremendous freak holding, the opponents surely would have saved at seven hearts which would only be down two tricks.

Of course, West could beat the spade slam. All he had to do would be to open the seven of clubs. East would trump and West would still have a club trick. However, West opened the king of diamonds. Dick won the trick; drew trumps; and led the eight of clubs. West

Cold War Center Is in Operation

WASHINGTON (AP) — A new cold war operation center has been set up by the State Department to keep round-the-clock watch on world crises.

Its function is to see that recommendations for dealing with crises are made promptly to Secretary of State Dean Rusk, and through him to President Kennedy and to make certain that the decisions reached by Kennedy and Rusk are promptly implemented.

Formation of the center and its responsibilities were disclosed Saturday by the State Department. The new agency is headed by Theodore C. Achilles, 55, a veteran foreign service officer who had a major role in drafting the North Atlantic Treaty.

Disclosure of the center's existence followed State Department announcement that Stephen E. Smith, 33, a brother-in-law of President Kennedy, had been appointed special assistant to Achilles.

Drenched Hikers Ousted From Inn

WASHINGTON (AP)—A woman innkeeper said today a drenched troop of hikers—including a Supreme Court justice, a senator and a Cabinet member—turned her place into a picnic area without so much as a "by your leave."

"I came in and found them like sardines in my cocktail lounge, sitting on the bar and eating their own food," said the innkeeper, Mrs. John T. Reges.

Mrs. Reges, the wife of the proprietor of the Old Anglers Inn reacted swiftly: "In a loud voice—in German—I told my maitre d', 'I will give you 10 minutes to get these people out of here.'"

"After they were gone," said Mrs. Reges, "I found out who they were. If they had asked me first, I would have made arrangements, given them a room to dry out in, made them tea. But they didn't ask, they just came in."

The hikers, about 170 strong, were nearing the end of a sodden 16-mile course along the old C&O Canal route from Seneca, Md., to Washington Saturday when they stopped at the inn near the Great Falls of the Potomac. Among them were Justice William O. Douglas, Sen. Paul Douglas, D-Ill., and Secretary of the Interior Stewart L. Udall.

Considerable interest is being generated in the uptown branch office window of the Freeman Publishing Company, 239 Fair Street, this week for the display of old Kingston Community Concert Association programs and instruments from the Rossi Music Store.

Of special note is an unusual horn circa Civil War era which is owned by Albert Rossi but the name for which is unknown. Al Rossi describes it as an E Flat horn that is played over the shoulder. He would appreciate any information concerning this item.

The Kingston Community Concert Association is campaigning this week for members in next year's concert audience. Information may be obtained from workers or at campaign headquarters in the Governor Clinton Hotel daily from 9:30 a. m. to 4:30 p. m.

Garden Club to Stage Annual Civic Improvement Contest

The Woodstock Garden Club has announced that it will sponsor a local Civic Improvement Contest for the fourth successive year. Plans were announced at the May meeting held at the Methodist Church hall.

The aim of the contest is to get local business houses to make their establishments more attractive with floral plantings, flower boxes or planting of vines or shrubs.

The members of the Contest Committee will be visiting merchants within the next ten days to invite them to enter the contest. Any firm which is not approached may enter the contest by sending names and addresses to Mrs. Arthur Jones, secretary, before the closing date for entries, May 20.

A committee of judges, composed of members of the Garden Club, will inspect the premises of the contestants during the week of May 22 and again later in the season to select the winner.

The Garden Club's Civic Improvement certificate will be presented to the winner.

Committee appointments for 1961 were made by Mrs. Henry Winzenreid, president of the Woodstock Garden Club at the May 3 meeting held at the Overlook Methodist Church. The meeting, which opened the season was attended by a large number of members and guests.

After reports by Mrs. Arthur Jones, secretary, and Mrs. William Miller, treasurer, Mrs. Winzenreid announced the following appointments:

Set Committee Appointments For Garden Club

Miss Florence Hubbard reported on the Mallory Grove project. Responsibility for development of this area, she reported is to be shared by various local organizations. Two picnic tables and benches have been donated by the Woodstock League of Women Voters. Ishmael Rose is contributing the labor and the Garden Club voted to give a third table with benches so that the picnic area may be used this year.

Join Federation

Mrs. W. R. King, director of the third district of the New York State Federation of Garden Clubs, spoke on the advantages of joining the Federation and the Woodstock Club members voted unanimously to join.

Hostesses were Mrs. S. Brainard West and Miss Florence Hubbard, whose arrangement, "Spring in the Lap of Winter," consisting of driftwood, daffodils and leaves of begonia Feast helix, decorated the refreshment table. Booklets on various garden projects, secured from the State Extension Service by Mrs. Jones were distributed to members. Mrs. Sam Gregg, Hospitality Chairman, signed up hostesses for later meetings and Miss Therese Kessel was in charge of the sale of plants donated by club members.

Co-chairman Jean Gaede and Betty Biese of the Rummage Sale committee will make reports. The sale will be held on Saturday, June 3, at the Woodstock Playhouse. Collection centers have been designated, including one at the Lamont Simpkins building in the heart of the village.

Several important issues relating to the forthcoming campaign will be discussed. All Democrats and persons interested in progressive government are invited.

Americana Is Theme in Annual Colony Arts Fair

New York Americana will be the theme of the second annual antiques fair and sale at the Colony Arts Center, Rock City Road, which will be held this year, July 1 through July 4.

With the valuable experience of the successful first show as a background, this year's show will feature exhibitors, each of whom will specialize in one or two fields of collectable Americana to provide an exciting and well-rounded attraction.

Also, this year the entire premises of the Colony Arts Center will be given over to the antiques fair, which will make possible more than 25 exhibitors, in addition to films, lectures and other attractions related to antiques and collecting.

All programs will be coordinated for this event by Bill Newgold, author of Newgold's Guide to Modern Hobbies, Arts and Crafts.

Exhibitors and others interested in participating in the show should contact program director, Colony Arts Center, 22-24, Rock City Road, Woodstock, or Bill Newgold, 270 Strawberry Hill, Stamford 7, Conn.

Photographs in the "Third Eye" exhibition are marked by what might be called an advanced style of artistic approach, according to Prof. Resnick. Although the subjects of the photographs are conventional, such as trees, flowers, people, buildings or objects, the treatment is daring—sometimes on the surrealistic side, sometimes rather abstractly—always novel.

Prof. Resnick, professor of art, director of exhibitions and director of libraries at L.I.U. and M. Komroff, a writer and Cramer, a painter, are currently engaged in preparations for a fall exhibition in a midtown gallery.

Rocky to Support Jersey Candidate

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—Gov. Rockefeller will campaign in New Jersey for James P. Mitchell, Republican nominee for governor and Secretary of Labor under former President Eisenhower.

Rockefeller's office confirmed today reports that the governor had agreed to participate in Mitchell's campaign, one of the most important election battles of the year.

The governor's office said there was "no question but that Rockefeller would participate," and added that "there are no precise plans yet for the participation."

Eisenhower probably will be asked to make at least one speech for his former aide.

Mitchell's backers, however, apparently have no plans to seek campaign help from former Vice President Richard M. Nixon or Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz.

NAACP Sessions To Open May 26

In announcing the 26th Annual Conference of the New York State Conference of NAACP branches, to be held May 26-28 at the Hotel Pierre-pont, Brooklyn, Dr. Eugene T. Reed, president of the Conference, indicated that an increase in the number of delegates over prior years was anticipated.

He gave as reasons for the increase the fact that 54 branches now in New York State represent the largest number of branches ever existing at one time in the State, as well as the fact that many branches, because of the increased activity on the State NAACP level, have a greater number of delegates interested in attending this year.

R. Resley Dent, president of the Brooklyn branch, the host branch, states that the usual Sunday rally closing the annual conference will be held at the Brown Memorial Baptist Church, Corner of Gates and Washington Avenues, Brooklyn, on Sunday, May 28 under the joint auspices of the State Conference of NAACP Branches and the New York State Association of the Benevolent Order of Elks of the World. The principal speakers at the meeting will be Senator Jacob Javits and Rev. Adam Clayton Powell.

One of the highlights of the Conference, which is being arranged under the general chairmanship of C. V. Harris will be a seminar on Negro History, in which groups such as the Black Nationalists and the Marcus Garveyites will be compared with organizations such as the NAACP and the Urban League. Among those who will participate in the Seminar will be Dr. John Hope Franklin, of Brooklyn College, Freddie Thomas, of Rochester, an Dr. John A. Morsell, of the National office, NAACP.

FAMILY SECURITY CHECK-UP

Every year millions of fathers have health check-ups. Yet, millions of fathers don't check up on their family's financial health.

Metropolitan Life Insurance Company now offers a service which lets you do just that: The Family Security Check-Up. It is a service which can bring you new information and correct mistakes. It lets you make sure you've planned your family's future with your head as well as your heart.

What you could lose without one

There are mistakes, oversights, gaps in the average man's financial security program. Too much of it is haphazard. Too much of it is left to chance. It lacks a plan. Or, too often, it simply falls behind the times.

For example, the Social Security law has been changed nine times since its inception. And the Social Security benefits your wife and children could get may not dovetail efficiently with your pension or insurance programs. Then too—you can unintentionally "disinherit" a child, in effect, if you have overlooked naming him among your beneficiaries.

More than an interview—a service

Metropolitan, the Company you look to for authoritative information on physical health, offers a way to check up on your family's financial health.

Metropolitan representatives have been trained in Metropolitan's own schools and are qualified by solid experience to bring you this Family Security Check-Up service. They are equipped with businesslike charts and tables that show you exactly where you stand.

Whether you need insurance or not, this service makes sense. Remember, Metropolitan is as local as Main Street—as close as your phone. Call your Metropolitan man today.

There is no obligation—except to those you love.

WHAT IT IS AND WHAT IT DOES FOR YOU

With the help of your Metropolitan man

1. You check the facts: your Social Security, your home, your life insurance, your pension plan, your savings and other assets. You may be surprised to learn how much you're worth.

2. You weigh your responsibilities: mortgage or rent payments, education, retirement, accident and sickness emergencies; how much it would cost your family to live without you.

3. You learn where you stand. You determine your weak and strong points . . . whether the provisions you have made for your family will do what you intend. You get the facts in front of you.

4. You plan for the future. Based on these facts, you decide what action, if any, may be needed to give you a family security plan, tailor-made to your own needs and ambitions—one which makes good sense for you.

Benedictine Will Observe Hospital Week, May 7 to 13

A working partnership between hospital and community is necessary if a community's health is to be maintained at its highest level, Edwin B. Bolz, associate administrator of the Benedictine Hospital, said today.

Without the hospital, many individuals would not realize their "heritage of health," while without the community's support and understanding, the hospital would be unable to meet the community's health needs, he noted.

"Your Hospital — A Community Partnership" is the theme of National Hospital Week, May 7-13. This observance, first celebrated as National Hospital Day from 1921 to 1953, has since been observed as National Hospital Week. It is sponsored by the American Hospital Association and is held each year during the week of Florence Nightingale's birthday — May 12th.

Among the week's events at the Benedictine Hospital will be an Employee Recognition Day to be held May 11. Service awards will be presented to employees, a film will be shown and refreshments served.

The hospital's major responsibility in its community partnership is patient care, Bolz said. "The magnitude of the service is illustrated by the fact that one of every eight persons will be admitted to a hospital this year."

Bolz noted that patient care is constantly improving through medical advances, the development of new equipment and services and better training of personnel.

Two responsibilities of the hospital which in turn are components of patient care, are education and training of personnel, and medical research.

The community's role in this partnership for health is equally vital, Bolz said, outlining five areas of community responsibility.

Its most direct tie is through the hospital's governing and advisory board, composed of community leaders. They set or help to set the broad policies for the hospital and are usually responsible for everything that goes on in the hospital.

The other four areas he noted were: Community encouragement of young people to enter health careers. The shortage in medical and para-medical personnel is a serious problem for the entire health field.

Community support through individual volunteering of services. An estimated two million Americans do volunteer work in hospitals.

Membership in a prepayment plan such as Blue Cross or a commercial insurance carrier. The prepayment principle provides an easy method of budgeting for hospital care and it also assures hospitals of a stable income for services provided. Under this principle, both the people who are well and do not require hospital care in a given year, and those who are ill and require care, pay the hospital bill.

Community support of programs which will provide adequate reimbursement and allow hospitals to maintain a more stable financial situation. It must be remembered that hospitals care for many patients who cannot pay their bill, but still many communities do not reimburse hospitals adequately for care of welfare patients.

In conclusion Bolz commented, "Only through a full partnership of an enlightened public, a learned and inspired medical profession and a dedicated hospital staff can the very best of health care be given."

Old Timer's Civil War Notes

One of the best known veterans in and around Ellenville in the decades following the Civil War was Goldsborough Garrison, who had been a member of the Eight N.Y. Cavalry. The Eighth was one of those regiments which seemed always to be tangling with the "Johnnies" in the hills, valleys and swamps of the Old Dominion State. Their death losses totaled 324 including a colonel, eight captains and several lieutenants. Major Garrison served on the staffs of Generals Pleasanton, Buford and Custer. He was shot in the shoulder during the Shenandoah Valley campaign, was again shot while acting as a scout following Gettysburg and at Five Forks he was shot in the side. As if this were not enough for one man, the doughty cavalryman received a severe sabre wound in the head at Stephensburg.

Major Garrison who had enlisted at 18, was considered one of the bravest men in the cavalry branch of the Union Army. He was with Kilpatrick in the latter's daring raid on Richmond and it was his opinion that Kilpatrick was the most energetic of all the cavalry generals. Garrison took part in the action at Beverly Ford following the great Battle of Chancellorsville, where the regiment's commander, Col. Benjamin F. Davis, was killed in action. Colonel Davis was some distance in front of his men when Lieutenant R. O. Allen of the Sixth Virginia Cavalry rode up to him, whereupon Davis turned upon Allen with a cut of his sabre which the Confederate avoided by throwing himself on the side of his horse and at the same time firing his pistol. Thus did Benjamin F. Davis, rated as one of the best officers in the Army, meet his fate at the hands of one as brave and daring as himself.

Your Old Timer hereby acknowledges with thanks a communication from Delia T. Shaw in which the New Paltz resident conveys interesting data about the Civil War activities of several of her relatives. Mrs. Shaw's two uncles, John C. and Cyrus D. Harp, enlisted in Company E, 156th New York Volunteer Infantry, a regiment composed of men from Ulster and Orange Counties. The brothers, born 1844 and 1846 respectively, were sons of Simon Harp and Helen Jemima Clearwater, who was a cousin of Judge A. T. Clearwater. Mrs. Shaw and her brother, Attorney Peter H. Harp have cherished letters from their uncles, one of which is dated 1862, Headquarters Mountain Legion, Jamaica, L. I. another, 1863, from Camp Carrollton, Care Banks Division, New Orleans, tells of mutiny at Camp Kearney. Also, in a letter dated March 6, 1863, Harrisonville, Va., the young soldiers described the great battle around Winchester, told how much they missed their mother and of gratitude for letters and packages received from home. Peddlers near the encampment were selling homemade pies for 20 cent apiece, the boys wrote.

Mrs. Shaw's letter continues John C. Harp was mortally wounded and died Oct. 19, 1864, at the age of 20. Cyrus also was injured and was hospitalized for a long time before being returned home; a sufferer for years, he died August 25, 1892, and was buried in New Paltz Rural Cemetery. Warren Chipp Tamney, a grandfather of Mrs. Shaw, enlisted in Co. D, 20th Infantry, known later on in the war as the Eightieth N. Y. V. I. (the soldiers preferred the old title of 20th as did also the veterans of the Grand Army of the Republic Posts and the people of Ulster generally). Company D was assigned to provost-guard duty at City Point and at Norfolk. Tamney, who served with distinction at City Point and Petersburg was guard over the notorious Dick Turner, a turnkey at Libby Prison, and Ben Pool, famous Southern spy. He was born June 10, 1846, son of James and Anna Maria Hasbrouck Tamney, in the old stone house of Benjamin Hasbrouck on Buck Road, Stone Ridge, which is now owned by Mr. and Mrs. John Parete. In 1888 he removed to New Paltz where he was active in G.A.R. circles. He was father of Carrie Constable Tamney, who married Elting Harp in 1892.

Old Timer would like to obtain additional information regarding the following veterans: Alfred Tanner, Christopher Wood and John W. McEntee, all of 20th Regiment Infantry, and Alonzo G. Davis, 20th Artillery.—C.A.W.

First of the great war correspondents to give an eye witness account of the Civil War was Whitelaw Reid, of Cedarville, Ohio.

No Pointed Explanation Yet

Plain Answer by President On 'Sacrifices' Is Awaited

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst
WASHINGTON (AP)—Since before his election, President Kennedy has been putting emphasis on the idea of sacrifice ahead for the American people.

After 3½ months in office he hasn't requested the people to endure any hardships.

On the same day last week that he was asked to explain what sacrifices he had in mind, his administration indicated it was thinking of an income tax cut next year.

Some of His Quotes

Last July 15, in his speech accepting the Democratic nomination, he said: "The new frontier of which I speak is not a set of promises—it is a set of challenges. It sums up not what I intend to offer the American people but what I intend to ask of them."

"It appeals to their pride, not their pocketbooks—it holds out the promise of more sacrifice instead of more security."

In his inaugural address Jan. 20 he said: "Let every nation know, whether it wish us well or ill, that we shall pay any price, bear any burden, meet any hardship, support any friend or oppose any foe in order to assure the survival and success of liberty. This much we pledge—and more."

Hesitating About Laos

(But this country, whether or not it would be wise to get involved in war on the Asian continent, has shown great hesitancy about moving into Laos to fight against the Communist-led Pathet Lao for the right-wing Laotian government the United States supports.)

Later in his inaugural Kennedy said: "My fellow Americans, ask not what your country can do for you—ask what you can do for your country."

Last week in Chicago, making a talk at a Democratic dinner, he left out the following two sentences from his prepared speech: "Our greatest adversary is not the Russians. It is our own unwillingness to do what must be done."

Real Puzzling

This constant talk of sacrifice, without sacrifice being asked for, and the statement about "our unwillingness to do what must be done" has been so puzzling that a reporter asked Kennedy at his May 5 news conference to explain.

(This was the same day Treasury Secretary Douglas Dillon indicated the administration is studying the possibility of asking Congress next year to cut individual income taxes.)

But Kennedy's answer hardly came under the head of what might be considered "sacrifice." He said he thinks there are a number of things which can be usefully done.

"We are going to require a larger effort in space," he said. He explained he wanted a "re-labor and management in missile production."

He said further he wants to persuade labor and management to "come to useful national conclusions" on the problems of prices and wages.

He said he wants a greater effort, nationally and in local communities, to improve education. In addition, he said he wants the American people to try for more equal opportunity all people in this country, regardless of creed or color.

It's questionable that any of these points come under the head of "sacrifice." And, if they don't, then the President still hasn't explained what all the talk of sacrifice means or calls for.

Maj. Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor in France, 1944, during the early days of the invasion. He had parachuted on D-Day with the 101st Airborne Division, which he led. During the Bulge, he slipped past enemy lines to join his men.

After the war, Taylor served as superintendent of West Point, later as Allied commandant in Berlin. In 1953, Lt. Gen. Taylor was named chief of the U.S. 8th Army in Korea, where he argued for more vigorous U.N. offensive.

Taylor, now full general, is congratulated by Army Secretary Robert Stevens, right, as he became the Army's new Chief of Staff in 1955. Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, retiring chief, looks on. Taylor, long a foe of the "massive retaliation" concept, plumped hard for $10 billion Army modernization program to make U.S. strong in limited war capabilities.

Still an advocate of unconventional warfare, Taylor retired in 1959, sadly calling himself an "obsolescent general."

President Kennedy has called Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, 61, World War II hero and former Army Chief of Staff, out of retirement in the wake of the U. S.-backed Cuban invasion failure. Taylor's job will be to review the nation's entire intelligence setup along with guerrilla warfare and so-called paramilitary capabilities. The idea is that to meet the worldwide Communist threat, America may have to adopt Communist "unconventional warfare" tactics. Taylor's report, when it is made in about two months, will undoubtedly suggest important changes in U. S. cold war strategy.

Gary Marks Birthday

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Gary Cooper, fighting a game but losing battle with cancer, became 60 years old Sunday.

He received scores of birthday felicitations among the many letters pouring in on him since his critical illness became public.

"I know what is happening is God's will," the strong, silent man of the films said in a memo to newsmen last Thursday.

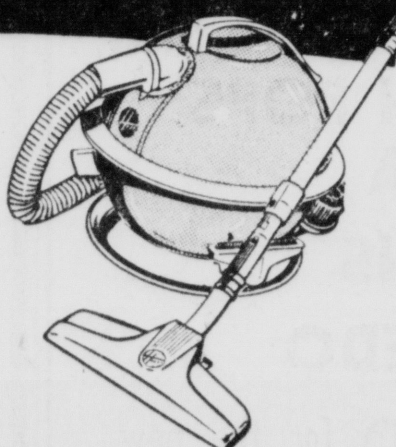

Sources close to him said they are inspired by the strength of his spiritual convictions and amazed at his courage.

The British general Wolfe and the French general Montcalm lost their lives on the Plains of Abraham (Quebec) in 1759.

Tutor Say Pope
Has No Brogue
From His Lessons

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—Is Pope John XXIII learning English with an Irish brogue? No, says Msgr. Thomas Ryan, an Irish-born priest who is his teacher. "Really, he has an Italian accent," Msgr. Ryan disclosed Sunday. "It's not true that I am giving him an Irish one."

Msgr. Ryan, who is making his first visit to the United States, stopped in Cleveland over the weekend. He is en route back to Rome after attending the 50th golden jubilee of a close friend, Bishop Aloysius J. Willinger of the Monterey-Fresno (Calif.) Diocese.

The Pope's English lessons actually started in Turkey, Msgr. Ryan explained.

"I was sent there to join the apostolic delegation in Istanbul," he said. "The apostolic delegate, Archbishop Roncalli, as he was then, decided that he should study English. We had lessons for a year and a half, and he did quite well."

"When he became Pope, he learned that I was at the Vatican and decided to continue his lessons with his old teacher."

Rolls-Royce May
Halt Production

LONDON (AP)—The Rolls-Royce, limousine of the truly opulent, may be on the way out.

The company that has built plush autos for kings, oil rich sheikhs, millionaires and film stars faced a financial crisis.

The trouble is caused by the recent British government law limiting to 2,000 pounds—$3,600—the income tax deduction for automobiles for company executives.

Lord Kindersley, chairman of Rolls-Royce, has warned the government that his company has been so hard hit by the tax law the firm's car division may have to cease production.

In less than three weeks since Chancellor of the Exchequer Selwyn Lloyd's budget proposal, the Rolls order book has shrunk by 75 per cent.

Rolls price tags range upward from 6,000 pounds—$16,800. The Creve plant produces only 2,400 a year and about half of them go in export. In January the wait for a new rolls was 12 months.

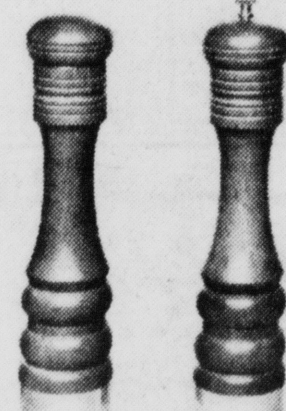

Since the budget the wait has dropped to four to five months and within eight weeks delivery is expected to be "immediate."

Bard Students Set Dates for Plays; Tickets Available

The spring season of the Bard College Theatre will comprise three productions to be presented during the next six weeks. The first, opening Saturday, May 13 through May 16, will be a new production of "Sean O'Casey's The Plough and the Stars," marking the 35th anniversary of its first performance as the climax of the author's contribution to the history of the Abbey Theatre in Dublin and the 45th anniversary of the events with which it is concerned, the Dublin Easter Rising. Following this, on Saturday and Sunday, June 3 and 4, will be a production of a very different play by the other master of the Irish dramatic movement, J. M. Synge's delightful folk-comedy, "The Tinker's Wedding."

Finally, from another master, Shakespeare, "Twelfth Night" is planned for June 17 and 18 in an open-air production in the gardens of the college, beside the Hudson.

Seats for the first production may be reserved by writing to Box 284 at the college, Annandale-on-Hudson, N. Y., or by telephone to the college Public Relations Office, or the theatre starting today.

RECEIVING A BOOK ALREADY READ

Q: When I was in the hospital recently, recovering from an operation, a friend of mine brought me a book to read. Yesterday, another friend came to visit me at home and brought me a copy of this same book. When I unwrapped the package and saw that it was the same book, I told her that I had already received a copy of the book and asked her if she would mind exchanging it for another that I hadn't read. When my friend left, a member of my family told me that I was very rude to have said anything to her about it and that I should have simply thanked her for it and let it go at that. Will you please tell me if I committed a breach of etiquette?

A: If it were a very good friend who brought you the book, it would have been better to have simply thanked her and asked a member of your family to try to exchange it for you.

Ready to Leave When Boy Calls

Q: Is it perhaps over-eager for a girl to have her coat and hat on ready to go when a boy calls for her?

A: This depends upon what their plans are for the evening. If they have to keep an engagement with others or would have to hurry to get to the beginning of a moving picture, she should be ready to leave. On the other hand, when there is plenty of time to spare, she should take him into the living room and let him at least greet her family, as well as modify the effect of too great an eagerness to be gone with him.

Visiting Boy Friend Who Has Broken Leg

Q: I'm a young girl who has a boy friend laid up with a broken leg. I would like to know if you think it would be all right for me to go and visit him some day. Some of my girl friends have told me that it would be improper.

A: Yes, but it would be advisable to find another friend of his who would like to visit him too, and then telephone and ask a member of his family if he would like you both to come to see him.

B'nai B'rith Girls Win Regional Honors

The eight members of Deborah 75 Chapter of B'nai B'rith Girls, who attended the regional convention at Albany the weekend of April 28-30, came home victorious. Kingston's chapter won three of the four awards given at the convention. The awards were the most work hours, the best scrap book and the story telling contest.

B'nai B'rith is primarily a service organization and all hours spent in community service are totaled for the work hour award. Kingston came in first with a total of 158 work hours. The scrap book is a way of showing what each chapter has accomplished during the year. It is judged on art work, contents, the covering of B.B.G.'s six folds and interest. Dianne Levine entered the regional storytelling contest with an ancient story entitled "Charity." Both the storytelling and the scrapbook entries will be entered at the district convention to be held at the Hotel Glenbriar in Warrensburg the weekend of May 12-14. Attending the convention will be Dianne Levine and Sue Tabakman.

Those who attended the regional convention were: Sue Schwartz, Maxine Meyers, Pam Fletcher, Sue Tabakman, Dianne Levine, Jackie Levine, Arlene Buchbinder and Peggy Starkman.

Kingston Hospital Staff Conducts Disaster Exercise

As a prelude to National Hospital Week, the medical staff of Kingston Hospital conducted a disaster plan exercise Saturday morning.

Robert M. Schnitzer, administrator of the hospital, initiated the exercise after evaluating a theoretical report of an explosion involving approximately 50 casualties. "Our main purpose," explained Schnitzer, "was to determine what problems might be encountered and how long it would take to summon over 40 physicians to the hospital."

Each physician has been assigned a specific post where, according to his specialty, he can be most effective in the event of a major disaster.

The organization of the medical staff and the supporting administrative services required was developed by a committee consisting of Drs. William E. Askue, Arthur Hazenbush and Glenn VanGaasbeek. During the exercise, professional coordination was directed by Dr. Harold L. Rakov, who indicated that the response was highly gratifying.

Iran Breakdown Looms

The government's financial structures "are in their last breath," Dr. Amini said in a nationwide broadcast Sunday. He asked Iranians to help revive the economy by increasing production and by cutting needless expenditures.

John Cashmore Dies After Fatal Attack

NEW YORK (AP)—John Cashmore, 65, Democratic president of the Borough of Brooklyn for 21 years, collapsed and died of a heart attack Sunday night in his chauffeur-driven limousine.

The veteran campaigner was en route to his Brooklyn home from the Williamsburg settlement house dinner at the Commodore Hotel in Manhattan when he slumped down in the back seat.

The chauffeur hailed a passing police car which escorted the limousine to Bellevue Hospital where emergency crews tried unsuccessfully to revive Cashmore with artificial respiration.

Hospital officials said Cashmore was carrying medicines normally used for treatment of a heart condition. A family spokesman said he had suffered for several years from heart trouble and diabetes.

On learning of the death, Mayor Robert F. Wagner ordered all flags on city buildings to be flown at half mast.

Commissioner of Borough Works John F. Hayes became acting borough president upon Cashmore's death. Hayes will serve until the Brooklyn members of the City Council appoint someone to complete Cashmore's term, which expires Dec. 31.

Asks State Labor To Obtain Better Part of U.S. Work

JAMESTOWN, N.Y. (AP)—Harold C. Hanover, State AFL-CIO president, urged organized labor today to take union action to obtain "a fairer share" of government defense contracts for New York State.

Hanover said California paid only half as much as New York in federal taxes, yet received twice as many defense contracts as New York.

Speaking at the convention of the State Union Label and Service Trades Department, AFL-CIO, Hanover said in a prepared address that labor's first concern was to obtain for New York "a fairer share of government procurement and contracts."

"New York State and New York workers have been shortchanged down in Washington and it's up to us to develop some plain and fancy union-labeled activity to alter this situation for the better," he said.

New York residents and business paid $17.3 billion in federal taxes in 1960, Hanover said, but the state received only $2.4 billion in defense contracts.

California provided the federal government $8 billion in taxes and received $4.8 billion in contracts—twice as much as New York, he said.

Hanover said that, in New York, 7 out of every 100 workers were idle through no fault of their own in the Albany-Schenectady-Troy area, 11 out of 100 in Buffalo, 8.2 per cent of the work force in Syracuse and 9.7 per cent in the Utica-Rome district.

Republican Sen. Jacob Javits of New York is sponsoring a bill in the U.S. Senate to bring about more competition for defense contracts.

Sen. Thomas H. Kuchel, R-Calif., is opposing the bill. He said proposals to reduce competition by adding economic geographical factors were "inspired in large part by obvious covetingness, by selfish envy, and by greater concern over local welfare than national security."

In reply to proposals by New York congressmen that the administration channel contracts into areas of high unemployment, Kuchel said defense programs must not be operated "as a 1961-style of the WPA."

Javits said he agreed and that his point was that "the basis for competition should be as broadly established as possible."

On the state level, Gov. Rockefeller recently announced the opening of New York State Commerce Department offices in Los Angeles and Chicago. Rockefeller said New York hoped to encourage businesses that were expanding and moving to come to this state.

Grain Farmers Get Extension To File Report

Final date for enrollment in the feed grain program has been extended to June 1, it was reported today by Edward M. Wood, chairman of the Ulster County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation office.

The deadline for filing reports on crops for 1959 and 1960 is May 20. This date was originally May 5.

When the report of crops is filed the county ASC committee sets a rate of payment for the farm. If the farmer accepts the rate and enrolls in the program he is paid for reducing his corn acreage for the coming year and diverting the land to a conservation use.

Farmers can receive approximately half of their payment at the time of enrollment. These funds can be used in any manner but in most cases it will be used to purchase equipment, seed, lime, fertilizer.

More than a million and a quarter dollars were paid to 5,100 New York State farmers as of April 28, 1961, and it is believed that this may be doubled by May 20. Wood urged farmers who grew hulled and silage corn in 1959 and 1960 to contact their local community committee or the ASC office for details.

Hyde Park Boy Fatally Injured In Road Mishap

A six-year-old Hyde Park boy was fatally injured early Saturday afternoon in a car-bicycle collision on River road in that village.

He was John W. Lomasney, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Lomasney.

The Dutchess County sheriff's office reported that the boy was riding on the handlebars of a bicycle operated by Robert Johnson, 8, of River road.

They were proceeding down hill on a curve when a car operated by Robert W. Biggs, 71, of River road, approached from the opposite direction.

The driver told sheriff's men he didn't see the bicycle until it was too close to avoid a collision. Both Biggs and the Johnson boy pulled to the right and were in head-on collision.

The Johnson boy was taken to Northern Dutchess Health Center, Rhinebeck, where his condition was reported today as fair.

The Lomasney child died at the scene a few minutes after the accident.

Probers Uncover Fortune in Home

VERONA, N. Y. (AP)—State Police, called to investigate the death of a 78-year-old man, found $65,000 in cash, checks and bankbooks and the dead man's seriously ill older brother in the ramshackle house where the two lived.

A neighbor found the body of Walter Taubman Sunday about 100 feet behind the house where Taubman and his brother, Thomas, 89, lived.

A coroner said Taubman had been dead since Thursday and probably died of natural causes.

State Police said they found Thomas sitting in a chair in the 1½-story frame house, approximately two miles north of this Oneida County community.

He was taken to Oneida County Hospital, Rome, and was reported semi-conscious and suffering from malnutrition.

Troopers said they found $5,000 in cash in the pocket of a pair of pants, $11,000 in uncashed checks and bank books showing deposits of $49,000.

The brothers had lived alone in the house for many years.

Protest Delays Syracuse Event

SYRACUSE, N. Y. (AP)—Demonstrating students, protesting what they charge is an official policy of discouraging dating between students of different religions and races, delayed moving up day ceremonies Saturday at Syracuse University.

The school has denied having any such policy but has taken the student demands under consideration.

The demonstrators, carrying placards and chanting, demanded a "definite commitment from the university that no member of the administration be allowed to infringe on the personal individual liberties of the students."

The students, said one example of this was "the practice in the past of advising parents of their sons' and daughters' dating habits."

The peaceful demonstration on the chapel steps by about 100 students, delayed the moving up day ceremonies for approximately 15 minutes. Then the demonstrators took seats in the bleachers.

Snead Shatters Jinx to Win Champs Tourney

By BOB MYERS
Associated Press Sports Writer

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—Sam Snead, golf's all-time leading money winner and the oldest man in the nation to win a major tournament, heads for the West Virginia hills today, richer by $10,000.

Snead, who'll be 49 May 27, finally added the Tournament of Champions to his roll of victories, breezing in Sunday by seven strokes.

After a shaky start, Snead put on the pressure in the final nine holes to shoot a three-under-par 69 and a 72-hole score of 273, 15 blows under par.

In the process he matched the early morning high wind and nearly blew his nearest challenger, veteran Tommy Bolt, off the course.

Snead began the round with a lead of five strokes over Bolt and Player. Sam was extremely wild off the tee on the first nine and Bolt, playing far more consistent golf, trimmed the margin to three strokes going into the final nine holes.

But from there on in it was Snead all the way, and the pressure began to stack up on Tommy. Snead birdied the 10th, 12th and 13th holes, while Bolt began to really droop with a double-bogey six on the 12th. When he hit into the lake on the 17th for a 1-over-par-5, the duel was definitely over.

Snead's jinx had been broken. It was in this tournament on three successive years that Snead, each time the heavy favorite, was a complete disappointment. In fact, although eligible, he would not return on other occasions until this year.

Tommy hung on to take second place and $5,000 with a 71 for wip. Bill Collins' 69 gave him 281 and $3,000. Bob Rosburg, with a 68 for 282, and Doug Ford, with a 73 for 283, were next in line.

Jay Hebert, the leader in the first two rounds, shot a 73 for 284 and a tie with South Africa's Gary Player and Canada's Stan Leonard. Each had a 74.

Boatmen Peek Into the Past At Old Connecticut Seaport

By WM. TAYLOR McKEOWN
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

MYSTIC, Conn. — (NEA) — Tradition is a rewarding part of pleasure boating, and the village of Mystic, in the seacoast corner of Connecticut, has brought a moment from the past.

Great sailing ships are now permanently moored along the wharves of New England whaling port recreated as it must have been more than 100 years ago.

Mystic sent ships around the world when wind was the only power. Sailors rolled along its cobblestone streets carrying souvenirs from Oriental and other faraway ports.

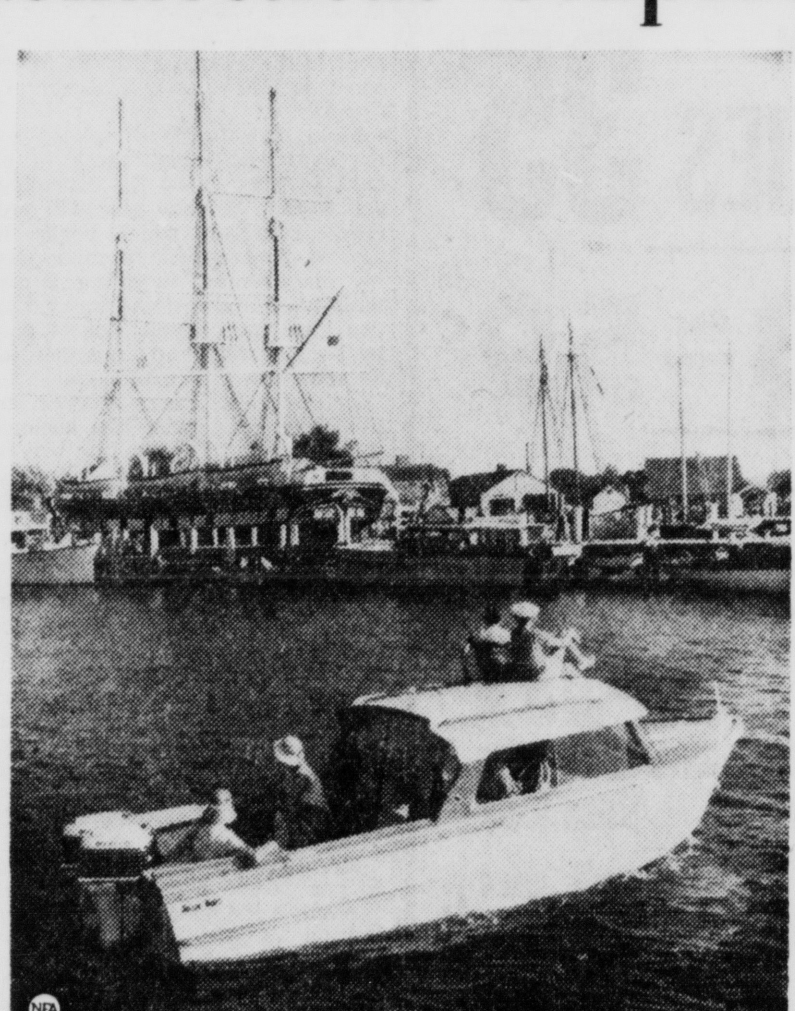

Now the streets, village stores, blacksmith shop, sailors' tavern, rope walk, sailmaker's loft and community firehouse and church have been rebuilt. Some of the old salt's mementos and his scrimshaw carvings in walbone and ivory, made while on long voyages, are on display.

New features are being constantly added. An educational planetarium is the latest project. The Seaport is open to visitors all year. Spring brings back experts who staff each exhibit all summer and give free explanations of boating customs and traditions.

Not all displays are old. During the last two summers, Columbia, winning defender of the America's Cup, and considered the latest perfection of sailboat design, is there.

On the Mystic River near New London, the Seaport is easily reached by car along Boston Post Road Route 1, or nearby turnpikes. A more appealing approach is by water. Sailing "down east" out of Long Island Sound, or west from Cape Cod between Fisher's Island and the mainland, the boatman slants in between Ram Island and Morgan Point to enter Mystic River channel.

The first tie-up stop is usually at Skippers' Dock, just to port in Noank, where a 250-foot pier, deep water, notable shore dinners and ship's stores are waiting. Good holding grounds allow anchoring.

Chart 358 shows at least eight feet of water up the three-mile channel from Skippers' Dock to the railroad lift bridge at Mystic and the mile beyond to the Seaport museum. The visiting skipper may tie up if he has paid the nominal membership fee that helps support this non-profit landmark.

An old clubhouse, donated by the New York Yacht Club, shelters mementos of famous yachts and the bygone America's Cup races, as well as modern shore facilities for visiting boating families.

Youngsters may be sent ashore to clamber about the square rigged whalers tied up at wharves, or visit the displays of old craft and figureheads now resting on land.

Mystic today gives a vivid picture of why the colonies earned a seagoing reputation even before they were united.

Withers Stake Is Big Feature Of Week's Card at Aqueduct

This week at Aqueduct will be a week of firsts for the season in New York, to be climaxed by the eighty-sixth running of one of the oldest stakes for three-year-olds, the $50,000 added Withers at a mile on Saturday.

Season inaugurals for the Thoroughbreds in New York will be the first race of the year for the jumpers on Monday, the first stakes race for the two-year-olds — the forty-eighth running of the Youthful — on Monday, and the first stakes race over the turf course, the fifth running of the Idlewild Handicap at a mile and a furlong on Wednesday.

The Withers, first run at Jerome Park in 1874, will draw from the top flight of the division that passed up the longer mile and a quarter of the Derby. A strong field is in prospect headed by H. O. H. Frelinghysen's Merry Ruler and the Alamode Farm's Vapor Whirl. Merry Ruler won the Swift and the Bay Shore at the current Big A meeting and in his most recent start beat Vapor Whirl at Garden State on April 29.

Vapor Whirl was making his first start since the Hialeah meeting this winter in the Delaware Valley. At Hialeah he had won the Bahamas, beating such as Carry Back and Crozier. Vapor Whirl also may have a stablemate, Flying Mercury, running with him. Flying Mercury is a winner at the meeting.

Also possible starters in the Withers are such good runners as Calumet Farm's Orazio, Boncris Farm's Nashua Blue, Darby Dan Farm's Upscope, Elmendorf Farm's Mandate, L. L. Haggins' 2nd's Astate, High Tide Stable's Baldpate, William MacDonald, Jr.'s Belair Road, Mrs. W. G. Morton's Hy-Nat and the Rokeby Stable's Fountain Hill.

Su Mac Lad to Participate In Free-for-All at Goshen

GOSHEN, N. Y.—The hottest off in straight heats by Darn Safe whose fastest time was 2:01.4, driven by Del Miller. Darn Safe won it two years earlier in 2:01.3. He's entered again this year and along with the Canadian trotter Tie Silk, should give Su Mac Lad plenty of trouble. The Canadian has chased Dancer & Co. around the track at Yonkers and is used to winning races, picking up over $161,000 in four major purses last season alone.

The big question mark hanging over the rich Titan Trot is a four year old mare elected the top trotter of 1960 and holder of a 1:58.3 mile as a three year old. Her name is Elaine Rodney and her pilot is one of the cleverest drivers on the turf, Clint Hodgins. Elaine hasn't touched the races yet this year and she's the real Dark Horse of the season. Su Mac Lad will have to stay hot if he wants to keep ahead of all that competition.

Lou Gallo Shoots 644 to Take Gross Lead in Moose Tourney

LA Kegler Hits 300 in Masters

DETROIT (AP)—A little-known 23-year-old from Los Angeles today was threatening the stars' usual domination of the American Bowling Congress Masters Tournament.

Alvin (Bud) Horn Jr. rolled the first perfect game in the 11-year history of the meet Sunday in his eighth and final qualifying game. The 300 score put Horn into the finals with a 1648 total.

Masters play ends Wednesday. Horn's was the 18th perfect game shot on ABC tournament lanes since the annual event began in 1901. It enabled him to post the highest total among the 64 finalists in the first Masters round.

Jays, Hawks Capture Jaycee LL Openers

Andy Murphy proved to be Horatio at the Bridge in the opening of the Jaycee Little League yesterday. The son of the Superintendent of Recreation combined with George Dougherty to hurl a no-hitter as the Jays nipped the Hawks 5-4, in the first game of a doubleheader.

In contrast to the opener, the second contest was a slugfest as the Hawks whipped the Wrens, 13-8.

Murphy relieved Dougherty in the fourth inning when the losers scored four times. Wildness was Dougherty's chief enemy. He walked nine batters in a little more than three frames. He left with his club on the short end of a 4-3 margin.

However, the Jays picked up two runs in the fifth and then Murphy completed the no-hitter with his stout relief pitching. He permitted only one walk and fanned three to earn the decision.

Jordan Pauker went the distance for the Hawks. He allowed three hits, including a double by catcher Eddie Argulewicz. He gave up three walks and struck out 12 in a good effort.

The Wrens committed 11 errors against the Hawks and it proved to be their downfall. The Wrens had an 8-1 lead before they blew the decision in the last three innings. There were three hits and five errors in a six-run third by the winners.

Jerry Corrado of the losers and Ken Gilligan of the Hawks rapped two hits each, including a double. Jay Falvey won in relief while Rue Vel was tagged with the loss.

Mayor Radel and several other city officials were in attendance at the league's opening, held at Forsyth Park.

There will be election of officers, Augustine Baptiste, league president, urges a large attendance. All parents and persons interested in volunteering their services for the Little League program are invited.

Left hander Tom Tobey held the New Paltz Hawks to a lone single Saturday and Oneonta State grabbed a 4-0 win at the New Paltz High school diamond.

The winners scored single runs in the third, fifth, sixth and eighth frames. Starter Ted Bentzen was the loser and frosh prospect Sam Mandia relieved.

Rochester Kegler Paces Moose Bowling

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP)—Phil Young of Westfield holds the scratch and handicap singles championship and sportswriter Bruce Koch of Rochester the scratch all-events title today in the Moose International Bowling Tournament.

Young's handicap 761 and scratch 702 headed the list in Sunday night's final postings in the seven-week tourney. More than 2,500 bowlers rolled in the national competition.

Koch, a Rochester Democrat & Chronicle sportswriter, fired a 1,928 in the all-events.

Cobb was hated by opposing players and disliked by teammates. He preferred it that way. His only desire in baseball was to win. If this meant sliding into a base with spikes flashing or berating a fellow team member for mediocre playing, that's what he did.

Cobb was never included in the clubhouse camaraderie that usually exists between players on the same team.

"He liked to shoot dice," Bush said, "but he didn't get invited very often. The Tigers respected Cobb's ability on the field, however, knew that without him they would be just another club."

That's why they went on strike in Philadelphia one time when Cobb was suspended.

"I was the cause of that," Bush declared. "And I believe that time Cobb was right. We were playing in New York and it had been raining."

"This guy in the third base box was on Cobb from the start. Late in the game Cobb and I were heading out to the field and this guy hollered something. I turned and said, 'Who're you shouting at?'"

"That so-and-so Cobb," he yelled. Ty turned and leaped the fence in front of the box and was all over the guy. The next day the papers made a big fuss about the fact that the fellow had only one arm. It didn't look that way from the field. He had a big overcoat on with one sleeve tucked in the pocket. It just looked like he had his hand in there."

Loi Defends His Title Against Ortiz in Rome

Dulioi Loi will defend his world junior welterweight title against Carlos Ortiz, the ex-champ from New York, Wednesday at Milan, Italy in the third meeting of these two capable boxers.

Ortiz turned back Loi's challenge in San Francisco last June 15 but lost the crown to the Italian in Milan Sept. 1.

About 55,000 tickets have been sold for the third bout at the Milan Soccer Stadium which has a capacity of 65,000. The fight, originally scheduled for April 23, was rained out. The promoter had to wait until Wednesday to get an other date in the stadium.

Zora Foley, the Phoenix, Ariz., heavyweight who is rated No. 3 by Ring and No. 4 by the National Boxing Association among Floyd Patterson's challengers, takes on Alejandro Lavorante, 24-year-old Los Angeles import, Thursday at Los Angeles.

As Patterson recently said all challengers in the top 10, except Sonny Liston and Eddie Machen, might be considered for a September title fight, Foley has new reason to hope. He can not afford to take lightly the Argentine.

Roland Lastarza, who once fought Rocky Marciano for the title and was knocked out in 1952, starts another comeback Monday in San Francisco where he will face Monroe Aratiff, former California light heavy champ.

Vince Martinez, another boxer who once fought for a world title and also was knocked out, headlined the Monday card at St. Nicholas Arena in New York against Miguel Angel Aguero, an Argentine making his U.S. debut. Martinez, stylish Paterson, N.J. welter was stopped by Virgil Finks in a title fight in 1958.

The Saturday night television (ABC) show comes from St. Nicholas Arena where Charley Scott of Philadelphia and Jose Gonzalez of Puerto Rico clash in a 10-round welterweight match.

Dodgers Trim Braves, 6-3 In Ulster LL Opening Game

After giving the Braves three runs in the last of the first inning, the Dodgers rallied in the fourth and fifth frames to win, 6-3, in the opening of the Town of Esopus Little League season Saturday at Ross Park in Port Ewen.

Almost 200 were present and the American Legion color guard of the Town of Esopus Post No. 1298, held a flag ceremony. Supervisor Roger M. Mabie threw out the first ball.

Good relief work by Joachim Ensigne and the hitting of Paul Coliukus sparked the Dodgers in their triumph. Craig Johnson was the best for the losers with a double and single in three trips.

Galveston Golfer Captures Waco Open

BURNEYVILLE, Okla. (AP)—Texas played a big part in the Waco Turner Open Golf Tournament. It produced the winner Sunday and the runner-up.

Young Butch Baird of Galveston captured the $2,800 first prize with a pair of 5-under par 68s after opening rounds of 73-72 for 281.

Another Texan, 25-year-old Rex Baxter Jr., of Amarillo, missed a 35-foot putt on the 18th green by inches in the final round and took a par 73 for a total of 282, one stroke behind Baird.

Detroit Wins Doubleheader; Reds Sweep Milwaukee Twice

Triumphs Over White Sox Boost Lead to 2½ Games

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

Detroit stretched its winning streak to five and opened a 2½ game lead in the American League Sunday by sweeping a doubleheader from the Chicago White Sox 8-6 and 5-3 as the New York Yankees lost 5-3 to Los Angeles.

In other Sunday games Cleveland and Washington split. The Indians took the first game 4-2 and Washington the second 4-3. Boston beat Minnesota 11-9 in a single and Kansas City beat Baltimore 5-4 in 10 innings in the first of a scheduled twin bill. The second game was rained out.

The Yankees, who live by the home run died by the home run over the weekend when the Angels beat them with their own weapon.

The friendly fences proved too handy for the Angels who hit seven home runs to the Yanks' four in the three-game series. Instead of a tape measure for Mickey Mantle's clouts they needed a statistician to figure that 0 for 11 dropped his average from .348 to .299.

Leon Wagner, rescued from the International League by his old boss, Manager Bill Rigney, drove in three runs with a two-run homer and double in a 5-3 Los Angeles victory Sunday. Wagner also hit two homers and a triple in Saturday night's Angel triumph.

Albie Pearson, who also homered Saturday, and Gene Leek joined Wagner Sunday while Yogi Berra and Johnny Blanchard hit the ball out of the park for the Yanks.

Detroit's rollicking Tigers opened up a 2½ game lead while the Yanks were having their troubles on the West Coast. The Tigers bopped Chicago twice 8-6 and 5-3, running their own winning streak to five and the Sox' losing string to seven. The double defeat put Chicago into 10th and last place.

Rookie Chuck Schilling knocked in six runs with a grand slam homer and a two-run double in Boston's 11-9 decision over the Minnesota Twins. Harmon Killebrew homered twice for the Twins.

Kansas City shaded Baltimore 5-4 in 10 innings on Norm Siebern's single in the first frame. Rain washed out the second.

Cleveland's Wynn Hawkins got the Tribe away to a 4-2 first game victory over Washington on a four-hitter. The Senators got an even break 4-3 on Gene Woodling's three-run homer, his second of the day, and Willie Tasby's clutch single.

Those Tigers show no signs of letting up. They haven't lost a series this year and slashed a total of 50 hits in a four-game sweep over the White Sox.

Roy Sievers hit two homers for the Sox in the opener, one of them with the bases full, but the Tigers came up with five in the seventh and scored the winning run on Bob Shaw's wild pitch.

Jake Wood added an insurance run with a homer in the eighth. Rocky Colavito homered in the second game as Phil Rogan went all the way with an eight-hitter, beating Cal McLish.

Schilling was the big noise for the Red Sox with his grand slammer in the fourth and double in the eighth as Mike Fomielews on relief over Camilo Pascual.

They started the second game in Kansas City but had to stop play in the third with the A's leading 2-0 because of the rain. Siebern's winning hit in the 10th inning of the first game followed a double by Jerry Lumpe and an error by Jackie Brandt.

Hawkins' victory in the first game was only the third complete game for the Cleveland staff this season. One of the four Washington hits was Woodling's first home run in relief. Woodling hit No. 2 off Jim Grant with two on in the sixth inning of the second game but Tasby's single in the eighth proved decisive.

Shepard Movies Record Flight Through Space

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) —Color films taken by three automatic cameras in Alan B. Shepard Jr.'s space capsule are providing valuable information about his pioneering flight.

A still 70mm camera snapped pictures through the periscope which gave Shepard his "beautiful view" of the earth. A 16mm movie camera attached to the instrument panel recorded Shepard's facial reactions and hand movements. Another was aimed over his shoulder at the numerous lights and dials on the instrument panel.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration over the weekend released a few black and white prints from the periscope and pilot reaction cameras. The color negatives from which they were made were more detailed.

One periscope shot showed the eastern coastline of the United States from the tip of Florida to Cape Hatteras, N.C., from an altitude of 90-100 miles. Several small clouds were visible.

This was taken about three minutes after launch, about the time Shepard called out by radio his now famous quote: "What a beautiful view."

Another periscope photo showed a small drogue parachute and its container drifting toward the ocean after they jettisoned from the spacecraft about nine minutes after launch. Shepard had shifted the periscope from "low" to "high" magnification for this shot.

The reaction camera, located about four feet from Shepard's face, produced 200 feet of film covering the entire ride. It took four frames a minute.

Color film was used primarily for medical reasons. Doctors wanted to detect any skin color change during flight.

Clergyman Proposes End of State Bingo

NEW YORK (AP) — The Rev. Dr. Dan M. Potter, director of the Protestant Council of the City of New York, suggests that bingo be outlawed in New York State.

Dr. Potter mentioned the bingo problem Sunday in an address at the annual communion breakfast of the St. George Association of the city police department. He called gambling the "philosophy of the criminal—getting something for nothing."

Later in an interview with a newspaper, he suggested outlawing bingo games.

MEXICO, N. Y. (AP)—An early-morning fire destroyed the plant of the Mexico Food Locker Co. today. The loss, excluding contents, was estimated at $100,000.

Four fire companies battled the flames in the two-story, frame building and prevented the fire from spreading to a lumber yard on Scenic Avenue in this Oswego County community.

Fire Chief Everett Backus, who estimated the loss, said the estimate did not include refrigeration equipment or food stores in the 50-foot-long building.

The cause of the fire was not determined.

Airline Workers Return to Jobs, To Resume Talks

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — National Airlines' 4,000 employees are returning to work for resumption — set Wednesday — of service shut down a week ago by a machinists' strike.

National planned to announce schedules today for first flights over its 32-city system spanning the South from Houston, Tex., to Miami and along the Eastern seaboard to Boston.

It takes longer to put an airline back in service than it does to shut it down, an NAL spokesman said.

Issues over which the International Association of Machinists walked out are not settled. The union and company agreed Sunday to submit them to binding arbitration as proposed by Secretary of Labor Arthur J. Goldberg, and meanwhile to resume work and operations.

Before the strike, the union said a new contract duration of 27 months and pay boosts for mechanics had been agreed on. The mechanics, who have been drawing $1.95 to $2.95 an hour, were to get 8 to 15 cents boost.

The principle issue was whether stock clerks should be allowed to advance to higher pay classifications to which the union contended they are eligible by work performance.

Other points to be settled in arbitration by Nathan P. Feinsinger, a University of Wisconsin law professor, include seniority, severance pay, sick leave, and shift differentials.

The machinists represent most National Airlines ground workers. Their contract expired last October.

Firemen Respond 5 Times Saturday, Get Sunday Call

Firemen checked a house fire, responded to four other calls Saturday, two of them for automobile fires, and were called on another car fire Sunday.

A laundry room fire was reported as the cause of a second-floor fire in the house of John Raible, 71 East Chester Street Saturday afternoon. It damaged sections of walls, ceiling, flooring, curtains and the ironing board.

Units from Central and Wiltwyck stations and the Wicks Company answered an alarm from Box 5512, Clifton and Highland Avenues at 4:43 p. m. A call at 6:10 p. m. was for a fire which damaged the rear seat of the car of Thomas Leahy, 295 Hasbrouck Avenue at that address. Another at 10:54 p. m. was for a fire caused by a carburetor backfire in the station wagon of James Plunket, 316 Washington Avenue.

Brush fire calls were reported at 4:32 and 4:34 p. m., Saturday. The first was for an area near the end of Field Court, and the other was off Hooker Street.

A call at 7:40 a. m., Sunday was for a fire in the sedan of Albert Dunn, 4 Tietjen Avenue, which was used as a taxi. It caught fire in seat upholstery while it was in a garage. Firemen moved it out to check the blaze which caused considerable damage to the interior. A Central Station unit responded.

Two Turned Over To Albany Police

A Troy resident who said he was a parole violator and a local man, who, police said, kept a borrowed car too long were turned over to Albany authorities over the weekend.

Patrick J. Dwane, 30, of 540 Congress Street, Troy, notified police early Sunday that he was a parole violator and asked that he be picked up. Officers Robert Bonesteel and Robert Hough-taling were dispatched to Broadway and Henry Street to oblige him.

Action by State Police Investigator Edward Shannon, local Detectives Albert Hutton and Leonard Ellsworth resulted in the arrest Saturday of William D. Raible, 28, of 71 East Chester Street, on a larceny charge. He was turned over to detectives Thomas Tansey and James Linden, of Albany.

Police said Raible is charged with having borrowed an automobile from a friend at the Veterans' Hospital, Albany, late last March and had not returned it.

Forest W. Brinkerhoff, 39, of 124 Wilbur Avenue, was arrested Sunday on a warrant executed by officers George Barringer and Thomas Coffey and charging third degree assault. His wife, Florence, was listed as complainant and City Judge Aaron E. Klein today put the case over to Tuesday night to permit him time to obtain counsel. He was released in his own recognizance until that time.

29 Die, 100 Hurt, Damage Mounts

Storms, Floods Take Heavy Toll in Midwest

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Violent storms and floods, the spring season's two-pronged disaster weapon, took a heavy toll in deaths and injuries over the weekend across broad sections of the mid-continent.

Property damage in the storm-battered sections of eight states was in the millions of dollars. Hundreds of persons were made temporarily homeless.

The flash floods and severe weather, including tornadoes, gusty winds, heavy rain and hail, were blamed for at least 29 deaths. Nearly 100 persons were injured.

Red Cross Gives Aid

The American Red Cross in St. Louis said arrangements were made to provide food, clothing, medical care and emergency shelter for an estimated 1,000 families in north central Arkansas, south-east Missouri, northeast Oklahoma, southern Illinois and Kansas.

Severe thunderstorms continued during the morning in many areas from Oklahoma and Kansas northeastward through the middle and upper Mississippi Valley into the Great Lakes region.

Tornadoes struck six communities in Arkansas Sunday, killing four persons. Three others were drowned in swollen streams in the state. Included were two persons who lost their lives in a flash flood in Harrison, one of the hardest hit towns in the storm belt.

The twisters in Arkansas hit Midway, Whiteville, Clarkridge, Pindall, Summit and Oil Trough. Three persons were killed at Summit, near Yellville, and one person in Midway. About 40 homes were destroyed in a 20-mile area between Pindall and Yellville. Nineteen persons were hurt.

National Guard Called Out
National Guardsmen were sent into Harrison, a community of 6,500, after Gov. Orval E. Faubus declared martial law. Crooked Creek overflowed and sent a wall of water 14 feet high through the streets of the northwest Arkansas town. Two men drowned and an elderly couple was missing in Harrison. Damage was estimated by Mayor Dene O. Hester at $5 to $10 million. A youth drowned in flooded Sugar Creek near Springdale, the seventh storm-related death in Arkansas.

Tornadoes also pounded South Fork, Mo., about 60 miles northwest of the severe storm area in Arkansas, injuring eight persons. A dozen persons were hurt in a tornado which hit an area of Kentucky.

Chamber Member Drive Reported Very Gratifying

Early Kingston Area Chamber of Commerce renewals are reported very gratifying. By Saturday, only six days after the beginning of the fiscal year, 133 membership renewals had been received. In addition 28 new membership applications had been turned in.

Tuesday the board of directors will meet at 7:30 p. m. in the Governor Clinton Hotel for their regular monthly meeting. Membership drive progress reports will be given, in addition to a full agenda of other business.

During the coming year the Chamber of Commerce will place special emphasis on industrial and trade development, planning, park and recreation facilities, education at all levels, legislative activities, safety promotion, convention promotion and problems relating to traffic movement and parking.

This Week Last To Enroll for Concert Series

Encouraging first reports lent impetus to the final week of the Kingston Community Concerts Association membership drive Sunday afternoon as workers met in a concerted effort to enroll the complete membership of more than 1500 for the ninth consecutive season of sold-out houses. The deadline for next season's series is Saturday noon.

The Boston Pops Orchestra with Arthur Fiedler, conducting; Metropolitan Opera Star mezzo-soprano, Rise Stevens; and the violin virtuoso, Jaime Laredo, have been signed. Attendance at the concerts is by membership card only which must be obtained this week.

Hours from 9:30 to 4:30
Headquarters for the drive will be open daily from 9:30 a. m. to 4:30 p. m. through Friday and to noon Saturday. Anyone is eligible to join simply by paying the membership dues this week.

Robert Geissinger, representative of the New York office of Community Concerts Association, will be in Kingston this week to assist workers in the campaign. At Sunday's meeting in the Governor Clinton Hotel, he spoke of the growing interest in America for music and live concerts. Last year he worked in the Maritime Provinces of Canada where there are more Community Concert Associations per land area than anywhere else in North America although the only income for the people is from farming and fishing.

Rusk Says That U. S. Is Staying in Berlin Despite Any Treaty

OSLO, Norway (AP) — Secretary of State Dean Rusk declared today the United States intends to maintain its presence in West Berlin even if the Russians sign a separate peace treaty with East Germany.

He told a conference of NATO foreign ministers that Premier Khrushchev should be left in no doubt on this point.

His statement was made at a closed meeting with the gist of his remarks given later to newsmen.

Anticipates Move
The American secretary of state said he anticipated that Khrushchev would pull the Berlin and German problem out of the bag soon.

Rusk pledged that the U. S. government will prevent any erosion of the Allied position in the divided German city and will seek to balk any Soviet move to sign a separate peace treaty with Communist East Germany.

Conference sources gave that summary of remarks made by Rusk to the foreign ministers of the other 14 NATO countries who began a three-day meeting today.

Behind closed doors Rusk elaborated on a prediction voiced earlier in the formal opening session by Dirk U. Stikker, the new NATO secretary-general. Stikker predicted that Khrushchev was about to revive the Berlin question, possibly in a new form.

Dormant Two Years
The intertwined Berlin and German problem—long regarded as the most dangerous cold war issue—has been largely dormant now for almost two years. Rusk thought that the Soviet Union now is about ready to make a new effort to pry the American, British and French garrisons out of West Berlin.

Conference sources said Rusk saw the situation this way: Soviet military can be expected to increase all around the periphery of the Western world. Khrushchev may seek to throw the Western world off balance by coming forward with a few conciliatory gestures.

Wants Fuller Consultation
Rusk wants fuller consultation between the 15 members of NATO. As an example, he spoke with great candor about Laos, South Viet Nam and Cuba—all areas where the Communist bloc is pressing the West.

Rusk said the happenings in those places are not isolated incidents but part of a coordinated Soviet testing of Western intentions and a probing for weak spots. He predicted that sort of thing would continue.

Rusk also reviewed the prospects for the deadlocked three-power nuclear test ban negotiations in Geneva. The Soviet demand for a three-man control board to replace a neutral administrator dims not only the chance of securing a nuclear test treaty but also bodes ill for general disarmament negotiations, Rusk explained.

No Decision Yet
The U. S. government has made no decision yet on whether to resume underground nuclear testing, Rusk said. He promised that America would consult fully with its NATO allies on the whole field of disarmament.

In addition to urging fuller, early consultation among the NATO members, Rusk at the current meeting will also urge a buildup of NATO's conventional military forces so it can answer small fire alarms with something besides an all-out nuclear response. Nuclear weapons would be kept at the ready.

President Emphasizes Flight Is Made Under Conditions of Full Publicity

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy today pinned a hero's medal on the nation's first spaceman, Cmdr. Alan B. Shepard Jr.

The President told Shepard the nation is proud of him and his fellow spacemen.

The 5,100-mile an hour flight through space last Friday, Kennedy said, was a common effort to which many contributed.

"I want to express on behalf of us all the great pleasure we have in welcoming Cmdr. Shepard and Mrs. Shepard here today," Kennedy said in greeting the couple on the White House lawn.

Appreciated by Everyone
He added that everyone appreciates "the great service he has rendered our country."

"And we are also proud of Mrs. Shepard," Kennedy went on. He praised the other six astronauts and emphasized that "this was a common effort in which many men were involved."

"So I think we'll give them all a hand," the President said.

The bystanders did.

"I also want to pay a particular tribute to some who worked on this flight," Kennedy said, naming a number of National Aeronautics and Space Administration officials who worked on the flight that carried Shepard 115 miles into space Friday.

As he ticked off the roll of NASA officials Kennedy observed that the names are not too familiar.

Done for World to See
"If the flight had not been a success, the names would have been very familiar," he said with a smile.

He noted also that the flight was made under conditions of full publicity, in a free society willing to "risk much and gain much."

Shepard, his wife and the six men he beat out for the honor of the first American space trip had just flown to the White House by helicopter from Andrews Air Force Base in suburban Maryland. The astronauts flew in from Grand Bahama Island where Shepard had been under observation after his history-making feat. Mrs. Shepard was flown in just ahead of them from Virginia Beach, Va.

A hazy overcast broke up just before the helicopters arrived. The helicopters landed in front of the White House south entrance where Kennedy, his wife and others were waiting.

Called a Civilian Award
Reading the citation to Shepard from NASA, Kennedy called it a "civilian award for a great civilian accomplishment."

"I want again to express our appreciation to Alan Shepard," he

Rusk Wants More Talks Among NATO Forces

OSLO, Norway (AP)—Secretary of State Dean Rusk proposes that his North Atlantic Treaty Organization colleagues bolster their alliance by more cooperation among members and more non-nuclear military forces.

Rusk wants the 15 NATO members to increase their consultations with each other—to seek advice from their friends when their specific problems are in an early stage.

He wants NATO to build up its conventional military forces so it can answer a little fire alarm with something besides an all-out nuclear response.

Other Ministers Agree
The other ministers already agree with the goals Rusk seeks to attain. They are expected to give formal approval to both proposals during their three-day conference which opened today in Norway's picturesque capital.

Agreeing on goals is one thing. Achieving them will be a great deal harder.

The NATO allies have been talking about increasing consultation for 10 years and doing little about it. No foreign ministry finds it easy to share its worries and doubts even with its closest associates.

But President Kennedy's administration is proposing to talk over all its problems in Southeast Asia, Europe and even in Latin America with the other NATO allies on condition that the other 14 members of the alliance are equally frank.

Early Policy Essential
An informant explained that a country formulates policy in the early stage of a problem. That is the time when the advice of an

Probers Say Albany Mayor Controls Tax Compromises

NEW YORK (AP)—The State Investigation Commission said today that Mayor Ernest C. Corning of Albany has played a major role in growing tax delinquencies in Albany County.

The commission said in an 84-page report that Corning effectively controlled compromises on tax arrears made by the Albany County Board of Supervisors even though the City of Albany had no stake in the settlement results.

Corning is a Democrat.

The report said county real estate tax delinquencies as of Jan. 1, 1960, were $7,901,057, or 33 times greater than the average delinquencies in four other approximately comparable counties.

The commission said that if most accumulated delinquencies were collected by the county, "one entire year's levy of county real estate taxes could be dispensed with."

The commission said many Albany County citizens do not know that county or city officials in Albany afford "special dispensations" in tax matters often to "wealthy investors."

"The report alleged such practices as the levying of real estate taxes 'year after year' on a dead man, and criticized the lack of any 'meaningful threat' to a taxpayer who does not pay his taxes."

The commission held that the information that compromises and action by the Board of Supervisors on taxes "can be profitable seems to be equivalent to a special privilege for the 'insider' group."

Charge He Sets Figures
It was charged that Corning sets the figure for tax delinquency settlements, although there is no legal basis for such actions by him. "When he has made his recommendation, what follows is routine," the report said.

"It is evident that the county's primary concern is the public relations aspect of making gifts to taxpayers of substantial discounts despite long-standing delinquencies," the report added.

How It Works
The average taxpayer, it said, does not know that he may "literally make a profit by not paying his taxes when due," and so pays his taxes promptly.

In contrast, the report continued, "the absentee slum landlord does not receive his tax bill because he is not to be found at the address of his property and no attempt is made to trace him."

The investigation commission said public pressure in Albany County is needed to see that the tax collection system is as fair and economical as possible.

Eichmann Witness Recalls Atrocities by SS Guard

JERUSALEM (AP)—A matronly Jewish woman told the Eichmann trial court today of being shot by men of the Nazi SS elite guard, falling into a mass grave, fighting her way up through bodies for air and surviving.

Mrs. Rifka Yosilevsky, a native of Russia who was unable to testify last week because of a mild heart attack, was restrained on the witness stand. But her voice broke when she told of seeing her little daughter shot.

In the Pink area in 1942, she said, Jews were rounded up by the hundreds and taken to a burial pit.

Tells of Cruelties
Her account of what happened then held the 700 spectators spellbound at the 20th session of the trial of Adolf Eichmann, who is charged with being a chief accomplice in the Nazi extermination of six million Jews.

"We were taken, some in a truck and others forced to run behind it," Mrs. Yosilevsky said.

Those in the truck, arriving first, were stripped and shot by the time they got to the freshly dug pit. Her father refused to undress, she said, and his clothing was torn from him.

"There were four devils, SS men, they shot us."

"The children wanted to run. It was hard to hold on to them. We hurried, we were sort of anxious to get it all over. My mother, my grandmother, she was 80 years old and had a baby in her arms, my father, my sister."

Topples Into Ditch
"Then it came my turn. The German asked me 'Who shall I shoot first?' I did not answer."

Ninth-Graders Will Take New Approach to Geography

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—International political alignments, economic systems and culture patterns will be part of a new approach ninth-graders in New York State public schools will take to geography.

The State Education Department said the course would place new emphasis on Russia, Latin America, the Far East, Africa and other world cultures.

The department said in a statement today the course, "The Economic World," would be designed to give pupils understanding of how people live, how technical knowledge and accumulated capital contribute to the raising of economic standards and how long-established cultural traditions may help or hinder political, social and economic progress.

At the same time, the department said, pupils will still be taught place geography—the locations of rivers, mountains and capital cities.

The new course is part of a revised junior high school program in social studies. Gordon E. Van Hooft, chief of the Education Department's bureau of secondary curriculum development, said the ninth-grade course was the most significant revision.

These other changes will be made in the new school year: Seventh Grade — Regional geography will be emphasized in the course "Our Community and State." State history will receive greater attention and famous New Yorkers, particularly important governors, will be featured.

Eighth grade — A course on United States history is being brought up to date. The department said this course stresses the high adventure in the nation's past and highlights exploits of national heroes. Patriotism and respect for the flag are fostered the department said.

Tshombe Will Be Prosecuted In Plan in Katanga

COQUILHATVILLE, the Congo (AP)—President Joseph Kasavubu's government says it will prosecute Katanga President Moïse Tshombe for treason and will try to bring his breakaway province back under central government control.

Foreign Minister Justin Bomboko told a news conference Tshombe would be tried for a series of crimes, including the assassination of former Prince Lumumba. Kasavubu himself had ordered Lumumba handed over to Tshombe to prevent his escaping custody and regaining control of the government.

Tshombe was arrested April 26 after he walked out of a meeting of Congolese leaders called to try to work out a new form of government for the strife-torn nation. Tshombe accused Kasavubu of "selling out" to the United Nations.

Bomboko said the Leopoldville government would use force if necessary to restore its control over Katanga, the Congo's richest mining province which seceded from the republic soon after independence last summer.

Bomboko declined to specify just how Kasavubu's government would go about taking over Katanga. He said all Belgian advisers would be expelled from the province.

Katanga has the best disciplined and most effective army in the Congo, presumably loyal to Tshombe and commanded by white officers, many of them Belgian. The Katanga Cabinet appeared solidly behind Tshombe's earlier defiance of repeated U. N. demands that he get rid of all foreign military and political personnel. After his arrest, however, the provincial Cabinet took a more conciliatory tone toward the Leopoldville government and promised to discuss the U. N. demands for ouster of the foreigners.

Woman Doctor Is Cited by Society

ROCHESTER, N. Y. (AP)—Jeep-driving "Dr. Mary" of Tompkins County today was named by the New York State Medical Society as the outstanding general practitioner of 1961.

Dr. Mary drives her jeep, equipped with a two-way radio, through a rugged rural area. She was graduated from the Cornell University Medical School in 1932. Her husband, Dr. Martin B. Tinker Jr., also is a physician. The outstanding general practitioner for 1960 also was named today. The society is presenting two awards this year to name the winner in the current year.

The 1960 winner is Dr. Archibald O. M. Wood, 72, of Far Rockaway, L. I.

Dr. Raymond Johnson of Auburn was among about 25 persons honored with presidential citations for "service to the community outside the sphere of medicine."

Kennedy Urges New Measure in Racial Dispute

By JOHN CHADWICK

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Kennedy administration asks Congress today for legislation to hasten desegregation of all racially segregated public schools.

Every school board operating a racially segregated public school would be required to adopt a desegregation plan within six months and file it with the secretary of welfare.

The school desegregation proposal was among six civil rights bills ready for introduction by Sen. Joseph S. Clark, D-Pa., and Rep. Emanuel Celler, D-N. Y. The six-point program is geared to carrying out the civil rights pledges of the 1960 Democratic platform.

Last September, President Kennedy, then the Democratic presidential candidate, appointed Clark and Celler as a committee of two to put the platform promises on civil rights into legislative form.

The desegregation plans would have to provide for "first-step compliance" not later than the start of the 1963-64 school year. They also would have to spell out the time and manner in which desegregation was to be achieved in each class and school.

Federal technical and financial assistance would be given under the bill to desegregating school districts. Provision also would be made for court enforcement in case school boards violated the duties imposed on them by the legislation.

Another of the Clark-Celler bills would make the Civil Rights Commission a permanent federal agency with strengthening fact-finding powers. The commission is due to expire Sept. 9.

Other bills would:

1. Empower the attorney general to bring civil injunction suits in the federal courts to prevent the denial of any civil rights on grounds of race, color or creed.

2. Provide administrative and judicial remedies for persons subjected to discrimination by business firms or labor unions in hiring, firing or promotion.

3. Eliminate the poll tax as a requirement for voting in federal elections.

4. Eliminate literacy tests as a requirement for voting.

700 Sing in Square To Heart's Content

NEW YORK (AP)—Greenwich Village folk singers have found a way around Parks Commissioner Newbold Morris' ban against their Sunday afternoon musicales in Washington Square Park.

They discovered that Park Department ordinances require a permit only for "musical" singing with instruments—but not for unaccompanied song.

As a result, 700 persons marched into the park Sunday and sang to their heart's content—without, as far as police could tell, a single guitar or zither being plucked.

The folk singers have been chased, and some of them jailed, in recent weeks as police enforced Morris' ban on the song-fests.

Nations First

said, "We are very proud of him."

He handed Shepard "this decoration" with a joke about it coming from the ground up.

Kennedy had just dropped the medal to the wooden floor of the platform erected on the White House grounds for the ceremony.

Shepard himself grinned broadly.

Shepard said he got far less sleep Sunday night "than I did the night before the flight."

"I am very mindful of the honor which has been bestowed on me, an honor which really should go to the hundreds of people who made my flight possible."

Shepard said the work has been going on about two years "in a devoted effort to put a man in space, and it is really to these hundreds of people that the accolades of today should go."

He said he was most anxious to talk to the President about the flight, and eager "to tell you all and to tell the world about it."

Reminded by Mrs. JFK

The speechmaking was all over when Mrs. Kennedy spoke quietly to her husband—the President had forgotten to pin the medal on Shepard.

Kennedy grinned at her, then deftly pinned the decoration—awarded only once before—on the astronaut's lapel.

The decoration is the NASA Distinguished Service Medal.

Amid the laughter of onlookers, Kennedy after pinning the medal on Shepard's lapel then waved him before television cameras, saying "everybody wants to see it."

Appears Relaxed

Shepard appeared completely relaxed and at ease during the brief outdoor ceremony.

Dignitaries and rank-and-file members of the White House staff cheered Shepard when he arrived, when Kennedy introduced him, and when he completed his short talk.

At one point Shepard remarked that last Friday's flight into space was thrilling, "but today even surpasses last Friday."

From the White House rose garden the men went to Kennedy's offices. The astronauts sat on two davenport flanking the fireplace.

No Audio Present

There were television cameras in the presidential office, but no audio. So the President's words to the space team were not immediately public.

Mrs. Kennedy led Mrs. Shepard away to another part of the White House to have coffee.

Shepard, on his landing at Andrews gave out a vast understatement: "We have learned that the world and the United States are pretty pleased at what we have all done."

By "we," he specified that he included the other six astronauts and their scientific associates.

Shepard was as much at home behind the microphones at Andrews Air Force Base in Maryland as he was at the controls of his capsule.

Pilots Plane Today

He also kept his hand in today in his usual vocation—airplane flying. For a time he piloted the big Air Force jet which brought him and the other astronauts here from Grand Bahamas Island.

The jet landed at Andrews at 9:33 a.m., and a few minutes later Shepard, his wife and others made a quick helicopter flight to the White House where President and Mrs. Kennedy had waited to pay him tribute.

The old pilot was especially attentive to his mother and his wife. His wife smiled constantly and vividly. There was a big greeting kiss and the couple touched hands briefly as they walked to microphones where Shepard made a brief response to bystanders' greetings.

All Pomp Banned

All the central characters this morning were in civilian clothes. The White House and Pentagon had forbidden bands, banners and pomp—the vast disappointment of Washington's city fathers. They had wanted more fanfare for America's newest hero.

Authorities decreed that the reception and celebration should be quiet, with the accent on earnest accomplishment and no letup in that. Tuesday will be another work day for the astronauts.

It is apparent to Shepard, and to everybody else in the space program, that much lies ahead before America can catch up with the feats of the Russians, who were first to send a man into orbit around the world.

There was a crowd of about 1,000 at Andrews Air Force Base. Close members of Shepard's and his wife's families gathered on the runway as the plane taxied to a stop.

Parents Present

In the group with Mrs. Shepard were the astronaut's parents, retired Army Col. and Mrs. Alan B. Shepard of East Jersey, N.H.; a sister, Mrs. Gordon Sherman of North Attleboro, Mass.; and Mrs. Shepard's parents, Mr. and Mrs.

Hope Commission To Spur Lagging Talks in Vientiane

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP)—The three-nation Laotian truce commission was scheduled to arrive in Vientiane today and there were hopes it would spur the lagging negotiations between the Western-royal government and the pro-Communist rebels.

So far the opposing factions have not even been able to agree on a site for military and political talks. Both the government and the rebels proclaimed a cease-fire last Wednesday, but three meetings between military representatives since then have failed to work out detailed conditions of the armistice.

About 200 Indian, Canadian and Polish diplomats and soldiers are coming to Laos to supervise and verify the cease-fire. They will separate into two groups, one based at Vientiane and the other at Xieng Khouang, the rebel capital in northeastern Laos.

The royal government has been trying to divorce military details of the cease-fire from the bigger political issues—formation of a coalition government and selection of a unified Laotian delegation to attend the international conference on Laos opening in Geneva Friday.

The rebels want both military and political matters to be discussed together at Na Meuk, inside their territory and 35 miles north of the Hun Heup cease-fire line.

When the rebels rejected government demands that military talks be held at Hun Heup, the government agreed to talk at Na Meuk. But it insisted that the political talks should take place at Phon Hong, 15 miles south of the cease-fire line and inside government-controlled territory.

R. P. Drewery of Kennett Square, Pa.

Shepard walked smiling down the plane's ramp, went directly to his mother to get a big kiss, then turned to his waiting wife for another kiss while the crowd applauded.

Shepard's wife and parents walked with him to the microphones set up nearby.

"I want to thank you all at Andrews Air Force Base for this wonderful welcome," Shepard said, emphasizing that he was speaking for all the astronauts and their scientific associates.

The whole crew of seven man-in-space aspirants had flown in with him from Grand Bahamas Island.

Will Tell More

Shepard said he understands "the world is interested in what we did" and that he looks forward to telling more about it in the news conference slated later in the day.

The pioneer astronaut offered the welcoming group an understatement of some proportions.

He said he "had learned that the world and the United States are pretty pleased at what we have all done."

Shepard spent only a few seconds before the microphones, then took his wife, waiting for the helicopter ride to the White House.

A mere 20 minutes after the plane touched down, Shepard and his wife were aboard the helicopter.

The public tribute will be warm, but muted in tone. There will be no formal parade; no bands will play.

But proudly, the United States will thank him for taking the nation's first step into space. The exultation may pose a greater challenge to Shepard's momentary calmness than the pioneering space trip.

Associates at Grand Bahamas Island, where Shepard relaxed over the weekend, said they thought the test pilot was more apprehensive about facing the public acclaim and ceremony than his space flight.

Trying to keep a lid on the celebration, National Aeronautics and Space Administration said Shepard's feat, thrilling though it was, was just a first step and that there was no time for self-congratulation.

Thus, the agency ruled out any other public appearances and New York City's hopes for a ticker tape parade went down the drain. Other cities also had been clamoring to honor the space pioneer.

Carrying out the back to work" emphasis, Shepard will hurry back to his space training after his jam-packed five to six hours in the capital. He and his six fellow astronauts, with him in Washington to share the acclaim, go to Langley Air Force Base in southwestern Virginia later today.

Fills Out Declaration

WASHINGTON (AP)—Space pilot Alan B. Shepard Jr. didn't have to fill out a customs declaration on his return from space, but he had to fill out one for today's flight.

Reopening Clove Reformed Church To Be Discussed

Another meeting in the interest of reopening The Clove Reformed Church at High Falls has been scheduled for Sunday, May 14, at 8 p. m. at The Clove Church. This meeting, co-sponsored by the Consistory of the Marbletown Reformed Church of Stone Ridge and the Consistory of Ulster, is being held to further discuss the reopening of the church and to organize the residents of the area and secure signatures to the petition to be submitted to the Classis, seeking re-establishment of the church. A number of financial pledges have already been made.

The Rev. Harold F. Schade-wald, pastor of the Hurley Reformed Church, will moderate the meeting.

In addition to continuing the discussion to reopen the church for High Falls area residents, the petition to reopen the church will be available and there also will be nominations for a chairman, secretary and treasurer of the group which is seeking to have the old Clove re-established and opened for worship. Following the organization, the formal move to petition the Classis of Ulster to re-establish The Clove Church will be made. All residents of the area interested in having the church again open for Sunday worship are invited to the meeting.

At the close of the business session, there will be a coffee hour.

City Girl Hurt In Auto Mishap

A four-year-old girl was treated for minor injuries late Saturday afternoon following a two-car collision on Broadway at Salem Street, Port Ewen.

She was Patricia Hamilton of 253 East Union Street, who received a bump on her forehead and two black eyes.

Deputy Sheriff Thomas Mayone reported that the child was injured in the collision of cars operated by Gerard G. Richter, 20, of Ulster Park, and Grace Hutton, 30, of 154 Hasbrouck Street, Port Ewen. The little girl was a passenger in the Hutton car.

The sheriff's office reported that the Hutton car stopped for a red light at the intersection. Richter applied his brakes but skidded into its rear.

Woman Injured In Freak Mishap

A Port Ewen woman was taken to Kingston Hospital late Sunday afternoon after her car, parked at Carvel's in that village, rolled over her leg.

Mrs. Loretta Simlich, 40, of 163 Hasbrouck Street, reportedly suffered lacerations of her left leg.

Deputy Sheriff Thomas Mayone and Arthur Smith reported that Mrs. Simlich parked at the Carvel, shut off the motor, put on her emergency brake and went to the Carvel window to order ice cream.

While standing there she saw the vehicle begin to move. She ran to the driver's side, jerked open the door and attempted to put her foot on the brake, but was knocked down by the open door, falling partly beneath the car.

The front wheel ran over her leg, according to the report in the Ulster County sheriff's office.

Urges Re-establishment Of Disarmament Agency

HARRIMAN, N. Y. (AP)—The American Assembly urges the re-establishment of a United States disarmament agency "on a semi-autonomous basis, reporting to the secretary of state and with direct access to the President."

The assembly recommends also that this country press for reduction of all kinds of armaments and armed forces "to substantially lower levels—in controlled steps."

These recommendations were among a number contained in a final report issued Sunday at the end of the assembly's four-day meeting here. The sessions were attended by 60 disarmament experts, scientists, government officials and leaders of public opinion. They discussed possible revisions in U. S. disarmament policy under the Kennedy administration.

Formation of the American Assembly, affiliated with Columbia University, was sponsored by Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower when he was president of Columbia. The assembly holds two meetings a year to discuss issues of public interest.

Caroline Gives Warm Welcome to Astronaut

WASHINGTON (AP)—One of the youngest and most enthusiastic greeters of astronaut Alan B. Shepard Jr. in Washington today was Caroline Kennedy, 3-year-old daughter of the President.

Stationed on a balcony over the south entrance of the White House, Caroline waved excitedly as Shepard and his fellow astronauts arrived to meet President and Mrs. Kennedy.

As she spotted her mother greeting the arrivals, Caroline used the simple, direct approach employed by most healthy 3-year-olds to gain attention.

"Hey, mommy!" she cried.

Responses to the Mass were sung by Richard Scherer and June Scherer, assisted by the Children's Choir of St. Peter's Church and accompanied at the organ by Miss Nan Goldrick. Many called at the funeral home and many floral tributes and spiritual bouquets in the form of Mass cards were received. Friday evening those assembled at the funeral home were led in the recitation of the Holy Rosary by Msgr. Ostermann. The Rev. John T. Dwyer, assistant pastor of St. Peter's Church also called and offered prayers. Burial was in St. Peter's Cemetery where Msgr. Ostermann, assisted by Father Dwyer gave the final absolution.

Drive for Mental Health Finances Opens in County

A county-wide campaign for $10,000 for the Ulster County Association for Mental Health opens today. Volunteers will make house and area solicitations.

Mrs. Frieda H. Dingee, president of the association, is hopeful that the goal will be achieved because areas throughout the county which were not solicited last year will be canvassed during the week.

A special committee has been established to solicit industrial and commercial institutions. This committee is headed by Robert L. Sabin of Hurley.

Contributions also are being accepted at the office of the Ulster County Association for Mental Health, 27 East O'Reilly Street, Kingston. These may be made in person or by mail.

Membership in the association is on the basis of one dollar per year. Anyone desiring information about the activities of the organization may obtain facts by writing to the association or by telephoning Diana Geiger, executive secretary.

J.F.K.'s ASSAULT ON THE CONSTITUTION

There has never been a more "strict constructionist" of the Constitution than President Kennedy has been with reference to "Federal aid" to religious schools. That involves just one Article of the Constitution.

But no one has ever gone farther to subvert the entire Constitution than the President in his program to federalize the local functions of towns, cities and States, — schools, parks, playgrounds, streets, sewers, slums, housing, etc., etc.

Once under way, step by step, it will in a few years destroy State and local governments in all but name. As a condition for receiving his help, Uncle will lay down standards that will control the administration of these huge funds.

"The man who pays the piper calls the tune."

This road leads to changing the United States into a single consolidated State. It is similar to the road Hitler and Mussolini followed.

That this subverts the entire Constitution as intended by our great statesmen and judges for more than a century, cannot be contradicted by any decision of our present Supreme Court. F.D.R. said so himself.

The old Supreme Court said: "The preservation of the rights of the States, and the maintenance of their governments, are as much within the care of the Constitution as the maintenance of the national government. The Constitution, in all its provisions, looks to an indestructible Union composed of indestructible States."

Great statesmen and judges have said this time and again.

Saugerties Area Has 2 Fires, Car And Utility Shed

Two fires were reported in the town of Saugerties early today—one in a tool shed at Katsbaan Four Corners, the other involving an automobile parked on Route 9W opposite the Victory Market.

The tool shed, located on the property of Harold Tevel, was used to store hand tools, used by road crews of the state highway department. The shed also provided a source of heat for road crews during the winter.

The shed, described as "very small," was about 50 per cent destroyed, it was reported. No estimate of loss was available. Cause of the blaze was undetermined.

An unidentified truck driver, who happened to be driving past about 4:20 a. m., saw flames in the shed and sounded the curfew siren at the Cedar Grove Fire Company.

This produced one long blast, which puzzled area volunteers. One long blast on the fire siren locates the fire in Centerville. Of course, the curfew horn is not used for fire calls, however.

Percy Mower, who heads the Cedar Grove Company, and volunteers responded. Another truck was dispatched by the Centerville Company. They were at the scene about an hour.

The other call, to which Chief Peter Cafaldo and the Glasco Fire Company responded, came at 12:30 a. m.

Donald Hines of Saugerties reported at that time that a car parked on 9W near the Victory Market south of Saugerties, was ablaze.

Vehicle Damages Telephone Booth

A Bridgeport, Conn., man was backing out of a parking lot at a diner near the Highland traffic circle early this morning when his car struck a telephone booth and sent it smashing to the ground.

Highland state police said William Duncan, 54, was facing Patrick's diner when he began backing his car out of the lot.

Duncan said his steering wheel locked suddenly, causing the vehicle to strike the booth, which was toppled and damaged. Time of the incident was 3:30 a. m.

appeared to be on fire when he reached the scene. The blaze was soon extinguished. The car was apparently undamaged. Firemen were at the scene for about 20 minutes.

State of New York Bank to Have New Loans Department

The State of New York National Bank has announced the expansion of the bank's special loan department which will be housed in the offices formerly occupied by Morgan, Davis & Co., on the second floor of the National Ulster Branch, 300 Wall Street.

Construction is now in progress, and when completed the building will contain the most modern and most spacious customer loan department in Ulster County, the announcement said.

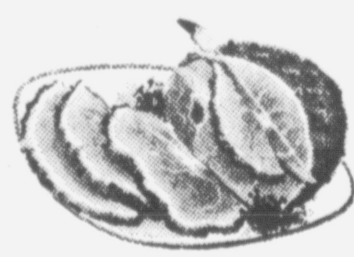

It is essential to expand the special loan department to accommodate more conveniently the growing number of area residents using the bank's facilities, according to C. J. Lavatsch, who has headed the special loan department for 23 years.

It is expected that the new offices will be completed by July 1. In the meantime, the department is in operation at its customary location in the State of New York National Bank at 301 Wall Street.

Esquimo Belief

It is the belief of some Eskimos that the souls of the dead reincarnate themselves in newborn babies, protecting the growing children from harm. Thus a parent should not punish a child for fear the spirit might resent the interference. According to the same belief, when a child grows old enough to take care of himself, the spirit departs.

COMMUNITY CONCERTS

Life is so much nicer when your calendar of dates includes Community Concerts. The local association is conducting its annual membership drive this week and assures us of a gala musical season next winter.

What more enjoyable musical evening could be spent than at a live concert of the beloved Boston Pops Orchestra with Arthur Fiedler conducting; or with the lovely Metropolitan Opera star, Rise Stevens; or feeling the enthusiasm of hearing in person a new virtuoso on the musical horizon, Bolivian violinist, Jaime Laredo?

All three of these evenings will be waiting for you, if you join the Kingston Community Concert Association before noon Saturday. This local group, a non-profit, no loss organization, operates solely with funds from membership fees to bring top artists to our home town. Best of all, anyone is eligible to join simply by paying the annual membership fee to any worker or at headquarters in the Governor Hotel this week.

A SILLY AMENDMENT

Every so often a proposed constitutional amendment to abolish the federal income tax is dusted off for reconsideration. Sentiment for this might naturally be expected to be strongest in states with great aggregations of wealth taxpayers, such as New York, Pennsylvania and Illinois. Strangely enough, its recent show of strength was in rural North Dakota. There the House of Representatives called for an amendment outlawing the tax and also various federal activities.

Then Senator Milton R. Young, a conservative Republican stepped into the picture. He had the Library of Congress examine the amendment. It soon appeared that this would force the abandonment of the Federal Reserve System, the Commodity Credit Corporation for financing the farm price support system, the veterans' hospitals, and the federal dams and irrigation systems. At his urging the state Senate killed the amendment by a two to one vote.

The investigation might have gone further. How could our expensive defense set-up be operated without the income tax or its equivalent from other sources? What would these other sources be? The most frequent suggestion is a federal sales tax. To equal the income tax yield, a sales tax would be colossal, and really grind down people of low incomes.

That might not matter to those who want to eliminate the income tax. But it should be of moment to a state of average Americans like North Dakota. Our state legislatures should investigate before endorsing changes in the federal field.

Four Soviet professors on an exchange visit to Yale call it part of a "guarantee of friendship." It would be fine if a guarantee from the Kremlin were equally sincere.

BELTS FOR SAFETY

Precepts are good; example is better. Secretary of Commerce Hodges struck an effective blow for auto safety when he ordered that seat belts be installed—and made use of—in all official Commerce Department vehicles.

Hodges went a couple of steps further. He has encouraged employees of the department to use seat belts in their personal cars. To show how important he considers this, he has had seat belts installed in his own sports car. The cause of highway safety will be well served if his example catches on, not only in Washington but throughout the country.

Men who imagine they have a way with women usually discover it is really the women's way.

'These Days'

CUBA WILL NOT DIE

No matter what is done to quiet the discussion of the Cuban fiasco, the discussion of Cuba will not die down. Wherever one goes, the discussion is about Cuba. There is a sense of shame. There is chagrin. There is hopelessness.

No nation is willing to accept such a defeat as the United States suffered in Cuba without doing something about it. That "something" might be going to war or it might be dismissing an official. But something must be done or there will be a popular explosion on the subject. The form of that explosion is unpredictable, but a wise politician like John Kennedy cannot afford to be caught in a storm.

One thing that could be done would be the publication of Khrushchev's letter to Kennedy which has influenced much thought on the subject of Cuba. This letter was announced but has not been published. According to many rumors and reports, Khrushchev made it clear beyond doubt that if the United States went into Cuba, Soviet Russia would take Berlin. This could be regarded as an ultimatum if we so chose.

Sooner or later, the United States will be forced to call Khrushchev's bluff. Shall we wait until Cuba takes Key West or Miami or shall we assume that Soviet Russia will only include the entire Latin American continent in its conquests, leaving North America to its own devices? When an Empire starts rolling, it does not stop until it is stopped. That lesson no politician can afford to forget.

The British theory is that we can wait until Soviet Russia and Red China go to war and then we shall take advantage of the situation. But suppose Soviet Russia and Red China do not go to war or do not go to war for a century? What becomes of us during the long period of Empire-building? Do we sit on our hands and wait for something to happen?

It is true that the major effort of current diplomacy is to avoid a world war, particularly the possibility of a nuclear war. This seems to be the policy of Senator Fulbright as well as of important members of the State Department. President Kennedy has decided apparently to go along with this policy. But most Americans find it difficult to understand why we should be willing to send troops to Laos and not to Cuba. Surely, a place 90 miles from the United States is more significant than a place several thousand miles away.

In a word, if we cannot defend ourselves in the Western Hemisphere why defend ourselves in Asia or Africa? It is not impossible that there may be a sound reason for the position taken by the President and his advisors, but if there is a reason, why not tell the people what it is?

It is true that President Franklin D. Roosevelt was followed blindly down the primrose path to war. But Roosevelt had an unusual hold upon the American people and was the only President in our history to have been elected four times. He was able to convince even his opponents that his course was right and that he knew what he was doing. John Kennedy has not yet achieved such an affectionate following. He may do so. He may outdo Roosevelt in popular favor. But such an attitude on the part of our people does not exist now and the Cuban question is before us now. It will not die down. It cannot be pushed aside.

President Kennedy, like all politicians, even those in Communist countries, must have popularity as an aid to power. No man can be stronger than the support he has. When Mussolini's popularity wore thin, the Italians who had been saluting Il Duce, turned on him and killed him. Hitler committed suicide; Stalin was denounced by Khrushchev as a scoundrel after he was dead. And so it goes with all greatness.

To make even a four year term of a President noteworthy, John Kennedy must not be regarded as one who presides over a coterie of quarrelling cooks who produce a poisonous broth. He must get rid of some of the cooks and get down to a realistic recognition of the frightful cost of defeat. The heaviest cost of all is shame—national shame.

Perhaps nothing would appease the American people more than a reorganization of the CIA and the State Department and the elimination of those who created confusion of policy. A President of the United States stands alone and his policy is his own. He can blame no underling for the underling's mistakes, but he can throw him out. Loyalty to an individual cannot be stronger than responsibility to the American people. President Harding was ruined by the wrong kind of loyalty.

This is what the President faces and there is no possibility of eluding the Cuban issue. To use a popular cliché something must be done about it. (Copyright 1961, King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

Drinking Much Water Helps

By HAROLD T. HYMAN, M.D.

Written for
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Q—What is gravel? What's the difference between gravel and a stone?

A—At all times, urine contains salts in solution. Under certain circumstances, such as an excessive content of certain salts or a change in the reaction of urine, these salts can crystallize out. Most of the time we are unaware of the passage of gravel. Only in extreme instances does the passage of gravel cause irritation, pain or bleeding.

When gravel deposits in the kidney or bladder, it may lump together to form a stone. When a small stone or a fragment of a large stone passes down from kidney to bladder, it may cause the agonizing pain of a renal colic. And when an attempt is made to pass the stone out of the bladder the pain may be excruciating. The best way to prevent the formation of gravel or stones is to assure the passage of a dilute urine by drinking large quantities of plain ordinary water. There is no need for waters bottled at special springs.

Q—Is there a disease the opposite of diabetes that sometimes causes a person to go into shock?

A—On rare occasions, the cells of the pancreas that manufacture insulin produce more than the body needs. Under these circumstances, the patient may go into "insulin shock" in the same way that a diabetic does after an overdose of injected insulin or after failure to "cover" the correct insulin dose with food.

Sometimes, this condition of spontaneous hypoglycemia is due to overactivity on the part of normal cells. But sometimes it's due to the presence of an insulin-producing growth. Either way, exhaustive investigation must be undertaken before a program of treatment can be prepared.

Q—I am 40 years old and for the past few years I've suffered from backache. One doctor says it's due to a dropped kidney and he wants to operate on me to sew it in place. Another doctor says it's due to a tipped uterus and he wants to operate to put it in place. What am I to do?

A—I'm not sure that either explanation is correct. Back pain is rarely due to any type of kidney disturbance, despite the familiar picture in patent medicine ads—and surely not to a "dropped kidney." Neither is backache often due to misplacements of the uterus. A recent study in Australia showed that less than two per cent of all backaches in women were due to gynecologic conditions. The vast majority, in this as in all other studies, were due to orthopedic conditions such as poor posture, improper shoeing, strained muscles and disturbances of vertebral ligaments, joints and bones.

Washington News

BY PETER EDSON
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON — (NEA) —

Matthew McCloskey—big, genial, pink-faced, white-haired, Irish construction boss who is chairman of the Democratic Finance Committee—says it is all a misunderstanding about Interior Secretary Stewart L. Udall and the million-dollar Democratic dinner.

What he refers to is the letter written by J. K. Evans of Asiatic Petroleum Co., asking 36 oil and gas industry wheels in Washington to help the secretary sell his "quota" of tickets to the $100-a-plate dinner honoring President Kennedy May 27.

A COPY OF THIS LETTER and a story about it appeared exclusively in this newspaper the other day. Chairman McCloskey is the real boss of this dinner. The main affair will be held in Washington's armory, which has a seating capacity of 6,000. McCloskey is so hopeful that Democrats—and Republicans, too—will want to honor President Kennedy that he is also reserving the grand ballrooms of the Mayflower and Sheraton Park hotels for overflow.

If he draws this crowd it will give him 4,000 more guests, for a total of 10,000. And at $100 a plate, that will give the Democrats a gross of a million bucks.

"ALL WE'RE TRYING TO DO is pay off our debts, which are over $2.5 million," says McCloskey. "Every honest person pays his debts. Any decent citizen would want us to."

"We're not selling any tickets," McCloskey insists. "There are no quotas of tickets for anybody to sell. The law don't allow us to sell tickets. But if anyone sends us $100, we'll send him a free ticket to the dinner."

"This fellow Evans that wrote the letter didn't understand this, but nobody is upset about it. I hope you'll quote me as saying that we're hopeful that the patriotic people who read the story about this letter will understand what we're trying to do. I hope they will also send me a check for $100 so I can send them a ticket to the dinner. My address is 1737 L. St., N. W., Washington 6, D. C."

Well, that's what the man says and all a reporter can do is live light and let the people find the way.

THE PRESENT EFFORT TO MAKE J. K. EVANS the fall guy for this Udall affair, however, is regarded in Washington as a shabby trick.

Evans has been around Washington some years. He has been active in Heart Fund, Korean Relief and other drives. He knows how money is raised and spent for public relations.

Secretary Udall says he first met Evans at a $100-a-plate Democratic dinner in Tucson, Ariz., when Evans was out there for his health. They have been table partners at many a dinner since.

Evans didn't do too well on the Kennedy dinner solicitation, however. He didn't sell a ticket. No, that's wrong. He didn't get a single $100 donation.

First reason was Udall tried to have him suck back the letter as soon as he saw it, with considerable shock.

Second reason was that most of the people it was sent to are Republicans who wouldn't be caught dead at a Democratic dinner. They might be suckers enough to pay for tickets, but wouldn't go.

A NUMBER OF THEM HAVE CALLED this reporter and thanked him for writing the story of the Evans letter. They add it's high time this whole $100-a-plate dinner racket is shown up.

It has been going on in Washington and all over the country for years. Republicans are just as guilty of it as Democrats. Every fat cat who does business with government is expected to kick in. Programs and seating arrangement lists at any of these dinners are loaded with lobbyists, influence peddlers, public relations men, labor bosses and five percenters.

Department heads in government agencies tell their bureau chiefs who are political appointees to attend the dinners of the party in power. The underlings pay up and go—or else.

EVANS' MISTAKE WAS THAT he put his honest pitch for the party in a letter. If he had just done it by phone, or on a person-to-person basis at cocktail parties, nobody would ever have known. That's the way it always has been and will be.

McCloskey says he has no way of knowing about such goings on, but maybe somebody will tell him some sweet day.

DO YOU REMEMBER

By SOPHIE MILLER

Going back to 1910 at which time the Kingston Academy May Day Festival was held on May 27. The item I have is before the May Day Exercises took place so it gives the name of Miss Gertrude Clement being chosen Queen of the May, and Clarence Babcock chosen as prime minister. The Queen had six pages and eight attendants. The plan of exercises was to be carried under the direction of the Bryant and Hawthorne Societies. The athletic meet was to be held as usual.

May 6, Arbor Day exercises were held in the study hall of the Kingston Academy. It seems that the large tree in the Academy yard had been blown down some three days before and so it gave an excellent opportunity to plant another living tree in keeping with the old custom. Cornelius Burhans, was present to help plant the old tree, blown down, 78 years previous to that date. The new elm tree was planted by the students and dedicated to Professor Myron J. Michael.

Music was by the Academy orchestra. George Schirick read "The Last Leaf" by O. W. Holmes. John Cashin read "Living in Tents" by Henry Van Dyke. Celeste Keefe read "When the Green Gets Back in the Trees," by James Whitcomb Riley. Elizabeth Scott read "Dedication of Our Tree." The students of Kingston Academy contributed the money to purchase the tree. A stone was also purchased, bearing the dedication and the presentation, and was placed at the foot of the young tree in 1910.

Perhaps at this time it will be interesting to read the "Dedication of the tree planted on Arbor Day, 1910" written by Elizabeth Scott to honor Myron J. Michael today in his memory the MJM school stands. It reads in part thus: "We are gathered here this Arbor Day to celebrate the planting of a beautiful young tree in memory of the stately one that has been so familiar to us during our school days, and in honor of our loved principal, Professor Michael. May the young tree take firm root in the soil and symbolize the strong, inspiring spirit of our friend, may it grow and flourish in our sight as surely as the ideal which he has fostered in us will grow and bear fruit increasingly in our hearts; may it show to men the lesson he has helped us to learn, of the wonder, the sacredness of the forests; of the beauty, the mystery of the trees."

U. S. Action in Va. School Controversy Called Politics

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, May 7.—Sen. Harry F. Byrd of Virginia, Democrat—one of the ablest and most respected men in Congress—has just made a speech in the Senate severely criticizing the Department of Justice for attempting to coerce the Legislature of the State of Virginia by trying to tell its members how they must vote and what money they must appropriate if they are not to incur the wrath of the Federal government. No such power can be found written in the Federal constitution by implication or otherwise, Sen. Byrd says.

"It is even more offensive for a non-elected Federal officer, without the benefit of law, through a Federal court, to tell a state under what conditions it cannot spend its own money for the public education of its own children."

Decree 'Unprecedented'

"Such a decree would be unprecedented in American history. It would do violence to millions of school children. It would do violence to the rights of fifty states and the localities within them. And it would do violence to the foundations on which our system of government is built."

"I am amazed that the Attorney General of the United States seeks to close every public school in Virginia to 847,000 white and Negro students unless the little Prince Edward County surrenders its position on a principle it believes to be right."

"The Federal proposal to withhold state funds legally appropriated by the general assembly of Virginia for public school operation necessarily would close public schools all through the state. The attempt to punish an entire state because the action of one county displeases the United States Attorney General is fantastic and completely unrealistic, and I believe, unconstitutional."

The real issue is not whether racial discrimination shall or shall not be practiced in the public schools. It is whether the state may make tuition grants to all parents, irrespective of race, creed or color, so that they may send their children to private schools if they wish. At present, these private schools, under Virginia laws, may be integrated or non-integrated as the private schools themselves may determine.

The state funds now being made available to parents give the individuals freedom of choice just as the Congress of the United States did when it appropriated money for GI's to get an education, and many thousands of them have used their tuition money in private or parochial as well as public educational institutions.

But the United States Department of Justice now is claiming that a Federal court decree on school integration is being violated unless the State of Virginia closes all its public schools in every county to reopen its public schools. To accomplish this end, the petition to the Federal court requests that the parents in the county in question be denied tuition grants by the state government.

No Case Established

This action is not based on any court decision or other precedent. Merely to claim that present decrees on desegregation issued by the Federal courts are being violated is not to establish a case under the Constitution. Indeed, the Federal judiciary may in due time throw this case out. But it is being said that injustice is being done to the parents of the Negro children, and hence "the end justifies the means."

State after state admitted to the Union in the last century has been given a written guarantee by Congress that education would remain in the "exclusive control" of the states.

Why, then, is Virginia being coerced? The answer is politics. It is considered good politics to win votes in those populous states of the north which gave the decisive majority to President Kennedy in 1960 and could conceivably do so again in 1964.

The argument is being made that the Department of Justice must seek court decrees and let the courts decide what is Constitutional. But it is to be noted that when the parochial-school issue came up a few weeks ago, President Kennedy said it would be unconstitutional to permit Congress to vote funds for parochial schools. He wouldn't even favor passage of the bill and let the courts decide that one. In fact, his Department of Health, Education and Welfare set forth a lengthy brief declaring any such aid unconstitutional.

So it's good politics to avoid a Constitutional test in one case and good politics to solicit such a test in another. The truth is the aphorism that "the end justifies the means" is given sanction today in high places in our own republic, just as it is in a totalitarian government abroad.

Nearly a hundred years ago Federal troops sat in state legislatures in the South—three years after the Civil War—and compelled them to "ratify" the Fourteenth Amendment. Yet this is the very amendment which is the alleged basis today for demanding that the Virginia State Legislature abide by a decree of the Federal government or be compelled to deprive all its children of a public school education. And in those days, too, it was asserted that "the end justifies the means."

"Who needs an allowance—I own a bank!"

Every Friday I used to get an allowance. Monday it was gone.

Then Pop told me about this special bank.

Not like a piggy bank, he said. This special bank pays you for keeping money there—and gives you a little book that shows how fast your money grows. And you don't shake it out all the time. It's called a Savings Bank.

Different from any other kind of bank, Pop said. All the money that it pays out goes to people like me who keep money there. Just like the Savings Bank belonged to them.

So now one belongs to me. And every Friday I put some money in there. Half my allowance. (I still get an allowance 'cause Pop says even a guy who owns a bank needs a little money to put in it.)

And now on Mondays it's not all gone.

Q. How many other New York State kids "own" Savings Banks?

A. 1,300,000 of them! They have a total of more than 60.5 million dollars on deposit in the mutual Savings Banks of New York State. Their parents are making sure they learn what thrift is all about. How about you—and your youngsters?

THE PROFIT LURE

Thousands of gullible investors today are being lured on to seek quick profits in the stock market. The economic environment in America is conducive to this activity.

In a recent Sunday section of a major newspaper, there were 29 different advertisements inviting investors to send in from $1 to $5 to get such profit information. Every ad carried alluring implications. Big Headlines said: "Shares that could double or triple overnight!" "How to make shrewd speculations!" "From $500 to $100,000!"

Critics of advertising have a very fertile field for investigation here. The content of these advertisements is the antithesis of thrift, saving and sound investment. That they are read and followed by investors who simply cannot afford to speculate is a tragedy.

It is ironic that in the same issue of this newspaper there are ads of conservative savings institutions that are diligently fostering thrift and saving.

Unsound speculation is an economic curse in America. Thrift and savings are and have been for centuries economic virtues. We need more ads encouraging these virtues and far fewer ads promoting careless speculation.

Some of these speculative ads build false habits. One thousand people send in $1 each to get advice on buying speculative stocks, and 30 per cent of them follow it. A quick and artificial market is thus created and the stocks in question boom in price.

This goes on thousands of investors and within a reasonable length of time they become inveterate speculators. Thrift and saving die within them and our economic society suffers.

There never has been a time like the present when the virtues of thrift, saving and sound investment should be universally proclaimed. Of course, all savings institutions should spearhead such activity.

During the years when the United States Government promoted thrift and saving, I was an employee of the U. S. Treasury Department. It was my duty to organize savings societies in industry, to write pamphlets and brochures on these subjects, to address clubs and organizations and to carry on thrift campaigns in high and elementary schools.

Today mutual savings banks, building and loan associations and commercial banks with savings departments should have trained personnel working at grass-roots levels to teach millions of people (1) the follies of trying to make a killing in the stock market, and (2) the virtues of getting a good job, saving out of every paycheck and building up a $500-$5,000 deposit account.

Every reader of these lines who has precious savings committed to a risk-laden stock should pause in his get-rich-quick scheme and change his course.

And every reader who is about to throw some money into a stock that "may double or triple overnight" should come to his senses and put his money in a good savings bank.

Governor's Tax Plan Is Benefit To New Yorkers

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP) — "The relative tax burden on low-income taxpayers has been reduced" as a result of Gov. Rockefeller's changes in the state income-tax system, Tax Commissioner Joseph H. Murphy claims.

Murphy said Sunday that a study of the 1959 state income-tax returns showed that persons with incomes of less than $6,000 a year paid 17 per cent of the total levy in 1959, compared with 22 per cent in 1957.

Gov. Rockefeller backed legislation in 1959 increasing taxes and establishing a withholding system for wage earners. In 1960, the Legislature granted a Rockefeller request for a flat $25 credit for a married couple and $10 for single taxpayers.

Democrats have charged that the tax changes favored taxpayers in the higher income brackets.

Murphy said about 1.2 million persons, or nearly all low and middle-income taxpayers, paid less income tax in 1959 than they would have under the previous law.

He said the withholding system had yielded an estimated $40 million in additional revenue from persons who previously had evaded the state income tax.

The commissioner estimated that more than one-half of the taxpayers paid less in 1960 income tax than they would have under the 1957 law because of the 10 per cent rebate voted by the 1961 Legislature.

Nearly all these taxpayers, Murphy said, were in the lower and middle-income brackets.

Glancing Over TV Bill of Fare

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—When television was young and growing, it was getting a lot of credit for bringing the American family together.

A lovely picture was painted of the whole family, sitting silently and compatibly in front of the magic box, their attention glued on Hopalong Cassidy or Milton Berle.

Well, TV is older now, the novelty has worn off and almost nine out of 10 American homes have sets. The experts are predicting that the medium is starting to break up the family and turn members into solitary viewers.

The villain of the piece is a growing number of "multiple set families."

Television rating services—the research firms which try to estimate TV audience size—believe that today there is more than one-two or three-in at least 10 per cent of TV homes.

In the not too distant future, it is possible that father will be in the study watching a baseball or football game; mother, in the living room, suffering deliciously with Loretta Young or "Queen for a Day," and the kids, in the playroom trying to persuade grandma to turn off "Sing Along with Mitch" so they can watch Dick Clark.

Well, togetherness has been nice while it lasted.

In case you've been overlooking "This Is Your Life" lately, I can report that things are running along on the Ralph Edwards program much as usual, except no one shed any tears Sunday night.

The guest of honor was the Rev. James G. Jones, who founded and runs a Chicago home for men newly released from prison. The young clergyman seemed pleased and amazed by all the goings on but not particularly upset.

Tears are a specialty of the program because Edwards is a great one for sentiment. He is also addicted to high-flown language. In one of his better flights Sunday night he proclaimed to Father Jones: "How your great spirit helped thousands of convicts we'll hear right after this message from our sponsor."

Recommended tonight: "Whispering Smith," NBC, 9-9:30 EDT—premiere of a new western-detective series starring Audie Murphy.

Episcopal Group Backs JFK Plan On Key Problems

OSWEGO, N.Y. (AP)—The Central New York Episcopal Diocese supports President Kennedy in seeking solutions to world problems but the group has taken no stand on central aid to public schools.

The diocese, at the closing session Saturday of its 93rd annual convention, adopted resolutions backing Kennedy and opposing capital punishment.

It referred the controversial school-aid question to its Department of Christian and Social Relations.

Kennedy has proposed federal aid to elementary and secondary schools, a field now exclusively the property of state and local government.

Rev. H. William Foreman of Fayetteville was elected to the diocese's standing committee and Rear Admiral Harrison B. Southworth (U.S.N. ret.) was re-elected.

More than 325 delegates from the diocese's 83 parishes and 60 missions attended the two-day meeting.

Court Dismisses Upstate Lawsuit In Fatal Blaze

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y. (AP)—The City of Niagara Falls has won dismissal of $1.75 million in negligence claims brought against it by three survivors of a 1957 tenement fire that killed 18 persons.

State Supreme Court Justice John T. Marsh ruled Saturday that the city was not liable for damages in the blaze, the worst in its history. Fifteen children were among the victims.

The owner of the three-story frame tenement building, William Dietz, was sentenced to 2 to 5 years in Attica State Prison in 1958 as a result of the fire. He was convicted of first-degree manslaughter for violating the state's multiple residence law requiring fireproof doors and partitions.

The suits accused the city of negligence in allowing Dietz to operate the buildings in violation of the multiple dwelling law. They also claimed a building permit was negligently issued to Dietz allowing him to erect an addition which closed off an exit and trapped the victims.

Justice Marsh ruled that a governmental unit is not liable for failure to prevent violations of law.

He also ruled that a provision of the state's Court of Claims Act allowing communities to be sued in some instances of negligence does not cover the issuing of building permits.

Sanford Reid and his wife, Louise, who lost seven children in the blaze, sued for $750,000. Horace Ewing, whose wife and eight children were killed, asked $1 million.

The city's corporation counsel made the motion for dismissal. It was not immediately learned if the survivors would appeal the decision.

TUBERCULIN POSITIVE?

Out of 1,253 adults given the tuberculin test not long ago, 802 had a positive reaction. Out of 8,252 school children tested, 446 were tuberculin positive.

In the tuberculin test, a drop of harmless fluid is put under the skin. Two or three days later, the doctor can tell by looking at the spot whether the reaction is positive or negative.

A positive reaction means that there are tuberculosis germs in the body. Unlike most illnesses, TB infection doesn't always mean active disease. Of those 446 school children with positive reactions, only two had active tuberculosis. But a positive reaction does mean that active disease is a possibility. About one-fifth of Americans—that's 36 million—have picked up the TB germ. It is estimated that one in twenty of them will develop active tuberculosis sometime in the future.

Anyone with a positive tuberculin reaction should get a chest X-ray regularly. It is also important for a positive reactor to

The quick-thinking angler was fishing from a mole when he saw David Hubbard, 13, being swept away by an offshore current. He expertly cast the float on his line within David's reach. The boy seized the line and hung on until Arthur Shimmans, 38, dived in and pulled him out.

Week-Long Dairy Strike Ends in Buffalo Sector

Highway Crashes Kill 14 Persons During Weekend

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP)—Traffic accidents in New York State killed 14 persons over the weekend, including four who perished in a head-on collision on the New York State Thruway.

A woman was burned to death in a fire and four persons died in other types of accidents during the period from 6 p. m. Friday to midnight last night.

State Police said a northbound car crossed the center line on the Thruway near Audsley and collided with a southbound vehicle Sunday night, killing four persons.

Three of the dead were identified as Louis DeFuria, 41, of Brooklyn, John Paul Riven, 18, of Queens, and Emanuel Papadakis, 24, of Queens.

The fourth victim was not identified immediately.

James F. Martin, 19, a senior at Oswego High School, and David R. Donahue, 18, an airman from Oswego, were killed Sunday when the automobile in which they were riding crashed into a ditch.

In Manhattan, Mrs. Jean Regan, 51, was burned to death when the living room couch on which she was lying caught fire Friday night.

Other fatal accidents, by community, during the period:

Rochester—Peter Arena, 5, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ladovico Arena of Rochester, apparently choked to death Friday night on a toy pistol.

New York—Paul L. Zar, 36, of Queens, two-car collision Saturday.

New York—George F. Scullio, 39, of the Bronx, struck by a subway train Saturday.

Hyde Park—John W. Clomanev, 6, of Hyde Park, auto-bicycle collision Saturday.

New York—John Lecitra, 60, of New York, small electric truck was operating Saturday overturned at General Post Office's Morgan Annex.

White Plains—Alexander Ammiraglio Jr., 9, of White Plains, crashed to death by a baggage elevator Sunday.

Cart, Rolls Stolen

Police were notified Sunday of the theft of a laundry cart from a laundromat and of several dozen rolls from an uptown store. Sherman Kent, owner of the Uptown Laundromat, 59 North Front Street, said the cart, valued at $20, had been taken, vending machines were upset, bottles were scattered in the building, and electric pipes were pulled from sockets. The rolls were reported taken from a side door of the Teetzel store, Washington and Lucas Avenues.

Named Traffic Superintendent By Phone Firm

GERRARD F. MCGOWAN

The New York Telephone Company has announced the recent appointment of Gerrard F. McGowan as traffic superintendent, Kingston, succeeding Robert Honan who has held the position for the past five years.

McGowan began his career with the company in 1955 as a traffic superintendent in Buffalo. He has held various positions of responsibility in the traffic and plant departments and comes to Kingston from Buffalo where he was traffic superintendent in charge of P.B.X. and Teletype Servicing. McGowan graduated from State Teachers College with a B.S. degree and holds a Masters Degree from Columbia University. He spent two years in the U. S. Army stationed in Panama.

In his new position, he will assume responsibility for traffic department operations in the areas of Ulster, Greene and Columbia Counties served by the New York Telephone Company.

Honan has been transferred to the Eastern Area Staff Offices located in Albany as a traffic supervisor. He has been with the company since 1946 working first in the plant department and then coming to Kingston as traffic superintendent in 1956. A native of Troy he has resided in Hurley since being in this area.

Two Area Women

The Nile, the woman's unit of the Shrine Club.

They left the meeting about 10 p. m. and started to cross Madison Avenue near its intersection with South Lake Street. They were proceeding from the north side of the street to the south side, Albany police said they were not crossing at the intersection.

Police Description of Mishap

The police department told The Freeman that the two ladies were in the middle of the street when they darted suddenly into the path of a car operated by Theodore F. Johannsen, 20, of Salt Point Turnpike, Pleasant Valley.

Johannsen, they said, applied his brakes and skidded on wet pavement, the right side of his car striking both of the women. It was raining at the time.

It was reported unofficially that the two women left the meeting with a group, including Mrs. Edna Morgan of 16 Cummings Avenue, this city. Mrs. Morgan reportedly told them to wait that she would get her car from the parking lot and drive back to pick them up. Instead of waiting, however, Mrs. Simpkins and Mrs. Brink followed Mrs. Morgan.

Heard Screams

Mrs. Morgan, who had crossed Madison Avenue ahead of them, heard brakes scream and turned to see the Johannsen automobile skidding into the two women with its right side.

She reported that the two women went literally flying through the air after they were struck.

Mrs. Morgan was going to drive the group to the Shrine Club where some of their husbands were also attending a meeting.

Storms, Floods

sas and Missouri adjoining Kansas city. Tornado winds lashed across near Stamford in west-central Texas, northern Oklahoma and in Madisonville, Ky.

Many rivers and streams, fed by heavy spring rains, overflowed across sections of Kansas, Illinois, Indiana, Ohio, Kentucky, Oklahoma and Missouri. The Missouri River was near flood stage at several points in Missouri.

Started Industry

Franciscan fathers carried the art of grape growing for wine fermentation from Mexico into what now is California in the mid-18th century.

May Ask Belgium To Order Troops Out of Katanga

(AP)—United Nations officials said today the campaign to clear Katanga of foreign mercenaries has started.

A U. N. spokesman announced that seven white volunteers in the Katanga forces were in the custody of U. N. soldiers in the Nyunzu area of north Katanga last weekend. He could not say whether U. N. forces had captured them or they had given themselves up.

One source said the U. N. action against mercenaries is being confined at the moment to men not of Belgian nationality.

This was understood to mean that those to be removed first are South Africans, Rhodesians and Britons who form a big part of the Katanga mercenary force.

U. N. sources said it is possible the Belgian government will be asked later to order their nationals to quit the Katanga forces.

The Rev. Jack D. Richardson was named minister of the Shandaken Charge including Big Indian and Pine Hill Churches.

The Rev. James W. Cook was reappointed pastor for a third term at Overlook Methodist Church, Woodstock.

The Rev. John L. Vieoli was named to a sixth term as supply pastor of Esopus charge including Rifton church.

Provides Major Part

A major part of the Arsenal's exhibit of historical equipment comes from the collection of 1st Lt. Walter Tierney, 656th Radar Squadron, USAF, Saratoga Springs. Appropriately for this first year of the Civil War Centennial, Lt. Tierney's contributions illustrate changes in weapons system and equipment made during the last century.

Visitors may compare the rare Civil War hand grenade with its modern counterpart and observe the continuity of rifle design from the Civil War to the recent past. Of particular local interest is the fact that many of Lt. Tierney's items were made at the Arsenal, including saddles, holsters, cartridge pouches and other accoutrements.

Another historic display, arranged for by Robert Wilcox of Saugerties, Arsenal foreman, is an extensive collection of antique small arms owned by Saugerties Muzzle Loaders Association.

Members of the Muzzle Loaders will be on hand to describe these firearms—some of which antedate the Revolutionary War.

Weapons and equipment of the modern army in the Arsenal display will include the complete new Army small arms system, tactical containers for the Hawk, Lacrosse and the Nike-Hercules missiles, as well as the sustainment and maintenance of the Hercules now being produced at Watervliet.

Other Arsenal contributions include the Davy Crockett which provides the infantryman with atomic capability, recoilless rifles, mortars and tank guns.

To Show Unique Items

Several unique examples of Army Ordnance contributions to scientific development may be seen in the miniaturization display from the Diamond Ordnance Fuze Laboratory, Washington, D. C. They include an electric light slightly larger than a pinhead, and a radio transmitter the size of a pencil eraser.

Armed Forces Day visitors will again be transported to and from displays and Arsenal buildings by the popular "tour trains" first employed in the observance two years ago.

Hours of open house are from 10 a. m. to 4 p. m.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING...

by ROGER E. SPEAR
Investment Advisor and Analyst

Takes Courage to Switch Out of Poor Investment

Q: "I am a widow, 70 years old, and so far have not found it too hard to carry on. Among my holdings are 50 shares of Curtiss-Wright, bought at $37 about five years ago and now selling for about $20. Since shares have recovered somewhat from their lows, I'm inclined to take my loss. I have about $750 to add to the amount realized and want to purchase a quality, income-producing stock." — M. R. C.

A: I wish all of us had your courage and were willing to face up to the fact that an investment has turned out poorly. Five years ago Curtiss-Wright earned $5.64 per share and was near the top of the aircraft manufacturing industry. Unfortunately the company lost its foothold in the ensuing change-over to jet engines and has been going downhill ever since.

In your position the shares seem totally unsatisfactory. Curtiss-Wright's annual dividend, now trimmed to $1.00, was barely covered by 1960 earnings. In my opinion, share recovery is a long way off.

I suggest you switch into Southern New England Telephone (OTC), which yields over 4 per cent and provides the safety and income you need.

Q: "My wife and I have 100 shares of Public Service Electric and Gas which we purchased 20 years ago. It is now selling at $53. We are in our middle fifties and have been debating the advisability of selling now and depositing the money in the bank at 3 1/2 per cent. What do you advise?" — R. C.

A: I don't think you would gain anything by making this switch. Your utility shares are now selling to yield around 3.8 per cent, which is about equal to the bank's rate. However, if you sold, you would be liable for capital gains taxes and would not have any protection against further inflation.

You can expect occasional dividend increases as well as gradual appreciation from this stock. I advise you to hold.

Mr. Spear cannot answer all mail personally but will answer all questions possible in his column.

Cooperating in the teaching of this course are the Radio Staff personnel: John Schermerhorn, in charge of operations; Herbert Stok, in charge of radiological equipment; and Morris Nussbaum, chief of service.

The course will consist of three regular sessions, with the third on May 16.

A fourth, make-up session will be offered as an intensive review for those who may have missed previous meetings.

Pendergast

ive mostly in New York City. Main objectives of the insurgents are the ousters of Pendergast and Carmine G. DeSapio, Democratic national committeeman and leader of Tammany Hall, the Manhattan party organization.

One of the factors leading to the efforts for an accord with Pendergast was reported to be Kennedy's realization that the support of the New York delegation is needed on his legislative program.

Another is said to be the realization that Pendergast's term will expire before the state election next year. Kennedy's supporters attach considerable importance to this election as a means of weakening Gov. Rockefeller's potential as a Republican candidate for president in 1964.

Backed by Harriman

W. Averell Harriman, ambassador-at-large for the Kennedy administration and former governor, messaged his support of Pendergast to a Rockland County Democratic dinner held in the state chairman's honor Saturday night.

Harriman's telegram to the dinner, held at Bear Mountain, said: "I have valued his friendship over the years and I share your sentiments—I like Mike."

The Democratic former governor expressed regret at inability to attend the dinner "in honor of my good friend Mike Pendergast."

Pendergast said in a speech at the dinner that he believes the Democrats can beat Rockefeller in his re-election bid next year with a candidate and platform that offer the voters "a clear-cut choice."

LOST WORLDS—You may think the world's in a mess, but Jack Mandaville has proof—a lot of it—as he's swamped by dozens of balloon-type world globes. Mandaville is vice president of a Cleveland, Ohio, savings and loan company which bought up a large supply of the globes to pass out to new depositors. Before the gift operation could be launched, a rash of newly created nations made the models hopelessly out of date, leaving the banker with the weight of many worlds on his shoulders.

Castro's Spy Group Active In Seizure of Unreliables

EDITOR'S NOTE: What's the latest word from behind the "palm tree curtain" in Cuba? Richard Valeriani, National Broadcasting Company staffman, arrived in Miami Sunday in a planeload of refugees from Havana. A former Associated Press reporter in Cuba, Valeriani here tells his story for AP readers.

By RICHARD VALERIANI
MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Three weeks after the short-lived anti-Castro invasion, fear and repression still rule Cuba.

Out of the chaos which now characterizes the sun-bathed island, only one pattern emerges clearly—the pattern of Communist dictatorship.

The Batista tyranny toppled more than two years ago by Fidel Castro has been replaced by a new tyranny, all the more fearful because of the haphazard manner in which it operates.

Buildings Sandbagged
Havana today is in the hands of the military. All public buildings are sandbagged. Soldiers, teen-aged Young Rebels, militiamen and militawomen stand guard around the clock, their weapons slung carelessly about them.

Militiamen frisk all persons entering any public building. Women's handbags are searched minutely, down to tubes of lipstick. Visitors must open cigarette and match packs before entering hotels and other buildings.

How long this will go on is Castro's decision but anybody's guess. It appears that he will maintain the repressive measures instituted after the abortive invasion in order to retain the iron grip he now has on the country.

Terror Reign Spreads
Castro's police machinery began spreading its reign of terror within a few hours after the announcement of the invasion April 17. Conservative estimates place the total at 50,000 arrested throughout the island, although news from the provinces is scant.

G-2 agents and militiamen, apparently working from prepared lists as well as from tips from government-organized spy committees in every neighborhood, began arresting "unreliables" indiscriminately.

The American press was a special target. Their offices were occupied and looted or both. Almost all the American correspondents were arrested or forced into hiding and refuge. AP staffer Robert Berrellez was arrested the afternoon of the invasion, held for more than two weeks by the G-2 and then transferred behind the grim walls of La Cabana prison, greatly overcrowded like the rest of the Cuban prisons.

Worshippers Searched
Churches offered no haven. Militiamen surrounded them, closed the doors and searched the worshippers inside.

The jailing of priests was common. The arrests have diminished considerably, and many of the prisoners are being released. But anyone who has ever uttered a doubtful word about the Castro regime walks in fear today.

The mass repression appears to have smashed the anti-Castro underground. Many were nabbed in the roundup. Many others took refuge in Latin-American embassies, which are bulging beyond capacity. The underground is depressed and demoralized—and yet angry.

Some underground members still free told me they were given orders not to move two days before the invasion. Arms were distributed. Activation never came.

Reliable sources estimate that up to 30,000 persons within Cuba were prepared to take up arms against Castro. They now ask each other in frustration, what happened?

Push to Slam Is South Aim

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
Thirty years ago, Richard L. Frey of New York was one of my favorite partners. He was particularly adept in bidding and his dummy play came as close to being perfect as possible.

He has recently written a book entitled, "How to Win at Contract Bridge in Ten Easy Lessons," and anything written by Dick is worth reading.

In today's hand Dick was South and I was North. A look at the bidding shows that Dick let himself be pushed slowly into the slam in spades. If he had showed his tremendous freak holding, the opponents surely would have saved at seven hearts which would only be down two tricks.

Of course, West could beat the spade slam. All he had to do would be to open the seven of clubs. East would trump and West would still have a club trick.

However, West opened the king of diamonds. Dick won the trick; drew trumps; and led the eight of clubs. West

Cold War Center Is in Operation

WASHINGTON (AP) — A new cold war operation center has been set up by the State Department to keep round-the-clock watch on world crises.

Its function is to see that recommendations for dealing with crises are made promptly to Secretary of State Dean Rusk, and through him to President Kennedy and to make certain that the decisions reached by Kennedy and Rusk are promptly implemented.

Formation of the center and its responsibilities were disclosed Saturday by the State Department. The new agency is headed by Theodore C. Achilles, 55, a veteran foreign service officer who had a major role in drafting the North Atlantic Treaty.

Disclosure of the center's existence followed State Department announcement that Stephen E. Smith, 33, a brother-in-law of President Kennedy, had been appointed special assistant to Achilles.

Drenched Hikers Ousted From Inn

WASHINGTON (AP)—A woman innkeeper said today a drenched troop of hikers—including a Supreme Court justice, a senator and a Cabinet member—turned her place into a picnic area without so much as a "by your leave."

"I came in and found them like sardines in my cocktail lounge, sitting on the bar and eating their own food," said the innkeeper, Mrs. John T. Reges.

Mrs. Reges, the wife of the proprietor of the Old Angiers Inn reacted swiftly. "In a loud voice—in German—I told my maitre d': 'I will give you 10 minutes to get these people out of here.'"

"After they were gone," said Mrs. Reges, "I found out who they were. If they had asked me first, I would have made arrangements, given them a room to dry out in, made them tea. But they didn't ask, they just came in."

The hikers, about 170 strong, were nearing the end of a 15-mile course along the old C&O Canal route from Seneca, Md., to Washington Saturday when they stopped at the inn near the Great Falls of the Potomac. Among them were Justice William O. Douglas, Sen. Paul Douglas, D-Ill., and Secretary of the Interior Stewart L. Udall.

Garden Club to Stage Annual Civic Improvement Contest

The Woodstock Garden Club has announced that it will sponsor a local Civic Improvement Contest for the fourth successive year. Plans were announced at the May meeting held at the Methodist Church hall.

The aim of the contest is to get local business houses to make their establishments more attractive with floral plantings, flower boxes or planting of vines or shrubs.

The members of the Contest Committee will be visiting merchants within the next ten days to invite them to enter the contest. Any firm which is not approached may enter the contest by sending names and addresses to Mrs. Arthur Jones, secretary, before the closing date for entries, May 20.

A committee of judges, composed of members of the Garden Club, will inspect the premises of the contestants during the week of May 22 and again later in the season to select the winner.

The Garden Club's Civic Improvement certificate will be presented to the winner.

Committee appointments for 1961 were made by Mrs. Henry Winzenreid, president of the Woodstock Garden Club at the May 3 meeting held at the Overlook Methodist Church. The meeting was attended by a large number of members and guests.

After reports by Mrs. Arthur Jones, secretary, and Mrs. William Miller, treasurer, Mrs. Winzenreid announced the following appointments:

Three Woodstock Artists Collaborate In Photographic Show

Long Island University's "Third Eye" exhibition is touring Europe this year.

The photographic show prepared by Prof. Nathan Resnick, together with his associates, Cramer, all of Woodstock, has Manuel Komroff and Konrad been selected by the U. S. Information Agency for display in Athens, Belgrade, Bonn, Brussels, Copenhagen, Helsinki, Lisbon, Madrid, Oslo, Rome and Vienna. The exhibition had its first showing at L.I.U. in 1959 before being shown at the DuPont Gallery in Manhattan.

Photographs in the "Third Eye" exhibition are marked by what might be called an advanced style of artistic approach, according to Prof. Resnick. Although the subjects of the photographs are conventional, such as trees, flowers, people, buildings or objects, the treatment is daring—sometimes on the surrealistic side, sometimes rather abstracted—always novel.

Prof. Resnick, professor of art, director of exhibitions and director of libraries at L.I.U. and M. Komroff, a writer and Cramer, a painter, are currently engaged in preparations for a fall exhibition in a midtown gallery.

Rocky to Support Jersey Candidate

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP) —Gov. Rockefeller will campaign in New Jersey for James P. Mitchell, Republican nominee for governor and Secretary of Labor under former President Eisenhower.

Rockefeller's office confirmed today reports that the governor had agreed to participate in Mitchell's campaign, one of the most important election battles of the year.

The governor's office said there was "no question but that Rockefeller would participate" and added that there are no precise plans yet for the participation. Eisenhower probably will be asked to make at least one speech for his former aide.

Mitchell's backers, however, apparently have no plans to seek campaign help from former Vice President Richard M. Nixon or Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz.

Goldwater represents a conservative philosophy that frequently is opposed to Mitchell's.

Nixon and Mitchell, line up on the same side on most questions. Mitchell's associates also say they owe a great deal to Nixon's efforts to raise campaign funds when Mitchell was in a tough primary fight.

But the thinking among Mitchell's associates apparently is that too many outside speakers could spread an impression that the GOP candidate has to lean on highly placed friends and can't stand on his own political feet.

As a neighbor, Rockefeller won't be regarded as an intruder.

Benedictine Will Observe Hospital Week, May 7 to 13

A working partnership between hospital and community is necessary if a community's health is to be maintained at its highest level, Edwin B. Bolz, associate administrator of the Benedictine Hospital, said today.

Without the hospital, many individuals would not realize their "heritage of health," while without the community's support and understanding, the hospital would be unable to meet the community's health needs, he noted.

"Your Hospital — A Community Partnership" is the theme of National Hospital Week, May 7-13. This observance, first celebrated as National Hospital Day from 1921 to 1953, has since been observed as National Hospital Week. It is sponsored by the American Hospital Association and is held each year during the week of Florence Nightingale's birthday — May 12th.

Among the week's events at the Benedictine Hospital will be an Employee Recognition Day to be held May 11. Service awards will be presented to employees, a film will be shown and refreshments served.

The hospital's major responsibility in its community partnership is patient care, Bolz said. "The magnitude of the service is illustrated by the fact that one of every eight persons will be admitted to a hospital this year."

Bolz noted that patient care is constantly improving through medical advances, the development of new equipment and services and better training of personnel.

Two responsibilities of the hospital which in turn are obligations of patient care, are education and training of personnel, and medical research.

The community's role in this partnership for health is equally vital, Bolz said, outlining five areas of community responsibility.

Its most direct tie is through the hospital's governing and advisory board, composed of community leaders. They set or help to set the broad policies for the hospital and are usually responsible for everything that goes on in the hospital.

The other four areas he noted were:

Community encouragement of young people to enter health careers. The shortage in medical and para-medical personnel is a serious problem for the entire health field.

Community support through individual volunteering of services. An estimated two million Americans do volunteer work in hospitals.

Membership in a prepayment plan such as Blue Cross or a commercial insurance carrier. The prepayment principle provides an easy method of budgeting for hospital care and it also assures hospitals of a stable income for services provided.

Under this principle, both the people who are well and do not require hospital care in a given year, and those who are ill and require care, pay the hospital bill.

Community support of programs which will provide adequate reimbursement and allow hospitals to maintain a more stable financial situation. It must be remembered that hospitals care for many patients who cannot pay their bill, but still many communities do not reimburse hospitals adequately for care of welfare patients.

In conclusion Bolz commented, "Only through a full partnership of an enlightened public, a learned and inspired medical profession and a dedicated hospital staff can the very best of health care be given."

Old Timer's Civil War Notes

One of the best known veterans in and around Ellenville in the decades following the Civil War was Goldsborough Garrison, who had been a member of the Eight N.Y. Cavalry. The Eighth was one of those regiments which seemed always to be tangling with the "Johnnies" in the hills, valleys and swamps of the Old Dominion State. Their death toll totaled 324 including a colonel, eight captains and several lieutenants. Major Garrison served on the staffs of Generals Pleasanton, Buford and Custer. He was shot in the shoulder during the Shenandoah Valley campaign, was again shot while acting as a scout following Gettysburg and at Five Forks he was shot in the side. As if this were not enough for one man, the doughty cavalryman received a severe sabre wound in the head at Stephensburg.

Major Garrison who had enlisted at 18, was considered one of the bravest men in the cavalry branch of the Union Army. He was with Kilpatrick in the latter's daring raid on Richmond and it was his opinion that Kilpatrick was the most energetic of all the cavalry generals. Garrison took part in the action at Beverly Ford following the great Battle of Chancellorsville, where the regiment's commander, Col. Benjamin F. Davis, was killed in action. Colonel Davis was some distance in front of his men when Lieutenant R. O. Allen of the Sixth Virginia Cavalry rode up to him, whereupon Davis turned upon Allen with a cut of his sabre which the Confederate avoided by throwing himself on the side of his horse and at the same time firing his pistol. Thus did Benjamin F. Davis, rated as one of the best officers in the Army, meet his fate at the hands of one as brave and daring as himself.

Your Old Timer hereby acknowledges with thanks a communication from Della T. Shaw in which the New Paltz resident conveys interesting data about the Civil War activities of several of her relatives. Mrs. Shaw's two uncles, John C. and Cyrus D. Harp, enlisted in Company E, 156th New York Volunteer Infantry, a regiment composed of men from Ulster and Orange Counties. The brothers, born 1844 and 1846 respectively, were sons of Simon Harp and Helen Jemima Clearwater, who was a cousin of Judge A. T. Clearwater. Mrs. Shaw and her brother, Attorney Peter H. Harp have cherished letters from their uncles, one of which is dated 1862, Headquarters Mountain Legion, Jamaica, L. I., another, 1863, from Camp Carroiton, Care Banks Division, New Orleans, tells of mutiny at Camp Kearney. Also, in a letter dated March 6, 1863, Harrisonville, Va., the young soldiers described the great battle around Winchester, told how much they missed their mother and of gratitude for letters and packages received from home. Peddlers near the encampment were selling homemade pies for 20 cent apiece, the boys wrote.

Mrs. Shaw's letter continues John C. Harp was mortally wounded and died Oct. 19, 1864, at the age of 20. Cyrus also was injured and was hospitalized for a long time before being returned home, a sufferer for years, he died August 25, 1892, and was buried in New Paltz Rural Cemetery. Warren Chipp Tamney, a grandfather of Mrs. Shaw, enlisted in Co. D, 20th Infantry, known later on in the war as the Eightieth N. Y. V. I. (the soldiers preferred the old title of 20th as did also the veterans of the Grand Army of the Republic Posts and the people of Ulster generally). Company D was assigned to provost-guard duty at City Point and at Norfolk. Tamney, who served with distinction at City Point and Petersburg was guard over the notorious Dick Turner, a turnkey at Libby Prison, and Ben Pool, famous Southern spy. He was born June 10, 1846, son of James and Anna Maria Hasbrouck Tamney, in the old stone house of Benjamin Hasbrouck on Buck Road, Stone Ridge, which is now owned by Mr. and Mrs. John Parete. In 1888 he removed to New Paltz where he was active in G.A.R. circles. He was father of Carrie Constable Tamney, who married Elting Harp in 1892.

Old Timer would like to obtain additional information regarding the following veterans: Alfred Tanner, Christopher Wood and John W. McEntee, all of 20th Regiment Infantry, and Alonzo G. Davis, 20th Artillery.—C.A.W.

No Pointed Explanation Yet

Plain Answer by President
On 'Sacrifices' Is AwaitedBy JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—Since before his election, President Kennedy has been putting emphasis on the idea of sacrifice ahead for the American people.

After 3½ months in office he hasn't requested the people to endure any hardships.

On the same day last week that he was asked to explain what sacrifices he had in mind, his administration indicated it was thinking of an income tax cut next year.

Some of His Quotes

Last July 15, in his speech accepting the Democratic nomination, he said: "The new frontier of which I speak is not a set of promises—it is a set of challenges. It sums up not what I intend to offer the American people but what I intend to ask of them."

"It appeals to their pride, not their pocketbooks—it holds out the promise of more sacrifice instead of more security."

In his inaugural address Jan. 20 he said: "Let every nation know, whether it wish us well or ill, that we shall pay any price, bear any burden, meet any hardship, support any friend or oppose any foe in order to assure the survival and success of liberty. This much we pledge—and more."

Hesitating About Laos

"But this country, whether or not it would be wise to get involved in war on the Asian continent, has shown great hesitancy about moving into Laos to fight against the Communist-led Pathet Lao for the right-wing Laotian government the United States supports."

Later in his inaugural Kennedy said: "My fellow Americans, ask not what your country can do for you—ask what you can do for your country."

Real Puzzling

This constant talk of sacrifice, without sacrifice being asked for, and the statement about "our unwillingness to do what must be done" has been so puzzling that a reporter asked Kennedy at his May 5 news conference to explain.

(This was the same day Treasury Secretary Douglas Dillon indicated the administration is studying the possibility of asking Congress next year to cut individual income taxes.)

But Kennedy's answer hardly came under the head of what might be considered "sacrifice." He said he thinks there are a number of things which can be usefully done.

"We are going to require a larger effort in space," he said. He explained he wanted a "re-labor and management in missile production."

He said further he wants to persuade labor and management to "come to useful national conclusions" on the problems of prices and wages.

He said he wants a greater effort, nationally and in local communities, to improve education. In addition, he said he wants the American people to try for more equal opportunity all people in this country, regardless of creed or color.

It's questionable that any of these points come under the head of "sacrifice." And, if they don't, then the President still hasn't explained what all the talk of sacrifice means or calls for.

Maxwell D. Taylor: An Old Soldier Returns to Duty—

Maj. Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor in France, 1944, during the early days of the invasion. He had parachuted on D-Day with the 101st Airborne Division, which he led. During the Bulge, he slipped past enemy lines to join his men.

After the war, Taylor served as superintendent of West Point, later as Allied commandant in Berlin. In 1953, Lt. Gen. Taylor was named chief of the U.S. 8th Army in Korea, where he argued for more vigorous U.N. offensive.

Taylor, now full general, is congratulated by Army Secretary Robert Stevens, right, as he became the Army's new Chief of Staff in 1955. Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway, retiring chief, looks on. Taylor, long a foe of the "massive retaliation" concept, plumped hard for $10 billion Army modernization program to make U.S. strong in limited war capabilities.

Still an advocate of unconventional warfare, Taylor retired in 1959, sadly calling himself an "obsolescent general."

President Kennedy has called Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, 61, World War II hero and former Army Chief of Staff, out of retirement in the wake of the U. S.-backed Cuban invasion failure. Taylor's job will be to review the nation's entire intelligence setup along with guerrilla warfare and so-called paramilitary capabilities. The idea is that to meet the worldwide Communist threat, America may have to adopt Communist "unconventional warfare" tactics. Taylor's report, when it is made in about two months, will undoubtedly suggest important changes in U. S. cold war strategy.

Gary Marks Birthday

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Gary Cooper, fighting a game but losing battle with cancer, became 60 years old Sunday.

He received scores of birthday felicitations among the many letters pouring in on him since his critical illness became public.

"I know what is happening is God's will," the strong, silent man of the films said in a memo to newsmen last Thursday.

Sources close to him said they are inspired by the strength of his spiritual convictions and amazed at his courage.

Tutor Say Pope
Has No Brogue
From His Lessons

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—Is Pope John XXIII learning English with an Irish brogue? No, says Msgr. Thomas Ryan, an Irish-born priest who is his teacher.

"Really, he has an Italian accent," Msgr. Ryan disclosed Sunday. "It's not true that I am giving him an Irish one."

Msgr. Ryan, who is making his first visit to the United States, stopped in Cleveland over the weekend. He is en route back to Rome after attending the 50th golden jubilee of a close friend, Bishop Aloysius J. Willinger of the Monterey-Fresno (Calif.) Diocese.

The Pope's English lessons actually started in Turkey, Msgr. Ryan explained.

"I was sent there to join the apostolic delegation in Istanbul," he said. "The apostolic delegate, Archbishop Roncalli, as he was then, decided that he should study English. We had lessons for a year and a half, and he did quite well."

"When he became Pope, he learned that I was at the Vatican and decided to continue his lessons with his old teacher."

Rolls-Royce May
Halt Production

LONDON (AP)—The Rolls-Royce, limousine of the truly opulent, may be on the way out.

The company that has built plush autos for kings, oil rich sheikhs, millionaires and film stars faced a financial crisis.

The trouble is caused by the recent British government law limiting to 2,000 pounds—$3,600—the income tax deduction for automobiles for company executives.

Lord Keadersley, chairman of Rolls-Royce, has warned the government that his company has been so hard hit by the tax law the firm's car division may have to cease production.

In less than three weeks since Chancellor of the Exchequer Selwyn Lloyd's budget proposal, the Rolls order book has shrunk by 75 per cent.

Rolls price tags range upward from 6,000 pounds—$16,800. The Creve plant produces only 2,400 a year and about half of them go in export. In January the wait for a new rolls was 12 months.

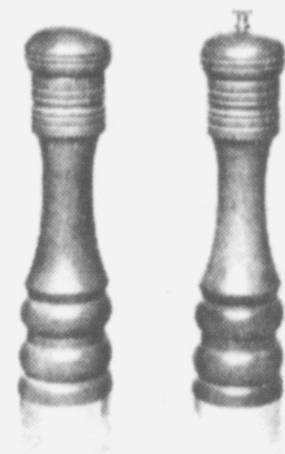

Since the budget the wait has dropped to four to five months and within eight weeks delivery is expected to be "immediate."

Bard Students Set Dates for Plays; Tickets Available

The spring season of the Bard College Theatre will comprise three productions to be presented during the next six weeks. The first, opening Saturday, May 13 through May 16, will be a new production of Sean O'Casey's tragedy, "The Plough and the Stars," marking the 35th anniversary of its first performance as the climax of the author's contribution to the history of the Abbey Theatre in Dublin and the 45th anniversary of the events with which it is concerned. The Dublin Easter Rising. Following this, on Saturday and Sunday, June 3 and 4, will be a production of a very different play by the other master of the Irish dramatic movement, J. M. Synge's delightful folk-comedy, "The Tinker's Wedding."

Finally, from another master, Shakespeare, "Twelfth Night" is planned for June 17 and 18 in an open-air production in the gardens of the college, beside the Hudson.

Seats for the first production may be reserved by writing to Box 284 at the college, Annandale-on-Hudson, N. Y., or by telephone to the college Public Relations Office, or the theatre starting today.

RECEIVING A BOOK ALREADY READ

Q: When I was in the hospital recently, recovering from an operation, a friend of mine brought me a book to read. Yesterday, another friend came to visit me at home and brought me a copy of this same book. When I unwrapped the package and saw that it was the same book, I told her that I had already received a copy of the book and asked her if she would mind exchanging it for another that I hadn't read. When my friend left, a member of my family told me that I was very rude to have said anything to her about it and that I should have simply thanked her for it and let it go at that. Will you please tell me if I committed a breach of etiquette?

A: If it were a very good friend who brought you the book, it would have been better to have simply thanked her and asked a member of your family to try to exchange it for you.

Ready to Leave When Boy Calls
Q: Is it perhaps over-eager for a girl to have her coat and hat on ready to go when a boy calls for her?

A: This depends upon what their plans are for the evening. If they have to keep an engagement with others or would have to hurry to get to the beginning of a moving picture, she should be ready to leave. On the other hand, when there is plenty of time to spare, she should take him into the living room and let him at least greet her family, as well as modify the effect of too great an eagerness to be gone with him.

Visiting Boy Friend Who Has Broken Leg

Q: I'm a young girl who has a boy friend laid up with a broken leg. I would like to know if you think it would be all right for me to go and visit him some day. Some of my girl friends have told me that it would be improper.

A: Yes, but it would be advisable to find another friend of his who would like to visit him too, and then telephone and ask a member of his family if he would like you both to come to see him.

Ursula Parents Unit Set Garden Party For Saturday, May 13

A special program will be presented for the children at the annual garden party, sponsored by the Parents' Association of the Academy of St. Ursula, Saturday, May 13, at 2 p. m., in the auditorium on Grove Street.

"Indian Raid," written and directed by Elizabeth Askue, member of the Coach House Players, will be performed.

The play should be of particular interest to members of this community as it depicts, with complete authenticity, a raid which might easily have taken place in our area. The adult parts are portrayed by members of the Coach House Players. The children will be played by local youngsters and the Indians by Boy Scouts who are members of the Order of the Arrow. They will wear the makeup and costumes of the Esopus Indians.

Other attractions at the garden party will be luncheon served in the cafeteria starting at noon; games for the children; many booths and social games for the adults; and a special teen-age boutique for high school students.

Visitors are invited to rest and enjoy light refreshment at a tea during the afternoon.

B'nai B'rith Girls Win Regional Honors

The eight members of Deborah 75 Chapter of B'nai B'rith Girls, who attended the regional convention at Albany the weekend of April 28-30, came home victorious. Kingston's chapter won three of the four awards given at the convention. The awards were the most work hours, the best scrap book and the story telling contest.

B'nai B'rith is primarily a service organization and all hours spent in community service are totaled for the work hour award. Kingston came in first with a total of 158 work hours. The scrap book is a way of showing what each chapter has accomplished during the year. It is judged on art work, contents, the covering of B.B.G.'s six folds and interest. Dianne Levine entered the regional storytelling contest with an ancient story entitled "Charity." Both the storytelling and the scrapbook entries will be entered at the district convention to be held at the Hotel Glenbrar in Warwarsing the weekend of May 12-14. Attending the convention will be Dianne Levine and Sue Tabakman.

Those who attended the regional convention were: Sue Schwartz, Maxine Meyers, Pam Fletcher, Sue Tabakman, Dianne Levine, Jackie Levine, Arlene Buchbinder and Peggy Starkman.

B.B.G. held a very successful bake sale last Monday at Montgomery Ward. All proceeds are going to CARE.

Kingston Hospital Staff Conducts Disaster Exercise

As a prelude to National Hospital Week, the medical staff of Kingston Hospital conducted a disaster plan exercise Saturday morning.

Robert M. Schnitzer, administrator of the hospital, initiated the exercise after evaluating a theoretical report of an explosion involving approximately 50 casualties. "Our main purpose," explained Schnitzer, "was to determine what problems might be encountered and how long it would take to summon over 40 physicians to the hospital."

Each physician has been assigned a specific spot where, according to his specialty, he can be most effective in the event of a major disaster. The organization of the medical staff and the supporting administrative services required was developed by a committee consisting of Drs. William E. Askue, Arthur Hazenbush and Glenn VanGaasbeek. During the exercise, professional coordination was directed by Dr. Harold L. Rakov, who indicated that the response was highly gratifying.

John Cashmore Dies After Fatal Attack

NEW YORK (AP)—John Cashmore, 65, Democratic president of the Borough of Brooklyn for 21 years, collapsed and died of a heart attack Sunday night in his chauffeur-driven limousine.

The veteran campaigner was en route to his Brooklyn home from the Williamsburg settlement house dinner at the Commodore Hotel in Manhattan when he slumped down in the back seat.

The chauffeur hailed a passing police car which escorted the limousine to Bellevue Hospital where emergency crews tried unsuccessfully to revive Cashmore with artificial respiration.

Hospital officials said Cashmore was carrying medicines normally used for treatment of a heart condition. A family spokesman said he had suffered for several years from heart trouble and diabetes.

On learning of the death, Mayor Robert F. Wagner ordered all flags on city buildings to be flown at half mast.

Commissioner of Borough Works John F. Hayes became acting borough president upon Cashmore's death. Hayes will serve until the Brooklyn members of the City Council appoint someone to complete Cashmore's term, which expires Dec. 31.

Asks State Labor To Obtain Better Part of U.S. Work

JAMESTOWN, N.Y. (AP)—Harold C. Hanover, State AFL-CIO president, urged organized labor today to take union action to obtain "a fairer share" of government defense contracts for New York State.

Hanover said California paid only half as much as New York in federal taxes, yet received twice as many defense contracts as New York.

Speaking at the convention of the State Union Label and Service Trades Department, AFL-CIO, Hanover said in a prepared address that labor's first concern was to obtain for New York "a fairer share of government procurement and contracts."

"New York State and New York workers have been shortchanged down in Washington and it's up to us to develop some plain and fancy union-labeled activity to alter this situation for the better," he said.

New York residents and business paid $17.3 billion in federal taxes in 1960, Hanover said, but the state received only $2.4 billion in defense contracts.

California provided the federal government $8 billion in taxes and received $1.8 billion in contracts—twice as much as New York, he said.

Hanover said that, in New York, 7 out of every 100 workers were idle through no fault of their own in the Albany-Schenectady-Troy area, 11 out of 100 in Buffalo, 8.2 per cent of the work force in Syracuse and 9.7 per cent in the Utica-Rome district.

Republican Sen. Jacob Javits of New York is sponsoring a bill in the U.S. Senate to bring about more competition for defense contracts.

Sen. Thomas H. Kuchel, R-Calif., is opposing the bill. He said proposals to reduce competition by adding economic geographical factors were "inspired in large part by obvious covetingness, by selfish envy, and by greater concern over local welfare than national security."

In reply to proposals by New York congressmen that the administration channel contracts into areas of high unemployment, Kuchel said defense programs must not be operated "as a 1961-style of the WPA."

Javits said he agreed and that his point was that "the basis for competition should be as broadly established as possible."

On the state level, Gov. Rockefeller recently announced the opening of New York State Commerce Department offices in Los Angeles and Chicago. Rockefeller said New York hoped to encourage businesses that were expanding and moving to come to this state.

Grain Farmers Get Extension To File Report

Final date for enrollment in the feed grain program has been extended to June 1, it was reported today by Edward M. Wood, chairman of the Ulster County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation office.

The deadline for filing reports on crops for 1959 and 1960 is May 20. This date was originally May 5.

When the report of crops is filed the county ASC committee sets a rate of payment for the farm. If the farmer accepts the rate and enrolls in the program he is paid for reducing his corn acreage for the coming year and diverting the land to a conservation use.

Farmers can receive approximately half of their payment at the time of enrollment. These funds can be used in any manner but in most cases it will be used to purchase equipment, seed, lime, fertilizer.

More than a million and a quarter dollars were paid to 5,100 New York State farmers as of April 28, 1961, and it is believed that this may be doubled by May 20. Wood urged farmers who grew husking and silage corn in 1959 and 1960 to contact their local community committeeman or the ASC office for details.

Hyde Park Boy Fatally Injured In Road Mishap

A six-year-old Hyde Park boy was fatally injured early Saturday afternoon in a car-bicycle collision on River road in that village.

He was John W. Lomasney, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Lomasney. The Dutchess County sheriff's office reported that the boy was riding on the handlebars of a bicycle operated by Robert Johnson, 8, of River road.

They were proceeding down hill on a curve when a car operated by Robert W. Biggs, 71, of River road, approached from the opposite direction.

The driver told sheriff's men he didn't see the bicycle until it was too close to avoid a collision. Both Biggs and the Johnson boy pulled to the right and were in head-on collision.

The Johnson boy was taken to Northern Dutchess Health Center, Rhinebeck, where his condition was reported today as fair.

The Lomasney child died at the scene a few minutes after the accident.

Probers Uncover Fortune in Home

VERONA, N.Y. (AP)—State Police, called to investigate the death of a 78-year-old man, found $65,000 in cash, checks and bankbooks and the dead man's seriously ill older brother in the ramshackle house where the two lived.

A neighbor found the body of Walter Taubman Sunday about 100 feet behind the house where Taubman and his brother, Thomas, 89, lived.

A coroner said Taubman had been dead since Thursday and probably died of natural causes.

State Police said they found Thomas sitting in a chair in the 1 1/2-story frame house approximately two miles north of this Oneida County community.

He was taken to Oneida County Hospital, Rome, and was reported semi-conscious and suffering from malnutrition.

Troopers said they found $5,000 in cash in the pocket of a pair of pants, $11,000 in uncashed checks and bank books showing deposits of $49,000.

The brothers had lived alone in the house for many years.

Protest Delays Syracuse Event

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP)—Demonstrating students, protesting what they charge is an official policy of discouraging dating between students of different religions and races, delayed moving up day ceremonies Saturday at Syracuse University.

The school has denied having any such policy but has taken the student demands under consideration.

The demonstrators, carrying placards and chanting, demanded a "definite commitment from the university that no member of the administration be allowed to infringe on the personal individual liberties of the students."

The students said one example of this was "the practice in the past of advising parents of their sons' and daughters' dating habits."

The peaceful demonstration on the chapel steps by about 100 students, delayed the moving up day ceremonies for approximately 15 minutes. Then the demonstrators took seats in the bleachers.

Snead Shatters Jinx to Win Champs Tourney

By BOB MYERS
Associated Press Sports Writer

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—Sam Snead, golf's all-time leading money winner and the oldest man in the nation to win a major tournament, heads for the West Virginia hills today, richer by $10,000.

Snead, who'll be 49 May 27, finally added the Tournament of Champions to his roll of victories, breezing in Sunday by seven strokes.

After a shaky start, Snead put on the pressure in the final nine holes to shoot a three-under-par 69 and a 72-hole score of 273, 15 blows under par.

In the process he matched the early morning high wind and nearly blew his nearest challenger, veteran Tommy Bolt, off the course.

Snead began the round with a lead of five strokes over Bolt and Payer. Sam was extremely wild off the tee on the first nine and Bolt, playing far more consistent golf, trimmed the margin to three strokes going into the final nine holes.

But from there on it was Snead all the way, and the pressure began to stack up on Tommy. Snead birdied the 10th, 12th and 17th holes, while Bolt began to really droop with a double-bogey six on the 12th. When he hit into the lake on the 17th for a 1-over-par-5, the duel was definitely over.

Snead's jinx had been broken. It was in this tournament on three successive years that Snead, each time the heavy favorite, was a complete disappointment. In fact, although eligible, he would not return on other occasions until this year.

Tommy hung on to take second place and $5,000 with a 71 for wip. Bill Collins 69 gave him 281 and $3,000. Bob Rosburg, with a 73 for 282, and Doug Ford, with a 73 for 283, were next in line.

Jay Hebert, the leader in the first two rounds, shot a 73 for 284 and a tie with South Africa's Gary Player and Canada's Stan Leonard. Each had a 74.

America Afloat

MYSTIC, Conn. — (NEA) — Tradition is a rewarding part of pleasure boating, and the village of Mystic, in the seacoast corner of Connecticut, has brought a moment from the past.

Great sailing ships are now permanently moored along the wharves of a New England whaling port recreated as it must have been more than 100 years ago.

Myse sent ships around the world when wind was the only power. Sailors rolled along its cobblestone streets carrying souvenirs from Oriental and other faraway ports.

Now the streets, village stores, blacksmith shop, sailors' tavern, rope walk, sailmaker's loft and community firehouse and church have been rebuilt. Some of the old salt's mementoes and his scrimshaw carvings in whalebone and ivory, made while on long voyages, are on display.

New features are being constantly added. An educational planetarium is the latest project. The Seaport is open to visitors all year. Spring brings back experts who staff each exhibit all summer and give free explanations of boating customs and traditions.

Not all displays are old. During the last two summers, Columbia, winning defender of the America's Cup and considered the latest perfection of sailboat design, is there.

On the Mystic River near New London, the Seaport is easily reached by car along Boston Post Road Route 1, or nearby by turnpikes. A more appealing approach is by water. Sailing "down east" out of Long Island Sound, or west from Cape Cod between Fisher's Island and the mainland, the boatman slands in between Ram Island and Maroon Point to enter Mystic River channel.

The first tie-up stop is usually at Skippers' Dock, just to port in Noank, where a 250-foot pier, deep water, notable shore din-

U.S. Open champion Arnold Palmer would just as soon forget this one. His 296 beat only three others in the select field of 26 professionals.

Murphy Saves No-Hitter

Jays, Hawks Capture Jaycee LL Openers

Andy Murphy proved to be Horatio at the Bridge in the opening of the Jaycee Little League yesterday. The son of the Superintendent of Recreation combined with George Dougherty to hurl a no-hitter as the Jays nipped the Hawks, 5-4, in the first game of a doubleheader.

In contrast to the opener, the second contest was a slugfest as the Hawks whipped the Wrens, 13-8.

Murphy relieved Dougherty in the fourth inning when the losers scored four times. Wildness was Dougherty's chief enemy. He walked nine batters in a little more than three frames. He left with his club on the short end of a 4-3 margin.

However, the Jays picked up two runs in the fifth and then Murphy completed the no-hitter with his stout relief pitching. He permitted only one walk and fanned three to earn the decision.

Jordan Pauker went the distance for the Jays. He allowed three hits, including a double by catcher Eddie Argulewicz. He gave up three walks and struck out 12 in a good effort.

The Wrens committed 11 errors against the Hawks and it proved to be their downfall. The Wrens had an 8-1 lead before they blew the decision in the last three innings. There were three hits and five errors in a six-run third by the winners.

Jerry Corrado of the losers and Ken Gilligan of the Hawks rapped two hits each, including a double. Jay Falvey won in relief while Rue Vel was tagged with the loss.

Mayor Radel and several other city officials were in attendance at the league's opening, held at Forsyth Park.

An important meeting of the Woodstock Little League has been called for Thursday, May 11, at 8 p. m. in the town fire hall in Woodstock.

There will be election of officers. Augustine Baptiste, league president, urges a large attendance. All parents and persons interested in volunteering their services for the Little League program are invited.

Left hander Tom Tobey held the New Paltz Hawks to a lone single Saturday and Oneonta State grabbed a 4-0 win at the New Paltz High school diamond.

Bob Dillman singled to right in the fourth inning for the only hit for the losers. Tobey fanned 14 and walked only one.

The winners scored single runs in the third, fifth, sixth and eighth frames. Starter Ted Bentsen was the loser and fresh prospect Sam Mandia relieved.

Bush Recalls Day Cobb Made Tigers Amateurs

BY DICK MITTMAN

Newspaper Enterprise Assn. INDIANAPOLIS — (NEA) — Donie Bush says that Ty Cobb has to be the greatest ballplayer who ever lived.

"But," admits Bush, president of the Indianapolis Indians who as a Detroit Tiger batted ahead of Cobb for 13 years, "I didn't like the guy."

Bush, who has been in baseball since 1906, hasn't let personal feelings sway him in considering Cobb as a player.

"Every club we played always doubled on us because of Cobb," Bush recalls.

Doubling is baseball lingo for using a team's ace pitcher twice in the same series.

"I'll say this for him," Bush exclaimed. "He always stood up for his teammates on the field. He got us out of a lot of scrapes, but he got us into a lot of 'em, too."

Cobb was hated by opposing players and disliked by teammates. He preferred it that way. His only desire in baseball was to win. If this meant sliding into a base with spikes flashing or berating a fellow team member for mediocre playing, that's what he did.

Cobb was never included in the clubhouse camaraderie that usually exists between players on the same team.

"He liked to shoot dice," Bush said. "He didn't get invited very often. The Tigers respected Cobb's ability on the field, however, knew that without him they would be just another club."

That's why they went on strike in Philadelphia one time when Cobb was suspended.

"I was the cause of that," Bush declared. "And I believe that time Cobb was right. We were playing in New York and it had been raining."

"This guy in the third base box was on Cobb from the start. Late in the game Cobb and I were heading out to the field and this guy hollered something. I turned and said, 'Who're you shouting at?'"

"That so-and-so Cobb," he yelled. Ty turned and leaped the fence in front of the box and was all over the guy. The next day the papers made a big fuss about the fact that the fellow had only one arm. It didn't look that way from the field. He had a big overcoat on with one sleeve tucked in the pocket. It just looked like he had his hand in there."

The Tigers backed Cobb, threatened to strike if he was suspended. They took infield practice in Philadelphia the next day when word came that Cobb was banished.

"We just filed back to the dressing room," Bush recalled.

Loi Defends His Title Against Ortiz in Rome

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Dulio Loi will defend his world junior welterweight title against Carlos Ortiz, the ex-champ from New York, Wednesday at Milan, Italy in the third meeting of these two capable boxers.

Ortiz turned back Loi's challenge in San Francisco last June 15 but lost the crown to the Italian in Milan Sept. 1.

About 35,000 tickets have been sold for the third bout at the Milan Soccer Stadium which has a capacity of 65,000. The fight, originally scheduled for April 23, was rained out. The promoter had to wait until Wednesday to get another date in the stadium.

Zora Foley, the Phoenix, Ariz., heavyweight who is rated No. 3 by Ring and No. 4 by the National Boxing Association among Floyd Patterson's challengers, takes in Alejandro Lavarante, 24-year-old Argentine import, Thursday at Los Angeles.

As Patterson recently said all challengers in the top 10, except Sonny Liston and Eddie Machen, might be considered for a September title fight, Foley has new reason to hope. He can not afford to take lightly the Argentine.

Roland Lastarza, who once fought Rocky Marciano for the title and was knocked out in 1952, starts another comeback Monday in San Francisco where he will face Monroe Aratiff, former California light heavy champ.

Vince Martinez, another boxer who once fought for a world title and also was knocked out, headlined the Monday card at St. Nicholas Arena in New York against Miguel Angel Agiero, an Argentine making his U.S. debut. Martinez was stopped by Virgil Atkins in a title fight in 1958.

The Saturday night television (ABC) show comes from St. Nicholas Arena where Charley Scott of Philadelphia and Jose Gonzalez of Puerto Rico clash in a 10-round welterweight match.

The Geneva Redlegs find themselves dropped into a first-place tie with Olean today, thanks to Danny Eoff's second home run of the season.

Eoff smashed a leadoff homer in the bottom of the 10th inning Sunday night to give the Auburn Yanks an 8-7 victory after Geneva had pulled even in the ninth on Ken McCain's two-run pinch homer.

Olean, meanwhile, topped Batavia, 5-3; Wellsville dropped Erie, 10-8; and Jamestown rebounded to take a 10-1 second-game victory after Elmira won the opener of their doubleheader, 6-5.

Detroit Wins Doubleheader; Reds Sweep Milwaukee Twice

By JACK HAND

Associated Press Sports Writer

Detroit stretched its winning streak to five and opened a 2½ game lead in the American League Sunday by sweeping a doubleheader from the Chicago White Sox 8-6 and 5-3 as the New York Yankees lost 5-3 to Los Angeles.

In other Sunday games Cleveland and Washington split. The Indians took the first game 4-2 and Washington the second 4-3. Boston beat Minnesota 11-3 in a single and Kansas City beat Baltimore 5-1 in 10 innings in the first of a scheduled twin bill. The second game was rained out.

The Yankees, who live by the home run died by the home run over the weekend when the Angels beat them with their own weapon.

The friendly fences proved too handy for the Angels who hit seven home runs to the Yanks' four in the three-game series. Instead of a tape measure for Mickey Mantle's clouts they needed a statistician to figure that 0 for 11 dropped his average from .348 to .296.

Leon Wagner, rescued from the International League by his old boss, Manager Bill Rigney, drove in three runs with a two-run homer and double in a 5-3 Los Angeles victory Sunday. Wagner also hit two homers and a triple in Saturday night's Angel triumph.

Albie Pearson, who also homered Saturday, and Gene Lesh joined Wagner Sunday while Yogi Berra and Johnny Blanchard hit the ball out of the park for the Yanks.

Detroit's rollicking Tigers opened up a 2½ game lead while the Yanks were having their troubles on the West Coast. The Tigers bopped Chicago twice 8-6 and 5-3, running their own winning streak to five and the Sox' losing string to seven. The double defeat put Chicago into 10th and last place.

Rookie Chuck Schilling knocked in six runs with a grand slam homer and a two-run double in Boston's 11-9 decision over the Minnesota Twins. Harmon Killebrew homered twice for the Twins.

Kansas City shaded Baltimore 5-4 in 10 innings on Norm Siebern's single in the first game. Rain washed out the second.

Cleveland's Wynn Hawkins got the Tribe away to a 4-2 first game victory over Washington on a four-hitter. The Senators got an even break 4-3 on Gene Woodling's three-run homer, his second of the day, and Willie Tasby's clutch single.

Those Tigers show no signs of letting up. They haven't lost a series this year and slashed a total of 50 hits in a four-game sweep over the White Sox.

Roy Sievers hit two homers for the Sox in the opener, one of them with the bases full, but the Tigers came up with five in the seventh and scored the winning run on Bob Shaw's wild pitch.

Jake Wood added an insurance run with a homer in the eighth. Rocky Colavito homered in the second game as Phil Regan went all the way with an eight-hitter, beating Cal McLish.

Schilling was the big noise for the Red Sox with his grand slammer in the fourth and double in the eighth as Mike Fornieles won on relief over Camilo Pascual.

They started with five in the seventh in Kansas City but had to stop play in the third with the A's leading 2-0 because of the rain. Siebern's winning hit in the 10th inning of the first game followed a double by Jerry Lumpe and an error by Jackie Brandt.

Hawkins' victory in the first game was only the third complete game for the Cleveland staff this season. One of the four Washington hits was Woodling's first homer of the year. Woodling hit No. 2 off Jim Grant with two on in the sixth inning of the second game but Tasby's single in the eighth proved decisive.

Shepard Movies Record Flight Through Space

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—Color films taken by three automatic cameras in Alan B. Shepard Jr.'s space capsule are providing valuable information about his pioneering flight.

A still 70mm camera snapped pictures through the periscope which gave Shepard his "beautiful view" of the earth. A 16mm movie camera attached to the instrument panel recorded Shepard's facial reactions and hand movements. Another was aimed over his shoulder at the numerous lights and dials on the instrument panel.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration used the weekend released a few black and white prints from the periscope and pilot reaction cameras. The color negatives from which they were made were more detailed. One periscope shot showed the eastern coastline of the United States from the tip of Florida to Cape Hatteras, N.C., from an altitude of 90-100 miles. Several small clouds were visible.

This was taken about three minutes after launch, about the time Shepard called out by radio his now famous quote: "What a beautiful view."

Another periscope photo showed a small drogue parachute and its container drifting toward the ocean after they jettisoned from the spacecraft about nine minutes after launch. Shepard had shifted the periscope from "low" to "high" magnification for this shot.

The reaction camera located about four feet from Shepard's face produced 200 feet of film covering the entire ride. It took four frames a minute. Color film was used primarily for medical reasons. Doctors wanted to detect any skin color change during flight.

Clergyman Proposes End of State Bingo

NEW YORK (AP)—The Rev. Dr. Dan M. Potter, director of the Protestant Council of the City of New York, suggests that bingo be outlawed in New York State. Dr. Potter mentioned the bingo problem Sunday in an address at the annual communion breakfast of the St. George Association of the city police department. He called gambling the "philosophy of the criminal—getting something for nothing."

Later in an interview with a newsman, he suggested outlawing bingo games.

MEXICO, N. Y. (AP)—An early-morning fire destroyed the plant of the Mexico Food Locker Co. today. The loss, excluding contents, was estimated at $100,000.

Four fire companies battled the flames in the two-story frame building and prevented the fire from spreading to a lumber yard on Seneca Avenue in this Oswego County community.

The cause of the fire was not determined.

Airline Workers Return to Jobs, To Resume Talks

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—National Airlines' 4,000 employees are returning to work for resumption—set Wednesday—of service shut down a week ago by a machinists' strike.

National planned to announce schedules today for first flights over its 32-city system spanning the South from Houston, Tex., to Miami and along the Eastern seaboard to Boston.

"It takes longer to put an airline back in service than it does to shut it down," an NAL spokesman said.

Issues over which the International Association of Machinists walked out are not settled. The union and company agreed Sunday to submit them to binding arbitration as proposed by Secretary of Labor Arthur J. Goldberg, and meanwhile to resume work and operations.

Before the strike, the union said a new contract duration of 27 months and pay boosts for mechanics had been agreed on. The mechanics, who have been drawing $1.95 to $2.95 an hour, were to get 8 to 15 cents boosts.

The principle issue was whether stock clerks should be allowed to advance to higher pay classifications to which the union contended they are eligible by work performed.

Other points to be settled in arbitration by Nathan P. Feinsinger, a University of Wisconsin law professor, include seniority, severance pay, sick leave, and shift differentials.

The machinists represent most National Airlines ground workers. Their contract expired last October.

Firemen Respond 5 Times Saturday, Get Sunday Call

Firemen checked a house fire, responded to four other calls Saturday, two of them for automobile fires, and were called on another car fire Sunday.

A laundry room iron was reported as the cause of a second-floor fire in the house of John Raible, 71 East Chester Street Saturday afternoon. It damaged sections of walls, ceiling, flooring, curtains and the ironing board.

Units from Central and Wiltwyck stations and the Wicks Company answered an alarm from Box 3312, Clifton and Highland Avenues at 4:45 p. m.

A call at 6:10 p. m. was for a fire which damaged the rear seat of the car of Thomas Leahy, 295 Hasbrouck Avenue at that address. Another at 10:54 p. m. was for a fire caused by a car-burner backfire in the station wagon of James Plunkett, 316 Washington Avenue.

Brush fire calls were reported at 4:42 and 4:54 p. m., Saturday. The first was for an area near the end of Field Court, and the other was off Hooker Street.

A call at 7:40 a. m., Sunday was for a fire in the sedan of Albert Dunn, 4 Tietjen Avenue, which was used as a taxi. It caught fire in seat upholstery while it was in a garage. Firemen moved it out to check the blaze which caused considerable damage to the interior. A Central Station unit responded.

Two Turned Over To Albany Police

A Troy resident who said he was a parole violator and a local man, who, police said, kept a borrowed car too long were turned over to Albany authorities over the weekend.

Patrick J. Dwane, 30, of 540 Congress Street, Troy, notified police early Sunday that he was a parole violator and asked that he be picked up. Officers Robert Bonesteel and Robert Houghaling were dispatched to Broadway and Henry Street to oblige him.

Action by State Police Investigator Edward Shannon, local Detectives Albert Hutton and Leonard Ellsworth resulted in the arrest Saturday of William D. Raible, 28, of 71 East Chester Street, on a larceny charge. He was turned over to detectives Thomas Tansey and James Linden, of Albany.

Police said Raible is charged with having borrowed an automobile from a friend at the Veterans' Hospital, Albany, late last March and had not returned it.

Forest W. Brinkerhoff, 39, of 124 Wilbur Avenue, was arrested Sunday on a warrant executed by officers George Barringer and Thomas Coffey and charging third degree assault. His wife, Florence, was listed as complainant and City Judge Aaron E. Klein today put the case over to Tuesday night to permit him time to obtain counsel. He was released in his own recognizance until that time.
